North Carolina U. To Meet Spartan Debate Society

By Leonard Gotler

A debate team from the University of North Carolina will meet the University of Tampa Debate Society at 8 o'clock on Friday evening, May 6, in the Assembly Room of the University. Present plans call for the use of Tampa's affirmative team. Prominent Tampons will serve as judges.

Monday afternoon, May 2, the Society will hold a non-decision debate with the University of Miami.

Each year, one intercollegiate debate topic is decided upon by the Speech Association of America. The topic this year has been "Federal Aid to Education." This system of concentrating on one subject is a time-saving device which permits the college debate groups to conduct many debates.

The Tampa Debate Society will present a demonstration debate next Tuesday before the monthly meeting of the Hillsborough County Council, a branch of the P.T.A. The meeting will be held at Mitchell School at 8:00 P.M.

Last Friday the Tampons debated West Palm Beach Junior College here in Tampa. This was a decision debate, with the visitors taking the first round and Tampa copping the second. Tampons on the negative team in the first debate were Laura Meadows and Robbins Denham. Participants in the second were Evelyn Tagliarini and Bill Benson. Chairmen of the two rounds were Bill Benson and Glen Poucher.

Participants in the debate with the University of Florida, which was held here in the Assembly Room before a large audience, were Glen Poucher and Josephine Parente. Tampa took the negative point of view and was defeated. The judge was Mr. Harold Middle, a local attorney and a graduate of Northwestern University.

In each instance, the visiting teams were impressed with the hospitality shown them. They were taken on tours of the University and of the City of Tampa.

Southern Musicians Have Festival Here

The University of Tampa's music studios were crowded this week by visiting participants in the Music Festival of the Florida Vocal Association and the Southern Educators' Conference.

The festival opened Monday at the Municipal Auditorium with 57 junior and senior high schools vying for contest ratings.

Prof. Stephen R. Park, composer and member of the University of Tampa faculty, was selected as one of the contest judges. He reviewed contestants during the early part of this week.

Music education students of the University joined with students from other colleges in the Southern states for a discussion of their mutual interests. They met as a division of the Music Educators' Conference at the Florian Hotel on Wednesday.

The convention activities in Tampa were attended by more than 3000 pupils, directors, members, chaperones, and judges. Climax of the week's activities was a mass vocal and orchestral concert at the Fort Homer Hesterly Armory, Wednesday night at 8:30 o'clock.

The Southern Music Educators will remain in conference sessions through Saturday.

Dr. Nance Will Return To Tampa Next Week

Dr. E. C. Nance, who has been under the doctor's care in Glendale, Calif., is expected to return to Tampa on May 1.

He went to Seattle, Wash., last weekend and then returned to Glendale.

Art Department Paints Murals For Children's Home

The Art Department of the University of Tampa has been commissioned to paint a series of individual murals for the Children's Home of Tampa. This work is being done under the supervision of Professor Norman Borchardt, head of the Art Department. The paintings will be hung by Mrs. R. J. Binniker, one of the Home's patronesses. It was Mrs. Binniker who first approached Prof. Borchardt with the plan. The Art Department, said Borchardt, would be glad to do the murals. They will stress the relationship between the public and art.

The murals will be used to explain and tell several of the old nursery rhymes that are so common to children. They will be hung in the nursery of the Home for the children who have not yet reached the reading stage. The murals will be done in gouche and will be 32 inches by 40. The Art Department will begin work as soon as they have completed the job of painting stage backdrops for the "Minaret" Fashion show, which should be some time next week.

U-T Plays Host To Internship Group

The Area Internship Conference, called by Mrs. Eunah Holden, consultant in Internship and teacher Recruitment of the State Department of Education, was held at the University of Tampa, April 20.

Meeting with the heads of the education departments of the University, Stetson and Florida State Universities, were supervisors and principals of Hillsborough County schools and approximately 85 teachers from ten counties in this area who act as directing teachers in the internship program.

The conference, presided over by Mrs. Holden, heard a report on Internship Teaching and how to help practice teaching. This was followed by a general discussion of the internship program.

The afternoon session was devoted to sectional meetings.

Beaux - Arts Ball Tonite Will Feature Floor Show And Two Orchestras

By Leonard Brown

Draw a circle around April 30—that's the date for four of the most funful hours you're likely to enjoy in a long, long time—the date of Rho Nu Delta's third annual Beaux-Arts Ball.

It's easily the dance of the year—the dance that has everything—and plenty of it.

There'll be music—to listen to—to dance to. Everything from gracious melodies of yesteryear, played by Professor Wiltse's string ensemble, to the hottest swing, a la Victor Ruiz.

There'll be a floor show, presented by a talented troupe of Arthur Murray entertainers. There'll be the swank and swish of a Grand March to start things rolling.

The Beaux-Arts Ball is not just an ordinary dance. It is a gay setting for the display of examples of the fine arts. The walls of the lobby will be lined with top samples of the superb collection of paintings and objects d'art of the Tampa Art Institute. Guests are invited to enter the University through the Tampa Art Museum, where guides will be provided to point out the treasured pictures and pieces displayed.

Another extra—you can either come "formal," or give your imagination a workout and rig up a costume. Any kind of costume—it doesn't have to be of any particular period. In former years, the Beaux-Arts Ball has been centered about the re-living of the days of the old Tampa Bay Hotel's heyday—but this year, anything goes—from a fig leaf to a suit of armor!

The ball will be held in the University's main lobby, which will be converted into a cabaret-type hall, and in the ballroom, where the string ensemble will play and the

Miss Jones Returns From Convention In 'Windy City'

Miss Thelma Jones, University of Tampa's Dean of Women, returned last Saturday from Chicago, where she attended two conventions of college and university educators.

The first convention was held at the Congress Hotel by the Conference on Higher Education. This organization is one of the departments of the National Education Association, and 701 delegates were present. These college presidents, deans, and administrators convened for the purpose of gleaming the experiences of the nation's institutions concerning administrative, student, and curricula problems.

Representatives in each section were divided into smaller committees to simplify the discussions. In Miss Jones' opinion, it was the expert organization of the conference.

Dean Asks Students To Register Early

The Office of the Dean of Administration has issued several announcements of interest to the student body.

Students are urged to register immediately if they plan to attend the Summer and/or Fall sessions. Only a limited number of students will be accepted and openings are being filled rapidly.

A list has been posted on the bulletin board of students whose pictures do not appear on their permanent record cards. If your name is on this list, you are requested to have your photo made at Hayden Studio. (If you hurry, the school will foot the bill).

Graduate record examinations for all seniors are scheduled for April 30 and May 7, in the Library and the Riverview Auditorium.

Grand March will be held. Victor Ruiz' orchestra will play in the lobby for dancing from 10 p. m., till the close of the dance at 1 a. m.

Admission will be $1 a couple—with proceeds going to Rho Nu Delta's scholarship fund. Anthony Leto, former Jefferson High School honor student, now attending the University on a one-year scholarship, is the first to have benefited from the student aid award.

Don't forget—the date is Saturday, April 30—the place is the University's ballroom and main lobby—the time, 9 p. m., till 1 a. m.—the dress, formal or costume.

Ferguson And Ferman Are New U-T Trustees

Two new members have been pointed to the Board of Trustees of the University of Tampa to fill out the unexpired terms of Karl Bickle, resigned, and the late Ernest Maas.

The two new members are Chester H. Ferguson, a Tampa attorney, whose term will expire in May, 1950, and James L. Ferman, of the Ferman Chevrolet Co., whose term will expire in May, 1949.

The next convention was a joint meeting of the National Association of Deans of Women and professionals in personnel work and guidance. Headquarters for this conference was the Stevens Hotel. The groups were addressed by many famous speakers and writers on subjects pertaining to the guidance of young people in college, student problems, etc.

While in Chicago, Miss Jones visited the speech and drama department at Northwestern University and also attended a class in dramatic improvisation at one of the most active and most completely equipped community theaters in Chicago. She attended two performances at the Goodman Theater, which is one branch of the school of fine arts at the Art Institute of Chicago, and also visited the campus of the University of Chicago and the drama and music departments at Roosevelt College.

Something new has been established in the music department. To the joy of the piano students, there will be a series of private (not open to the public) recitals. The purpose of these events will be to help the piano students overcome the nervous attacks that accompany each recital. The recitals hope to give the student the necessary confidence and skill that is required of a pianist when playing for a group of people.

The recitals will be extremely informal, and after the student has performed he can sit back and enjoy the music of others.

There is something brewing in the Minaret Office. Staff members are beating a trodden path between the University and O.Falk's Department Store. And, would you like to know why? Because the news about to be released is the biggest story since the California Gold Rush.

On May 21, at 8:30 P.M., the curtain at the Womens Club Auditorium will go up on the first "Follies Bazaar." "Follies Bazaar" is a fashion show and revue; that is, a modern version of a Zigfield Follies. There will be male and female models; there will be music, song, and dancing; there will be a chorus line; there will be bathing suits; and there will be you—helping to raise the funds for endowment.

Mr. Nat Allen, of O. Falk's has been most gracious in helping us, and he is going to bring the latest of fashions from New York for our models to wear. Mr. Borchardt is seeing that our props get made and professionally painted. And we hope that you, as members of the student body, will invest $60 for a good cause, and an evening of top-notch caliber.

These meetings are held once each semester at one of the universities or colleges in the state.

Lectures, conferences, workshops, and discussions have been planned to the delegates can pool their ideas and experiences. They will be brought up-to-date on the latest advances in the field of journalism and will discuss problems of student government.

Joan Schwab, Madge Kleinhammer, and Winnie Lamb will represent the Moroccan. The Minaret will send Bruce Atkins, Leonard Gotler, Florine Fleischman, Tom Plessner, and Irving Edelson.

The Student Senate will be represented in Miami by Bob Hancock, Tony Ippolito, Pat Waldrop, Warren White, Bill Benson, Owen Keene, and Dick Saxon.

Only Two Candidates In Running So Far, But Others Are Expected To File Petitions

As The Minaret went to press, only two students had announced their candidacy for student body elections, which are scheduled for Friday, May 13.

Positions to be filled include that of Student Body President and all Senior, Junior, and Sophomore offices. Prospective candidates must pick up their petitions at the Dean's Office on Thursday, May 5, obtain the required number of signatures, and return the petitions to the Dean by Saturday noon.

Bob Hancock has announced his intention to run for the office of Student Body President, and Ted Conover will be a candidate for Sophomore president. Additional students, however, are expected to file petitions for these and other offices.

BOB HANCOCK

Bob Hancock, who is the present Junior Class Representative to the Student Council, said that his decision to run for the office of Student Body President came after "a long period of thought and deliberation."

In his formal statement to The Minaret, Hancock wrote that he "will, if elected, continue to serve each member of the student body, whether Greek Letter member or not, to the utmost of my ability." He further added, "I am not running on a ticket or depending on any organization for my election. I have no special favors to ask of anyone nor have I had any requests made of me. As a member of the Student Council during the past year, I have not acted with the thought in mind to build up personal prestige, but have always worked for the benefits of the student body individually and as a group. I sincerely ask each voter before he casts his ballot, that he give careful thought to the people he desires to represent him next year."

Fifteen Students To Represent Tampa At Miami Confab

Fifteen students will represent the University of Tampa at Barry College in Miami next week as delegates to a joint convention of the Florida Student Government Association and the Florida Intercollegiate Press Association.

These meetings are held once each semester at one of the universities or colleges in the state.

Lectures, conferences, workshops, and discussions have been planned to the delegates can pool their ideas and experiences. They will be brought up-to-date on the latest advances in the field of journalism and will discuss problems of student government.

Joan Schwab, Madge Kleinhammer, and Winnie Lamb will represent the Moroccan. The Minaret will send Bruce Atkins, Leonard Gotler, Florine Fleischman, Tom Plessner, and Irving Edelson.

"I am a Navy veteran who served as a Signaller aboard two destroyers in the Pacific during World War II. I have been active in campus activities as a member of Kappa Sigma Kappa, Inter-Faith Council, Moroccan staff, Alpha Psi Omega, "313" Masquers, Minaret staff, Psi Mu Alpha, Pan-Hellenic Council, Student Senate, Baptist Student Union, University Broadcasting Service, Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, University Chorus, Spartan Troupers, and the Florida Student Government Association. I have also participated three years in intramural sports."

TED CONOVER

Ted M. Conover announces his candidacy for president of the Sophomore Class for the coming year.

Ted was born in Jackson, Michigan in 1925. In the winter of '42 he left high school and entered the service, where he served as gunner's mate during his three years of duty.

On returning from service, Ted decided that education was foremost and entered the American Disabled Veteran's Institute to complete his high school training. On graduating, he began his college work at Michigan State University.

After a year of study Ted decided that greater happiness and warmer weather were to be found at the University of Tampa. He entered school last fall and says he is very well pleased with the progress of the school and the enthusiasm shown by everyone. At the present time he is a pledge of the Tau Omega Fraternity. He is majoring in English and is planning a career of Travel Lecturer.

Ted wishes it thoroughly understood that his policy is to work for the betterment of the school through immediate action placed on cooperation and workmanship of students and faculty members.

James Whitehead Goes To Washington Meeting

James Whitehead, Director of Public Relations, is now in Washington, D.C., for a convention of the American Collegiate Public Relations Association. He left last Monday and will remain in Washington for about a week.

The University of Tampa is a member of District Five of the Association. Delegates from other district colleges were guests of Tampa U. for their convention in February.

Miss Pat Waldrop, left, and Miss Sue Turkel, both of The Minaret staff, are making plans with Mr. Nat Allen, of O.Falk's, for a benefit fashion show. The idea originated with Miss Turkel, and all proceeds will go to the Endowment Fund.

THE MINARET

The Minaret is the official publication of the student body of the University of Tampa. It is published bi-weekly during the school year at no cost to the student body.
The staff welcomes comments and criticisms. Address all correspondence to The Minaret, room 209, University of Tampa, Tampa, Florida.

Dangerous Living . . .

Frequent are the times that we have desired to step out of our everyday pattern and attempt something that proves dangerous and exciting, never caring for a moment what the outcome might be. Not a day goes by that we do not read in our local newspapers of accidents and fatalities caused by juvenile delinquents and adults alike trying to brush aside our regular routines and going out to seek adventure and intrigue—not knowing that many fatal results occur as the results of these silly impulses.

The hospitals are full of innocent people who were injured by way of someone foolishly pointing a gun at someone and not knowing it was loaded—then pulling the trigger; or, because some "Sunday driver" got off track and decided to drown his sorrows in a bottle of John Barleycorn and drive at the same time; or—some school kids who decided it would be fun to burn down a couple of palm trees and in the process were badly burned because of flying sparks.

These are just a few of the many incidents that happen everyday of our life. Some are plastered all over the newspapers and others are kept secret. And if you still insist on going on a binge to have a little excitement, then wander with us down the street of a town called Somewhere, USA, and we shall attend a club meeting composed of several college kids.

It is a pale summer evening and we are standing among the club members who are debating how to initiate a certain person into the club by using rough tactics on him. The nominee is not well liked among the crowd and his only reason for being asked to join was to make him the scapegoat of the club. They have decided that their other initiations have been a little too easy with not enough excitement. As you can plainly see, they are just a bunch of school kids who have not yet learned the values of things in life other than the price of a package of cigarettes. Let us move in a little closer now and hear what their leader had to say:

I think we ought to turn to a rugged initiation this time as that fellow we are putting in the club is not liked very much. We can use him as an experiment for us to have a good time with a lot of excitement. So let us devise a new means of initiation on him—something that he will never forget! A chorus of "ayes" and "yesses" echo through the dry air.

After quite a bit of planning, they decided to hold the initiation Friday night. We find them digging a small pit five feet deep and approximately three feet across. The unsuspecting victim is to walk the plank over the pit and someone is elected to push him in. But what he also does not know is that the pit has been strewn with broken bottles, tin cans and the like. The gang added these few minor details in order to make the initiation a little more fun and exciting. Everything is ready for the fateful Friday night except for the choice of the one to push the boy unwillingly into the pit. Yes! they need an executioner—A person who will push an innocent victim into this man-made "hell-hole."

Ah-hah—an executioner has been chosen and it is YOU! But you don't stop to think what would happen if the boy were to get hurt. No—you are having too much fun to stop and linger awhile over the fact that something serious could pop up. And if the boy were to get hurt YOU as a mass would be held responsible. But after all, who is safe in the hands of an irresponsible and ignorant mob!

Let us pretend that you are a part of the mob. Friday night arrives, bringing with it a sense of morbidity and a feeling of anxiety. We all stand huddled around a small fire that has been effected to create a weird sort of atmosphere. Our leader addresses the innocent, now humbled boy. The leader reads

Bring Back The Radio Forum . . .

Why not seek a return of the radio forum that was held here a year ago under the auspices of the University of Tampa Chamber of Commerce?

With the state legislature considering such important measures as an increase in city and county endowments to the university and with other important educational legislation being debated, it appears to us that now is an excellent time for a revival of the radio forum.

You will recall that the program, which was modeled after the "round table" of the University of Chicago, was broadcast on Saturday evenings by a local station. Interesting topics of the day, of local value, were discussed in an informal manner by selected members of the University of Tampa faculty and by prominent members of the Tampa Chamber of Commerce. Prof. Roy A. McGillivray organized the forum a year ago and did much toward making it a successful and popular radio feature.

Professor McGillivray believes that the program could be revived and with cooperation on the part of members of the Tampa Chamber of Commerce it could once more be broadcast.

He feels that more time should be expended, however, so that the programs could be better planned and a more interesting schedule of subjects be arranged. With long-range planning started now, he thinks that a successful series of broadcasts could be presented next fall.

We believe this is an excellent means of creating a closer relationship between the University and the community, and we urge school officials to give the idea earnest consideration.

off a small list of things the boy is to do, and after these have been performed the finale is then made ready.

As the youth slowly and tirelessly creeps across the plank that is to lead his way over the dark and deep pit into freedom, YOU, the executioner, reach out and push him in. There is a shrill scream and then SILENCE! But why is everyone so quiet? Have they at last realized the danger of this last venture? Or do they suspect he is hurt?

Regaining our senses, we dash over to the "hole" and pull the poor fellow out. His clothes are torn to rags and he is cut and bleeding. The mother of one of the clubmen hears the scream and comes running to the scene. Frightened at the horrible sight that meets her eyes, she immediately calls an ambulance. In several minutes, it arrives. Two men in white jump out and put the semi-conscious boy on a stretcher and wheel him into the car.

With the siren fading in the distance, we stand whitefaced and frightened. And as we solemnly gaze into each other's eyes, we think back and wish that we would never have started this. But it is too late now, and as we leave this gruesome scene we will always have hidden somewhere in our mind the horrible happening that occurred, all because we wanted to act dangerously just once.

And now I leave you with a little moral to this story, given to the world by William Shakespeare—

"What fools we mortals be."

—F.L.F.

That Lost Hour . . .

"I wish I could find the time to complete this term paper." Does this statement sound familiar? It should, for every student writes a term paper at least once in his college career, and about seventy five percent put it off till the last minute, thinking that tomorrow will be plenty of time.

If we sat down and had a heart to heart talk with ourselves over the time we waste, either playing cards down in the Cafeteria or hanging around the lobby making a general fool of ourselves, we would realize that a great number of hours are lost in which we could be doing something constructive. Remember, once that hour or two is lost, it never will return when we need it most.

Procrastination seems to be the general theme. John won't prepare that speech tonight . . . he doesn't have to have it ready for three days . . . why not see that show at the Park . . . after all, students get in for forty cents now. And as he makes the same old excuse every night, the date for that speech finally comes due, and John isn't prepared. Result—an F; or maybe the Prof. is kind by nature and gives him another day, so John works like the devil the next night and brings in a rough and haphazardly prepared speech for presentation. What satisfaction does this get him? Nothing except maybe a fair mark, and lost hours in which he could have been preparing a good speech. The result would have been, most likely, a higher mark and an inner feeling of self reliance. No movie can give a student that.

Now you may be thinking that I am wasting time by writing this article. Well, I am; I should be studying English for tomorrow, and I realize that I am putting off work that must be done. I think that if we just forcefully say "I am going to do my homework tonight," our work will improve and we truly will feel more relieved the next day, going to classes with our assignments prepared.

Remember, attending University is a business, and should be organized and planned, just like a well-functioning business should. We will reap the dividends, both now and in the future.

Commencement Started Here 14 Years Ago

June 11, 1935, marked a milestone in the history of the University of Tampa. On this date, the President of the University of Tampa, Frederick H. Spaulding, awarded degrees to the senior class of 12 who had completed the first four-year course offered by the School.

The presentation of degrees established a precedent that has been carried out these past years, and also presented to the people of Tampa an opportunity to witness a full-fledged commencement exercise in their own home town. During the three-day program, all of the ceremony and dignity that is connected with graduation festivities of older schools of the country, was observed. Baccalaureate service were attended on Sunday, June 9, and Class Day as observed on June 10.

The baccalaureate service was held in the assembly room of the University. After extending a word of welcome President Spaulding introduced the speaker for the occasion, Rabbi David L. Zielonka of Schaari Zedek Temple. Rabbi Zielonka said that there should be no mourning for the graduates and that the experience of going out into the world in the hard times should be accepted as a challenge to living. "Graduates will be called on for a reaffirmation in the faith of man, courage, vision, industry, knowledge, and understanding, and the retaining of a nature characteristic or ideal born of religion," he said. "You will be called upon to show visions in your outlook to the future."

During the Class Day observance, Miss Dorothy Pou gave the senior class oration, which was followed by the traditional planting of ivy. The seniors were guests at a luncheon given by the fraternal orders of the school, and this was followed by a class reception given by the members of the faculty. The members of the senior class had a banquet that evening.

Forming for the closing ceremony at the casino, the senior class then moved slowly across the campus and through the main building to the assembly room, just an hour before noon, to get their degrees from president Spaulding.

After the presentation of degrees, president Spaulding introduced the speaker, the Hon. Doyle E. Carlton, former governor of Florida.

Presbyterian Union Has Swim Party And Picnic

The Presbyterian Student Union held their mid-semester picnic and swimming party two weeks ago on White Trout Lake at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. George Lenfesty. In spite of the late afternoon shower which temporarily held up the hamburger fry, everyone enjoyed a swell meal and had lots of fun.

The regular meeting of the Union was scheduled for Tuesday, April 26, at 11:30 in the club room over the library. All members and all Presbyterian students were urged to attend. Luncheon was served at 11:45.

Sixty Students Owe Parking Fines That Must Be Paid

The Student Senate's newly organized traffic commission reports that approximately 60 people owe fines that have not been paid or seen about. If they are not taken care of before final exams, violators will not be permitted to take their finals.

A list of violators will be posted on the bulletin board and everyone is urged to check this list in case of mistakes. If you feel that your name should not be on the list, you should consult with members of the traffic commission whose headquarters are in the Student Senate Office.

The parking situation is greatly improved, but work is still in the balance to obtain more parking space.

Watching The Girls On The Beach — Or —

DROOL IN THE SUN

By Tony Dorio

Ah, Spring. I'm glad that Spring is here again. In the Spring, a young man's fancy lightly turns to what some girl has been thinking about all Winter. Oh, it's great to be half alive in the Spring. Great to see the buds budding, the breezes breezing the men womening. And these hot Spring days. Why it's so hot that I licked a three-cent stamp and George Washington told me "thanks".

I went swimming yesterday afternoon to escape this hot weather. And after seeing some of the bathing suits out at the beach—does anyone know of a good Turkish bath where I can cool off?

I didn't see enough of what they were wearing to know what they were wearing. You need an imagination from imagining what you shouldn't imagine. But it was pleasant. The aroma of burnt backs, the white sandy beach, men wading for their wives. Kids running in and out of the water.

I rarely go in. I wait until some kid runs over me and then I take my towel and wipe myself off. People are so friendly out at the beach. I fell asleep. When I woke, I found I was the table at a bridge game. I didn't mind too much until

In his address to the graduates and a large group of friends and relatives, he said that the graduates must carry their own weight.

The former governor warned that the future of the nation and its opportunities for progress lay in the hands of the college graduates of today. "Progress is the king of today," he said.

"Beware of foolish facts, of isms, and of every sort of movement that will not stand the test. Communism destroys the finest American principle, personal responsibility.

a fellow made a grand slam.

I met one of those women life-guards. She was easy to recognize. She was the only girl on the beach wearing a SOUTHERN STYLE bathing suit—show 'nuff. I started to write a letter and she almost broke my neck—trying to rescue me. I was writing with one of those under-water pens. She left me to rescue another fellow. Then she came to me, tired and weary. I tried to make an impression. I told her about my nylon factory and she told me about her shirt factory she had inherited. It was fun lying on the beach.

Some bruiser sat down next to her and tried to be overly—friendly. He put his hand on her knee, and she slapped him. They kept it up for a minute. She asked me if I were going to do anything. I told her I was. I hope she isn't killed before I finish my Atlas course.

It started to rain and everyone dashed for the bath-houses. I don't blame them. With the bathing suits they were wearing, they couldn't take a chance on shrinkage. Ah, these new handkerchief bathing suits at the beaches—every time I blew my nose, some girl jumped out of her skin—my face was so red, I was investigated by an Un-American Committee.

I met my first girl friend at the beach. Romance was in the air, my heart was in the clouds, her hands it alarms her. I asked her for some were in my pockets. When I met old-fashioned loving, so she introduced her, she had just baked herself in duced me to her grandmother—she the sun for six hours so she could had a grandmother that was crazy be the toast of the town. We spent about Old Grand-dad. She was many sunny days on the beach. I ninety years old and didn't use was having a swell time teaching glasses—she drank right out of the her how to swim until the life-bottle.

My girl friend calls me a wolf—into the water. I used to make love you know what a wolf is—it's one to her over the phone. Finally, too who knows all the ankles. But I many people objected, and we had know that she's wrong, because to get out of the booth. My girl al-Chase and Sanborn are the world's ways calls me CLOCK: because greatest wolves—they date every my hands go around her so fast bag.

Betty Blitch New Home Ec Club Prexy

Betty Blitch has been elected president of the Home Economics Club, and other new officers who will assume their duties the first of May are Maporie Oglesby, vice-president; Carol Barnes, secretary; and Betty Penia, the reporter.

Plans were made at the last meeting for an installation ceremony, to be followed by a buffet supper. Mrs. Allene King, of Tampa Electric Co., presided over the installation of officers on Thursday, April 28.

The Home Economics Department participated in the recent health clinic which was held in the assembly room of the University. Home Ec Club members also helped prepare and serve breakfast to the University of Tampa alumnae during the state teachers' convention here recently.

One more club meeting will be held in May, at which time members will discuss projects for the next year.

Aviation Program Lists Requirements For Commissions

Are you almost ready to graduate? If so, you are about to complete one of the requirements of the Navy's ensign aviator program.

You are eligible if you are between 19 and 25 years old, if you are an American citizen, either native born or naturalized for 10 years, and if you can successfully meet the mental, moral and physical standards.

If you can qualify, you will receive a direct commission as an ensign, U.S. Navy, and go to the Navy's "Annapolis of the Air" at Pensacola, Fla. There you will receive approximately 18 months flight training, with full pay — $291 a month without dependents, or $372 with dependents.

The training period is divided into pre-flight, basic flight and advanced training.

Pre-flight training of about 16 weeks will include the principals of flight theory, navigation, aerology and aviation communications, as well as a basic military and athletic program.

Next comes basic flight—about eight months of learning to fly the Navy's two-seat basic trainers. Ground courses continue, but you spend about 170 hours in the air, learning formations, cross-country and night and instrument flying.

On completion of basic flight training, you change stations for four months of advanced training in combat-type planes. To the greatest possible extent you are given your choice between specializing in the Navy's two and four-engine aircraft and specializing in the single-engine carrier planes.

If you are selected for multi-engine training, you put in 150 hours of air time and then are ready for assignment to a Fleet Air Wing. Single-engine pilots log 115 hours and then return to Pensacola for an additional two weeks, qualifying in carrier deck landings for duty in and Air Group of the Fleet.

Carrier advantages include:

1. A guaranteed lifetime income with liberal retirement provisions. And as a Naval Aviator, you receive an additional 50 per cent of your base pay as flight pay.
2. Regular promotions and pay increases.
3. Retirement with pay at the end of 20 years or more of service.
4. Thirty days vacation each year, with full pay.
5. Free medical and hospital care for yourself and your family.

Full details and application forms are available at the Navy Recruiting Station, Tampa, or at the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, Atlanta, Ga.

Folders describing the aviator's program can be obtained at the Dean of Men's office.

Florine Fleischman—OFF TO THE RACES

Last week, yours truly took you on a trip to the South Pacific, and the response to that article was so great that this week we shall take the afternoon off and go to the big car auto races, where there is never a dull moment from start to finish. What are we waiting for? Our private bus awaits to take us to the speedway track, so grab your colored caps and put on your best blue jeans 'cause we are "off to the races!"

As the bus nears the track, the mighty roar of the powerful motors can be heard as they turn the track to warm up. The dirt can be seen flying through the air as the narrow wheels of the graceful racers lightly glide over the good earth. Our bus lets us off at the gate and we excitedly make our way to the inside—edged on by the thronging crowds. We sit high in the stands shaded by the strong steel roof and lead over our "programs." Glancing around, we see a wide variety of colored shirts and matching caps entangled among a few platform shoes and dressy dresses with a slight dash of tweed and herringbone.

With the time trials getting underway now, the smell of burnt rubber combined with a tincture of Benzine, used to make the cars go faster, speedily reaches our nostrils and we seem to stagger dizzily with anxiety. The idea of the time trials is to qualify the fastest cars for the main event—the 15 lap feature. Each lap is a half mile and when these speedy and powerful cars get out there and vie for first, second, and third positions no one can dope the outcome.

Say! there's Homer, the hot dog man down in the pits and Clarence the "coke" man. I wonder if they ever get to actually see action for action each race? Now that you have met them, you may as well meet a few more characters that go into the composition of a race track. After the races you can go down into the pits and meet the drivers, their managers and mechanics. Then there is the "starter"—who flags the chauffeurs and their souped up cars on down the straightaway and goes on to give them the checkered flag that symbolizes victory! And of course we can't leave out the announcer who keeps us informed when an accident occurs or when a driver streaks across the finish line.

There are three races or heats. In each one of these heats, those placing first, second, and third are automatically qualified for the final and main event—the Feature. Those not placing anything in the first three races are then thrown into the Consolation race, and those placing first, second, or third in this are also put into the final race.

In the first heat six speedy cars are given the green flag and as they hit the south turn of the track they are bunched into one seemingly solid mass. But as they leave the turn for the straightaway they have regained their positions. After a blazing performance, we settle back and breathe a little easier. The second and third heats go off fine and there are plenty of thrills and chills, but luckily no spills!

The consolation proves interesting, even though it appears slower than the other heats. Now—for the main event of the day! Yes—the 15 lap feature, made up of the twelve fastest cars in the field.

Gads! Amazing how everyone seems to sit and wait, looking calm on the outside, but yet on the inside they know that in this race anything can happen! "Old Faithful," the water truck, goes out on the track and wets it down so as to keep the dirt from flying when the racers zoom over it.

The cars and chauffeurs qualifying line up in conventional order on the smooth and fast track. The tow trucks pull them off and the cars go a few laps to warm up. In order to make it more colorful, the cars ride an extra lap in single file order around the half mile oval and the spectators cheer them on. Then they pull back in order and brace themselves for the coming laps.

Everything is quiet. No one dares to say anything, for the tension mounting in the air is terrific. As we look down into the north turn the noses of the slim and sleek cars appear over the horizon. SILENCE—except for the powerful and loud bellowing of the tired and worn engines. Then the starter drops the green flag and the race is on. There is a mighty thundering as the cars hurl themselves into the south turn but break even as they head out into the straightaway. A mad host of shouts is heard among the crowd as they cheer their favorites on. "Frankie," "Jimmy," "Harry," "Speed," and others. The halfway mark has been reached and the gas is burning fast. One of the cars broadsides into the turn and right into the path of an oncoming car. But due to great skill and heavy braking, the oncoming car narrowly misses the other racer who now pulls back into the race. Man—those drivers have what it takes and more!

The crowd is now standing as the white flag is given to the lead car—this signifies one more lap to go—Now there are three huddled together—each fighting for first place and first money. Yet, each driver knows that only one car can take first place and therefore each depends on his car, speed, and ability to handle it. The starter is waving the well-known black and white checkered flag as the three cars come tearing down the stretch—but one car suddenly shoots out past the other two and zooms right over the finish line. The shouting of the crowd is almost unbearable.

Now as we leave this place we look and in our memory remember the kids in the dungarees and slacks, bright shirts and gayly colored hats; the kindly gentleman, wearing the red satin cap, who goes every Sunday to root for "Frankie," and the girl who cheers "Pancho" on knowing that he eventually will come in.

All these things and many others make us want to come back sometime and spend another enjoyable day at the auto races.

Phalanx Club Forms Branch At Y.M.C.A.

A branch of the national Phalanx Club is being organized at the Y.M.C.A. This club aims at the betterment of conditions in Tampa and more recreation for the underprivileged boys of this area.

Also, all members are privileged to use the recreational facilities of the "Y". Meetings are held at the Y.M.C.A. each Tuesday evening at six o'clock, and all those interested in joining are cordially invited to attend the next meeting. In doing so, you are placed under no obligation whatsoever.

The Phalanx Club is backed by the business men of Tampa and is nationally recognized. This week the guest speaker will be Mr. Magnon, President of the Y.M.C.A. If you are interested, contact Mr. A. E. Olson, Y.M.C.A. secretary.

ZDP Will Have Party For Members

Pledges of the Zeta Delta Phi Sorority will entertain members Monday evening, May 2, with a dinner at the Las Novedades Restaurant. Following the dinner, an informal party will be held at the Leisure House.

An informal initiation and date party for ZDP pledges will be held on Friday, May 13, at Lake Iola, home of Miss Rita Ward.

Members, pledges and dates will enjoy an afternoon of swimming and picnic refreshments before the initiation ritual is held.

Mothers of the Zeta Delta Phi Sorority will be honored at an annual Mother's Day Tea to be held in the Girls' Dormitory Lounge at the University from 3 to 5 P.M. May 8. Refreshments will be served and a simple program of music will be given.

AG Members Entertain Pledges

During the recent beach parties, the Alpha Gamma Sorority set a precedent by the members entertaining their pledges. Most of the housework and preparation of meals was done by the members and officers rather than by the pledges.

On Saturday morning, the AG's were treated to a breakfast by the Kappa Sigma Kappa. That evening the sorority entertained members of that fraternity with a buffet supper.

An open-house atmosphere prevailed throughout the week-end and members, pledges, and visiting alumnae entertained numerous friends. Mrs. Agee chaperoned the sorority.

The pledges will honor members and their dates with a party in the near future before the informal initiation, which is also an approaching event.

Glory From The Gridiron

Spartans Dump Gators 7-4 in Storybook Finish

By Irving Edelson

Felix Jappe, hard hitting University of Tampa shortstop, enabled his team to rap out a 7-4 win over the Florida Gator nine by swatting a 380 foot homer over the centerfield fence of Cuscaden Park in the ninth inning of the contest on April 14.

There were two men down and two on base with the score knotted at four apiece when Jappe came to the plate and took the swing that saved the day.

The Gator team was held to seven hits by the hurling of Tampa's Tom Spicola who went the distance for the winners and took credit for the win.

Weisman and Adams shared mound duties for the visitors when the former was driven to the showers in the last frame by local batters. The Cigar City "9" collected seven bingles from the rival pitchers.

Florida picked up a run in the initial inning and three more in a fold third frame, and from there on were held scoreless by the Tampa moundsmen.

Coach Masada's players tallied three times in the sixth inning but still trailed until their last frame four-run explosion.

The two teams will compete in a return engagement on May 17 at Gainesville.

Two T.U. Gridders Awarded Trophies

John Malczewski and Holland Aplin recently received the two top awards given to the best performers of the 1948 Spartan gridiron might. The honors were bestowed at a banquet given in their honor.

John Malczewski, rough and tumble tackle who hails from the fair state of Alabama, received the distinction of being selected as the outstanding defensive player on the squad.

Holland Aplin, who amazed local fans last fall with his tricky end-around runs, passing, and high leaping catches, was named the top offensive member of the University of Tampa eleven. Aplin is a native of Tampa.

Malczewski was honored with the Steinberg trophy while the Elks award was given to Aplin.

Both of these boys will return to the playing field in September to give Tampa's opponents a taste of Spartan playing. These boys spell T-E-R-R-O-R to opposing lines.

Tar Hurler Shines As Locals Lose, 4-1

The Rollins Tars of Winter Park, Florida, continued their dominating streak over Florida teams by a 4-1 victory over the University of Tampa Spartans, made possible by the brilliant two-hit pitching job of Clyde Stevens.

The Tars have thus far won seven out of their last eight games. Tommy Spicola hurled a six-hitter against the visitors for the Tampans. He struck out six men while walking five. Stevens put out two more than Spicola but only allowed one player to reach first on balls.

Except for Lou Salario, who scored the local's only run, the Rollins hurler would have blanked the Spartans. Salario was the victim of a hit ball in the opening of the second. He stole second and took advantage of Lakus' single to reach home for the only run his team made. Salario also got the only other hit made by T.U.

Spartans On Road This Week

Spartan Nine Travels To Tallahassee To Engage FSU In Twin Contests; Tampans Hope To Bolster Standings

By Irving Edelson

The University of Tampa nine will take to the road this week-end for a two-game engagement with the Florida State University baseball squad.

The games are the only two slated between the teams this season and both schools are anxious for a win.

Since the Dec. 7, 1948 football meeting between the two Universities, a keen rivalry has broken out. In their last sports encounter, the Spartan cagers knocked the Seminoles out of the Dixie Conference Tournament at Jackson.

The baseball squad hopes to continue their winning ways when they engage the upstarts Friday and Saturday on the latter's home grounds.

Coach Masada will probably start Eddie Gasque on the mound in one contest and Tom Spicola in the other. Harry Bryan and Emilio Rodriguez will stand by for relief duty.

Other probable starters will be Bob Grimsley, left field; Tony Garcia, catcher; Red Ryan, center field; Lou Garcia, third base; Felix Jappe, shortstop; Tom Lakus, first base; Kirby Stewart, second base; and Harry Bryan, rightfield.

The University of Tampa Spartans have played nine contests to date, winning three and losing six. The Spartans have split games with Florida Southern and Stetson while winning over the University of Florida.

Tampa has also lost two exhibition games to the Tampa Smokers and two to the University of Miami.

Leading hitter of the T.U. nine is Lou Salario with a neat .400 in seven games not including the Miami contests. Salario has two doubles and a triple to his credit.

As for homers, Red Ryan hit one in the last Smoker contest and Felix Jappe drove a long one out of the ball park to win the Florida U. game and also batted one against the Miami Hurricanes.

The Box of percentages for all games preceding the two Miami U. ones is as follows:

Name	Ab	R	H	Pct.
Salario	30	6	8	.400
Jappe	31	7	11	.355

Tampa Nine Bows Twice To 'Canes In Magic City

Coach Marcello Masada's hard hitting batters recently returned from the Magic City where they dropped a pair of encounters with the Miami U. Hurricanes by scores of 3-2 and 14-3.

Tommy Spicola held the 'Canes to two hits in the first contest. The Spartans themselves were held to four bingles by the hurling of Miami's Frank Hand.

In the second contest, after trailing 2-0 at the start of the third frame, the Miamians collected three runs to take the lead.

Tampa tied it up in the fifth but the Hurricanes blasted their opponents hurlers for five runs in the sixth, five in the seventh, and another in the eighth to sew up the contest.

The home team got ten hits from four Tampa moundsmen while the West Coast nine blasted their opponents' two hurlers for seven.

T.U. did all the heavy hitting with Felix Jappe banging his second homer of the season and Red Ryan smacking a two-baser.

Skorge was the winning pitcher while Rodriguez was charged with the loss.

The grapefruit is native of the East Indies. The orange is native of south China.

Tampa Crew Trips Marietta Oarsmen

By John Marzolf

Marietta's Pioneers felt the sting of the Spartan Crew when they lost the dual meet between the two teams by two lengths on the Hillsborough Channel course, April 15.

In winning this race, the locals posted their third victory of the season. This win gave the Spartans a .500 average thus far in the season. T.U. also holds wins over Dartmouth and Amherst.

As in all of their previous races, the Spartans took an early lead. Rowing at the rate of 38 strokes a minute, they held a one length lead at the first quarter mark. The Spartans increased their lead slowly and finished with two lengths between them and the losers. At the half-way mark, the locals had slowed up the pace from 38 to 36 strokes, which they held the rest of the way. Marietta started at 36 strokes a minute and finished at 34, which they slowed to after the mid-way mark in the race.

The Tampa crew was timed at seven minutes and 30 seconds for the mile and 5-16th course, while the Pioneers finished at 7:40 for the course.

A group of approximately 200 fans didn't realize when the race had started because of the departure of the Argentine steamship Naviero, and many of them had their hair standing on end when the Tampa crew swerved to miss the huge steamer at the finish line.

The Spartan coxswain got his third straight dunking after the race. Coxswain Arlen Sayles said, "I don't mind how many times they throw me in the water as long as we continue to win."

Tampa's crew consisted of Mike Brennan, captain and stroke; Bill Stalnaker, No. 7; Martin Gay, No. 6; Roy Cundiff, No. 5; Jack Marley, No. 4; Buddy Fisher, No. 3; Bob Brorin, No. 2; Conner Goehagen, No. 1; and Sayles, coxswain.

Crew Needs Cars For Trip to Meet Washington - Lee

By John Marzolf

"Do you have a car?" That is the question Coach Art Trubiano has been asking the last few days. Since the University of Tampa crew is not a profit producing organization, they will need some automobiles to take them to Lexington, Va., for their forthcoming race with the Washington and Lee Generals and LaSalle College.

This will be the Spartans' seventh race of the season and the only meet outside of the state. The Hometowns completed their home schedule April 19, by dropping American International College of Springfield, Mass., by two lengths.

To date, the locals have a record of four wins against three defeats with two more races on the schedule. After a slow start at the first of the season, by losing their first three races, the Spartans have made a fine comeback in winning their last four. Dartmouth, Amherst, Marietta and American International Colleges found the Tampans too fast for their liking, with all four schools losing by two lengths or more.

Rollins and Florida Southern Colleges have beaten the Spartans twice in two triangular meets held between the schools. Boston College is the only other school which has scored a victory at the local's expense.

The squad has shown steady improvement with each race and should prove to be a real threat to the highly touted Washington and Lee and LaSalle crews. Although we have very little information on the two northern schools, we do know that the Generals had a fine crew in 1948 and are expected to have a squad equal to that this season.

The Tampa crew will return home after their race and compete in the State Championship race on May 14, at Winter Park. The race will include crews from Rollins, Southern and Tampa. Tampa U. will try for their first win over the two schools in this race. The Rollins Tars will probably hold the role of favorites because of their victories in the two previous races.
