

FRESHMEN ELECT OFFICERS OCTOBER 20

Girls' Volleyball Team In Initial Contest Tonight

Local Outfit Enters Tournament

Tampa university girls' volleyball team is scheduled to go into action for its initial battle at the Lee playground tonight at 8 o'clock. The game is booked in a tournament in the City Recreation league.

The girls' team was organized under the supervision of Dorothy Talbot, girls' physical education director. Miss Talbot was the runner-up in the city women's tennis tournament this year and is also rated one of Tampa's outstanding basketball players.

See Miss Talbot

All girls who are interested in volleyball are requested to communicate with Miss Talbot or appear at practice at Lee playground Thursday night at 7 o'clock. Girls who have already signed up are as follows:

Mildred Rupe, Dorothy Pou, Betty Stone, Louise Leonard, Martha Powell, Marjorie Dennis, Edna Frances Prince, Julia Polson, Aleyn Clayton and Helen Aronovitz.

Tennis Team

A tennis team will also be organized next week. This outfit will compete with the Tampa Women's Tennis association.

The first girls' basketball work-out has been scheduled for Nov. 1. Several Hillsborough and Plant stars are matriculating here and are expected to assist the university to make a good showing this year. Most of the members of last year's team plan to participate in this sport again this season.

Chaplain Jones Gives Stirring Talk in Chapel

The assembly held last Tuesday a week in the music room was the first regular chapel service of the year.

Following the opening exercises, Mr. Spaulding addressed the students outlining the purposes of the assemblies. "They are to be weekly affairs," he said. "Chaplain Jones will have charge of the programs." From time to time nationally known speakers may be brought to our school.

When speaking of the subjects on which he would lecture Mr. Jones said that they would not be sectarian. "I will try to discuss only ethical problems of the students and may later consider the social problems," he said.

In his talk for the day Chaplain Jones dwelt on three phases of sportsmanship, a quality necessary for the efficiency and well-being of any institution or nation.

His last point was that sportsmanship requires everyone to do his own specific duty even though some outstanding personality is given the praise by the masses. If one does his work well he contributes his part to aid this personality in attaining its highest achievements.

This idea was well illustrated by the working of a football team. The fullback may make a goal on a certain play and receive cheers from the grandstand, but remember—it took the guard and tackle to open up a hole in the line, other men to run interference, and the cooperation of the entire team to make the goal possible.

"No man is self-made," the chaplain concluded. "Someone must have helped without receiving any praise." The chaplain's concluding idea was that no race or nation has a monopoly on sportsmanship. "We find it characteristic of all peoples."

Each person must do his own work in order that no one will have to shoulder more than his share of responsibility. This was the third and final phase of sportsmanship that Chaplain Jones gave.

Theodore Roosevelt Visited Here During Spanish-American War

Among the important personages to visit the Tampa Bay hotel in the past was a man destined to become the president of the United States, Theodore Roosevelt. He and his regiment of volunteer cavalry, the Rough Riders, who served so gallantly in the Spanish-American war, were stationed in Tampa in May, 1898, and embarked from Port Tampa on their voyage to Cuba.

In a letter written to his children from his camp in Tampa on May 6 of that year, Roosevelt said that there were nearly 30,000 troops stationed here besides the sailors from the warships in the bay. Mrs. Roosevelt was staying at "a big hotel about a mile from camp." President Roosevelt also stated, "at night the corridors and piazzas are thronged with officers of the army and navy, the older men having fought in the Civil war, a third of a century ago."

Warm Weather

Their camp was on a great flat of sandy soil without a tree, but with pinetrees and palmettos round about. This spot included that section near the present location of Michigan avenue and Tampa street. Roosevelt remarked that the weather was very warm but that there were no mosquitoes.

In his book, "The Rough Riders," he says that he spent four or five days at Tampa and that the "huge winter hotel was gay with general officers and their staffs, with women in pretty dresses, with newspaper correspondents by the score, with military attaches of foreign powers, and with onlookers of all sorts!"

Confederate Soldier

Maj.-Gen. Joseph Wheeler, the gallant old Confederate soldier who commanded the two brigades of the United States cavalry division, also stayed at the hotel for a few days, probably at the same time that Roosevelt did.

These very halls which we pass through to our classrooms in the University of Tampa were once witnesses to the presence of the great

WHO ATTENDS THE UNIVERSITY

The usual test of the attractiveness or pulling power of a business is shown by the amount and class of trade that it receives.

By this identical method we should judge the university. In doing so, the conclusion is pleasing: The building is well adapted for its present use. The grounds are attractive. The location in the center of a city of 100,000 population is ideal.

The faculty consists of a well educated group of the highest type men and women. The student body presents an agreeable influence. Lastly, the tuition rates are reasonable. All are good.

We know this to be true, for as in the business case the university has shown a marvelous growth from 60 students to 300 students in less than three years. Growth, alone, means satisfied students. Last year's students are returning to the campus in large numbers. Others are transferring from older and better established universities throughout the country. Tampa students have enrolled. And still more convincing, students are coming from such cities as Lakeland, Bartow, Bradenton and St. Petersburg.

The University of Tampa is gaining popularity and fame as an accredited institution. It has passed the test. It will continue to draw the best type of student to its campus.

Patterson, Means To Sell Freshmen Caps in Two Weeks

Phil Patterson and Red Means, freshmen, have been appointed by the student council here to sell "rat" caps to the incoming students. The caps will be on sale within the next two weeks.

The student council is expected to pass a rule soon making it compulsory for all freshmen to wear caps, designating their rank in the college. The caps will probably cost $1 apiece.

The caps will consist of an attractive color design, with a gold visor and a red skull. A black button will be placed on the top and a black letter T will be sewed on the front of the caps. Numerals will be placed on both sides of the letter.

Bookstore Reports Favorable Business

The University bookstore had a successful opening and students employed in the store report that business has been much better than expected. Another supply of books has been placed in stock within the last two weeks.

Two university students, Herbert Sullivan and Wofford Wait are enabled to take courses in the college by working in the bookstore.

For convenience sake alone, the bookstore has proved a valuable asset to the students, and it is hoped that they will cooperate in the future by patronizing it.

Here Are a Few Notations About New Tampa U. Professors

Dr. Edward B. Hinckley

Assistant professor of English, who was born in West Newton, Mass., Oct. 24, 1903. He was educated in the public schools and in Deering high school, Portland, Maine. He received the A. B., A. M., and the Ph. D. degrees from Harvard. The subject of his thesis was, "Browning and the Bible."

Dr. Hinckley taught English for two years at New Church Theological school, Cambridge, Mass., and was analytical chemist for a year with the B. F. Goodrich company of Akron, Ohio. His hobbies are boats, the literature of the sea, and Cape Cod.

He is married and has a two-year-old daughter. His favorite sports are tennis and squash. Dr. Hinckley is a Protestant and a member of the Masons, the Alpha Chi Sigma, the Modern Language association, and the American Association of University Professors.

Dr. J. Erskine Hawkins

Assistant professor of chemistry. Has four degrees from the University of Pennsylvania, the last one being that of Doctor of Philosophy in 1927. He has been professor of chemistry at that institution for 11 years, has done considerable scientific work, and has contributed to several publications. Dr. Hawkins is 34 years old, married, and has no children. Until recently he was in command of a company of the Pennsylvania national guard.

Dr. Ridgely C. Dorsay

Assistant professor of history. A graduate of Johns Hopkins who received his Ph. D. in history in that institution in 1932. This year he has been research assistant for the Page School of International Relations of Johns Hopkins. He is 26 years old, a bachelor, a Baptist, a Virginian, and a graduate of the University of Richmond. Dr. Dorsay is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa honorary fraternity.

R. M. D'Angelo

Instructor in voice. He sang in church choir in Palermo, Sicily, at the age of eight years. At the age of 12 he played solo trombone in a band. When he was 15 he received voice training in Milano, and at 20 he played the cornet in the army for six months. In 1903 he sang in New York with Enrico Caruso. He also traveled with American opera, singing in English. To understand the differences in voices he studied with Giuseppe Caruso.

J. W. Jeffers

Instructor in band instruments. For six years he was the musical director. (Continued on Page 4)

NASH HIGGINS

HIGGINS SAYS HIS GRIDDERS IN GOOD SHAPE

Spartan Coach Pleased With Work-Outs

Nash Higgins, Spartan football mentor, expressed himself yesterday as being fairly satisfied with the showing that his charges had made for the past two weeks of training.

"I think that the boys are shaping up pretty well," he said, "but our first game with Bowdon college will be far from a set-up. Bowdon has a good team this year and has had some pretty successful seasons for the past three years. Our squad, however, has suffered few injuries thus far. We'll be lucky to eke out a victory over the Bowdon team."

Ragged Offense

Higgins said that he could not be optimistic for the fact that the offense tactics were ragged and that not much defense strategy had been worked out.

The Spartans are scheduled to battle the Bowdon gridders on Oct. 12, the date of the game having been moved up two days in order that the tilt would be a part of the NRA celebration in LaGrange, Ga., the site of the game.

The Lion's club of LaGrange will sponsor the contest. Higgins and a squad of about 25 gridders plan to make the trip by train.

Delta Kappa Group Plans Social Event

The Delta Kappa sorority held its first weekly meeting recently at the home of Miss Carolyn Maness.

Plans were made for a tea to be given at the home of Miss Louise Leonard, 711 South Fielding, Oct. 14, from 5 until 8 o'clock. Invitations will be issued later to girls who are students at Tampa university.

The colors of pink and silver were selected as the sorority colors. After the business session, the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. William Maness, served a delicious ice course.

Those present were: Miss Hazel Webb, Miss Carmen Cosio, Miss Dorothy Pou, Miss Mary Litschgi, Miss Marguerite Litschgi, Miss Louise Leonard and Miss Carolyn Maness.

Each Candidate Will Qualify By Signed Petitions

Polls to Be Supervised by Committee

The annual election of officers for the freshmen class has been set for Friday, Oct. 20, it was announced yesterday by B. Wofford Wait, president of the student body. The polls will be open from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Appointments for four offices will be decided by popular vote. These offices, president, vice president, secretary and treasurer will be filled for the entire school year.

Members of the election committee are Professor Berry, Pat Stuckey, Bill Logan and Mary Litschgi. The duties of this group will consist of supervision of the voting at the polls and appointment of auxiliary assistants for the election.

Each freshmen candidate is required to signify his intentions of trying for office and is required to qualify by a signed petition bearing the names of 10 percent of the freshmen class.

Not more than 10 candidates will be allowed to take part in the election for any one of the four campus positions.

M'Curdie Is Pleased With Students Help

A. S. McCurdie, head custodian of the university building, gave a favorable report when questioned several days ago concerning the condition of the building.

"The building is not in such bad shape as most people are led to believe," he said, "and the boys and girls are cooperating with me wonderfully. I want to offer my assistance to the students in any way possible. I would certainly appreciate it if the students turned off all lights and water faucets after using them. This would prove extremely economical to the university."

McCurdie also said that the job of storing furniture in the unused parts of the building has almost been completed. He remarked that there still remained quite a lot of repair work to be done.

Morton Hackney Is Junior Rotarian

Most of the officers of the student body are probably already known to you. But did you know that we have a junior Rotarian? And do you know his name?

A junior Rotarian is chosen each year from the school by the Rotary club to act for a period of one year. Each Tuesday he is expected to attend the luncheon held at the Hillsboro hotel and to take a friend with him. The purpose is to acquaint the student body with the activities of the club.

Morton Hackney is the representative from the University of Tampa this year. Morton is a hard-working sophomore. Last year he was a representative on the student council from the freshman class and a prominent student in the school. His attractive personality is well known to students in the university and he is popular with the members of the Rotary club.

COUNCIL APPOINTMENTS

The student council has appointed B. Wofford Wait, Theodore Lesley and Winston Fowler to serve on the legislative committee of the council.

NOTE OF THANKS

Members of the staff of the Minaret wish to express their appreciation of the cooperation and generous business policies extended to the University publication by the Tampa Morning Tribune.

OUR POLICY

To give full support to all activities that will prove beneficial to the University.

To encourage the organizing of social fraternities and sororities on our campus.

To strive for a better understanding between students and faculty.

To do our part in making student government a complete success.

To support the Spartan football team and to advocate a well rounded physical education program with a complete list of minor, as well as major, sports activities.

And to present news stories in an unbiased and straightforward manner.

SOCIAL ORGANIZATIONS

Campus life is far from being complete without a number of extra-curricula activities. Not everyone is physically able to play football or baseball. Those who cannot take part in athletics, however, can find diversion in social activities.

University studies, in themselves, are oftentimes dull and uninteresting, and we are obliged to concentrate on our abc's only with extreme effort. But with numerous diversions our school work is very seldom monotonous.

In high school we had our clubs. These groups were probably not so well organized and their possibilities of proving of any value were limited. In institutions of higher learning we find better social organizations with a definite purpose.

Men have banded together for various reasons since time immemorial. Common protection was one of the first causes and after this was no longer necessary people continued to form distinct groups for social contact.

We would like to see a number of high minded students form a fraternal organization in the University with the idea in mind of applying for a charter to a national organization in the near future. Both the University and student body would benefit by such an undertaking.

We want to congratulate Mr. Spaulding on securing the services of Mr. A. S. McCurdie as Custodian of the University building. Our President could not have chosen a more capable and efficient person, and we are certain that McCurdie will receive the full support and cooperation of every student in the College.

Another faculty member who we would like to thank at this time is Professor Hinckley, University English Instructor, who devoted quite a bit of his time last week to the organizing of the present staff of the Minaret. Dr. Hinckley is a popular and efficient instructor and we are fortunate in having him in the capacity of Director this year.

Believe it or not, we have a "real, honest to goodness" male nurse on the campus in the form of Hasus Castro, the popular young lad that operates the clinic for the football boys in the north wing of the building.

Hasus gave us an invigorating rub down the other day and it made us feel like a new man. That boy certainly knows his stuff!

There is one thing that we can always be proud of at the University and that is the fact that we have one of the most beautiful campuses in the South.

There is a bad disease going around school termed conferenceitis. We have been in approximately twelve of these sessions during the past two weeks. The student council, we fear, is responsible for starting this undesirable precedent.

We owe apologies for the delay of the paper this week due to unforeseen difficulties concerning the present organization of the paper staff. After this, we hope, the Minaret will be published every Friday.

SOCIAL SHORTS

By LOUISE LEONARD

The girls on the reception committee want to thank those nice, obliging young men who helped them to wash dishes after the reception given by the upper classmen. Namely Phil Patterson, Munroe Jordan, Bert McCollum, Jimmie McNeil, Bill Marbourg, Theodore Lesley and one or two others. After seeing that domestic scene, one wonders why women are destined to be the housekeepers.

Two or three promising young couples threaten to blossom forth since Edna's party. Ruth Kückliter seemed quite taken up with a very red headed person... Maggie Litschgi with one who answers to the name of Munroe... and Dot Pou has her taste now for a blond who I understand is called "Cotton." One little party certainly works wonders... So why not have another to give the rest of us a chance?

Some one ought to console Melita Quinby... her one and only has left to enter Tulane. She is showing a beautiful compact around to all of us less fortunates which he gave to her. Melita certainly is level headed... she stood and nonchalantly drank her punch while a man explained how he came to practically tear her car up last Saturday night.

The departure of Ben Darlington for the home town broke two or three hearts around here. It seems he spent quite a lot of his time in the library... doing something else besides studying.

Mr. Berry must be the ideal teacher considering the way these girls run to him on the least pretext. They say he is so "nice." They say he plays good bridge, too.

Who is the blond causing so much disturbance around here among the boys? It seems her first name is Lucile and she is a "rat."

Been checking up on some Hillsborough High School girls who are coming here this year and find we have a C. D. C. and a K. S. Both, you will have to agree, are nifty. Spurgeon Fulford is the K. S. and Doris Then claims C. D. C. Doris was elected the prettiest girl in the Senior class at Hillsborough last year.

It seems as though a certain young couple around the school are clicking O. K. Woody Garcia and Helen Hartness are their names. Soon we will be able to tell you whether this is love at first sight or not.

We also understand that an auburn-haired writer is the third member of this eternal triangle.

We wonder why Marion Lee takes a nap after lunch every day? With all these heavy dates it is either a necessity or a habit.

Here's news in a big way. Hart Overstreet seems to be quite indifferent to girls. (That's what he claims.) He informed us in Trig. class that they didn't bother him at all and the reason is Bab Seckback (a cute "rat") who sits next to Hart.

Grand Central Avenue is taking on the appearance of University Avenue in Gainesville more and more every day. The Dragon, located across the street, has proved to be one of the classiest and most popular tea rooms in Tampa. In our estimation the Dragon is a more desirable place to eat than a number of similar establishments in the University city.

We have been wondering about a rule that the council passed the other day giving two students the privilege of selling "rat" caps to the students. Can the Freshmen really be forced to wear these caps? Take into consideration the fact that there are about 170 students enrolled in the Freshman class. That leaves a small number to enforce the "rat" cap rule.

Three cheers for the water fountain which has been placed so conveniently in the lobby of the building for the accommodation of the faculty and student body. We would like to thank the persons directly concerned with the installing of the fountain.

The Inquiring Reporter

By HELEN ARONOVITZ

Question: What was your first impression of the University?

George Corrigan, Jr., post graduate: I think Tampa University is a great school. It is ideally located and has a fine student body. With the co-operation of all the students there is no reason why it can't be made one of the best colleges in the South.

Anne Carey, junior: "Utter confusion and turmoil!" describes the first view I had of the new home of the University of Tampa. But not even that could hide its breath-taking beauty and splendor. I wondered then how we could study for gazing at the beauty of it but now I am wondering how we can appreciate the beauty of it for studying!

Marie Sanford, sophomore: The spirit of friendliness and good will impressed me most. This student body is easier to get acquainted with than any other I've ever been a member of.

C. L. Craft, sophomore: "Say, but isn't our new home quite the stuff? So interesting is this picturesque hotel that we can hardly concentrate on our lessons for looking and marvelling at the rare masterpieces of art."

Contrast our old home with our new one. Last year we had no library of our own, no social hall, no coach, although we did have the use of drinking fountains and pencil sharpeners.

Now we have a lobby in which to sit and chat, a spacious library and a dandy coach whom we know will put our athletic teams on the map.

Long live the University of Tampa! Edenia Delaney, sophomore: "A grand mess!" was my first impression of the college. Now don't take me wrong. It was during the summer that I got that impression. I have completely changed my mind by now and I think it is a swell place.

Marvin Nelms, freshman: My first impression of the University of Tampa was a pleasant one. The possibilities for a successful future for the University seem very large as it is situated in a very convenient place for Tampa students. The building itself is a marvelous piece of architecture.

The park surrounding the school forms a fine campus for the students and the athletic field and tennis courts are within easy walking distance.

Margaret Williams, freshman: "My first impression of the university was admiration of the dignity of the building, and I wondered if we should continue to uphold this dignity."

Ella Middleton and Marjorie Dennis, freshmen: "When we first entered the building we were impressed by the beauty of the furnishings. It is an ideal place not only because of the atmosphere of the building and the nearby grounds but also because of the fact that it is close to town."

Book Review

By MARGERY ALLINGHAM

This story is one of unusual cleverness and interest, exerting a strong hold over the reader's imagination from the moment that the hero, Val Gyrth, finds the torn envelope bearing his name in the park until the day of his twenty-fifth birthday, when the mystery which has shrouded the house of Gyrth is finally revealed to him.

Perhaps, after all, it is Albert Campion, the detective, who is the true hero. He is quite different from the usual Sherlock in his keen sense of humor and in his enjoyment of the bizarre and the ridiculous. At the end of the book he remarks that on looking back upon the whole affair it seems to him like a Welsh rarebit nightmare with himself in the role of the rabbit.

Family Traditions

The love and reverence for beauty and workmanship, the spirit of conservatism, and the strong influence of family traditions portrayed can be found only in England.

There is a marked absence of the homicidal element so commonly essential to the usual detective story, and the change is a welcome one. The plot is intriguing and the struggle to save the famous Gyrth Chalice from the hands of the unscrupulous collector is entertaining from beginning to finish.

This book should prove enjoyable reading for all persons who like a story of mystery, suspense and action, with an unexpected quirk of humor.

"Just think, while I was out with some fellows the other night, a burglar broke into our house."

"Did he get anything?"

"I'll say he did—my wife thought it was me coming home."—Ohio Motorist.

Mandy—"It's decided to leave mah husband."

Hanna—"How come? Is you beginnin' to economize?"—Life.

Free Air

It seems to me that the U. of Tampa is missing something in a college atmosphere by not having more boys dressed in sweat shirts and baggy kneed trousers. There are too many tailor pressed suits on the campus.

A Suggestion

When speaking to other people add a little sugar and when SOME other people speak to you add a lot of salt.

Distinction

Freshman—

Loads of books.

Takes notes on all lectures.

Sophomore—

Few books.

Attends few lectures.

Junior—

No books.

Never attends a lecture.

Senior—

Knows more than the prof.

I Hear

Jack Godwin went to the fair in Chi. in his own car, carried three boys with him and came home, having spent only 10 cartwheels. (Jack is for a Century of Progress every year.)

That some of the drinks at the U. B. S. have been changed from eight oz. to six oz. bottles in order to profit a half cent more per bottle... By whose order? ... Only one guess to each customer.

That it is rather hard on those who dwell in the dorm to be in by 12:30 a. m. Especially those who like night life.

I See

Jimmy Moore and Eleanor Marchman are still that way about each other. (Good boy, Jimmy.)

Dr. Hinckley's little daughter, Marjorie, is quickly becoming the University sweetheart.

Personal

Mr. Alfred Taylor. Why not come out from behind the foliage and meet the boys and girls sometime.

Since we are not camels,

Since we are not all dries,

Since we are not all soda-pop addicts,

We want water.

Poet's Corner

THE DARK NIGHT RIDES

By ELIZABETH BECKNELL

They stood upon a mountain-top,
The slim, gray Evening;
The tall, black Night;
The white, young Dawn;
And all was very still.
Night raised his hand—
Stars flowed from his fingertips;
Saturn and Venus and Neptune
Lay in the curve of his elbow;
The Moon in all her phases
Rested upon his forehead.
The Black Night spoke.
And as he spake
The winds were hushed;
Immensities of space
Throbbled to the rhythm
And the timbre of his tone.
His gentle wife, the Evening,
And their sturdy son, the Dawn,
Harkened to the Wisdom
Of the keeper of the Moon.

Fury of a Demon

His age-old foe, the Lightning,
Who had torn his cloak to shreds
With the fury of a demon
And a berserker's finesse,
Had sought his lonely Kingdom
In the Realm Beyond the Stars,
With the caution of a craven,
To escape the wrath of Mars.

The Black Night stood before them,
With his head among the clouds,
With his tattered cloak about him,
And his somber eyes agleam
With the glow of desperation
And the fever of a dream.
Throughout the highest heavens
His eager challenge hurled,
To seek the aid of his brother,
Dusk,
Who reigns at the Rim of the World,
Was the plan he spoke,
As his ragged cloak
The wakeful winds unfurled.

Immortals Cannot Die

And so to the two he loved the best,
He bade a brave good-bye;
His feet were on the solid earth,
His face was toward the sky.
Though many find relief in death,
Immortals cannot die!
Before him lay a Path of Pain,
With Horror ever nigh.
His slender wife, the Evening,
And his handsome son, the Dawn,
Stole slowly down the mountain-side:
A moment—they were gone.
He spurred his Steed of Darkness,
Full as gallant as the best,
As he sprang into the saddle
To depart upon his quest,
And took the Trail of Terror
To the Caverns of the West.

SPARTAN GRIDDERS SCRAP FOR POSITIONS

50 Players Now In Hard Training

Varsity Line Should Average 200 Pounds

By JACK HARDING

Here's the list of the teams our Spartans are going to give plenty of trouble:

Oct. 12—Bowdon college, there.
Oct. 21—Open, there.
Oct. 27—Southern, here.
Nov. 4—South Georgia St., here.
Nov. 11—Auburn Frosh, here.
Nov. 17—Rollins, here.
Nov. 25—Stetson, here.
Dec. 1—Norman Park, here.
Dec. 9—Howard college, here.
Dec. 16—Miami U., (tentative).
Dec. 24—Open, here.

Here's the reason why. John Edison, 180-pounder, from Tarpon Springs, will hold down an end post. He has for a linemate none other than Wilbur Gunnoe, tackle, 210, who hails from Charleston, W. Va. John Mistry, 170, will complete that side of the line by guarding.

Our first string linemen who want a berth on that portion of our machine will simply have to toss one of those hefty ones to his ear and take it. It's all for the taking.

Jack Fitzgerald, one of our veterans, has a scrap on his hands for the center berth. Cotton Clinton, Fort Lauderdale, has decided that he will relieve Mr. Fitzgerald this season and let Jack worry. (Don't tell anybody, but Mr. Godwin may make it hot for both of them.)

Godwin at Fullback

Right in the middle of a grand and glorious wrangle for fullback is our friend Mr. Godwin again. Mack Britt was in bed for several days at his home in Palmetto, but he thinks he wants to be a guard. Well, we know he has experience, and we hope he feels good by now.

Mr. Gus Muench and Mr. "Primo Carnera" Hurn, along with another little boy named Marion Lee, are waging war on each other for a tackle position, and if the "Gunner" isn't careful one of them may make up his mind to take over the other line-cracking job. Incidentally, our friend Joe Carr is likely to demand attention in reference to the guard situation.

Mr. Bob Gilliam could play havoc with somebody's line aspirations if he would only make up his mind to become one of us.

Vie for End

Like Gunnoe, John Edison has his worries in such men as Red Means and Phil Patterson. Those two, with Dull and Hoy to make it real interesting, will give the opposition plenty to think about as far as pass-snatchers are concerned.

Halfbacks at the university are running rampant, both literally and physically. Jimmie White, Don Williams, Hart Overstreet, James Blomeley, Kenneth Hance, Monroe Jordan, Lowry McDougald, Bob Tramontana, Marvin Chancey, Marshall Bize, and others are stepping out. When they slow down, Tete Newcomb, Ed O'Reilly, and still others will join the chase.

At full there are several good prospects. Guy Whitlock, the triple-threatener, looks good; Ed Carter, the man from Plant who played with us last year, is dishing it out.

Crockett Shows Ability

After our "other" halfbacks have their fling, Buck Torres, Luther Sparkman, Eldon Cage, and maybe Mr. Crockett Farnell, from Lake City, will show them where their mistakes were. They say Crockett is a wingman of some ability, too. While we're talking about wingmen, let us remind you of Mr. Willie Middleton, the boy who was played up so generously in our local papers as being all but dead. He's out there, and he'll go strong!

Yeah, and affability itself, Rudy Rodriguez, is going to have some competition in his quest for quarterback prominence. Ellis Hill and Percy Gonzalez are some of his competition.

A balky mule has four-wheel brakes.
A billygoat has bumpers.
The firefly has a light spotlight.
Rabbits are puddle jumpers.
Camels have balloon-tired feet
And carry spares of drink and eat,
But I believe that nothing beats
The kangaroos with rumble seats—
Phoenix.

SPARTAN SPORTS

ROY HUNTER

There's a certain girl out in the physical education department that we would like for you all to meet. She's a newcomer with us this year and we would certainly like to see everyone make her feel as much at home as possible.

Her name is Dorothy Talbot, Dot for short, and we have heard a number of favorable reports already about her activities as girls' physical education director here. She has a likeable personality and a ready smile, and strikes us as being perfectly capable of performing her task efficiently.

Rosy cheeked, muscular physique, and sandy haired, she has an attractive way about her that should send any boy into a fit of day dreams. Dot's a square shooter, with a lot of sense. She enjoys her work, and incidentally her position on the staff of the athletic department enables her to attend the university.

Hails From Philipe

Dot hails from a little town named Philipe, located in the hills of West Virginia. She is 23 years old and has been affiliated with the city recreation department here for three years. Her favorite sport is basketball and she has been a member of the Coca-Cola quintet for three successive seasons.

For the last two weeks Dot has been instructing the girls in her classes in tennis. By the way, she plays a great little game herself, but always claims that as a player she's "not so hot!" We disagree with her there, for didn't she battle her way to the finals in the Tampa Women's Tennis Association tournament this year?

When asked about the football team Dot remarked: "I think that the Spartans will have a wonderful team. We have a great coach and I know the football boys have all the confidence in the world in him."

Likes Her Work

Dot likes her work here, and is carrying four subjects. She plans to referee basketball games this season.

Our heroine is not of the fickle type, takes her tasks seriously and gets a big kick out of all sports activities. We also understand that about five or ten boys around the school are already "sorta that way" about her but we are afraid they are in for a lot of grief. Dot's not the romantic kind, but she's one of the few members of the feminine group that we would appreciate having for a pal. So here's wishing you luck, Dot...

Nash Higgins, our popular football coach, pulled off a little stunt the other day that we've never heard of being done before. And that is that he put his gridders through a stiff scrimmage on the first day that they romped onto the Plant field practice grounds in their uniforms.

Stranger yet is the fact that not a single man on the squad received any injuries during the workout. The scrimmage brought to light a number of things that deserve mention, mainly the fact that our eleven has a number of power plays that should prove extremely useful in grid battles. The defense is a little ragged, and an efficient aerial attack has not yet been perfected.

Big Time Eleven

As a whole, however, the Spartan outfit looks like a big time eleven. We're a lot more optimistic now than we were a couple of weeks ago when all we could see of the squad was a group of tall, rangy youngsters running all over the lot in shorts. It was pretty hard to tell then just whether our team would turn out to be another palooka outfit.

It's a different story, though, when you look at that same group now assembled in complete grid togs and presenting a line that will probably bounce around the two hundred pound mark. Observe a little more, then, and catch a view of a classy backfield composed of four fellows that made a name for themselves not so long ago in high school grid circles.

Take it from us, Higgins is going to have a second string that is almost as good as the varsity line-up. We're inclined to believe that shock troops may enter into the scene before the season progresses much further. And what an asset that should prove to be!

Pretty Disheartening

There is nothing so disheartening as when a player has battled a fellow on the opposite side of the line for a couple of quarters and a big stocky reserve substitutes for his original opponent. Fresh from the bench, the new player obviously has every advantage in the world unless he is greatly outclassed. It's an even chance, anyway, that shock troops would play a large part in the final figures on the scoreboard.

We regret that the Spartans will play their initial tilt away from home this year, although it may prove to be the best plan. Psychology enters the matter a number of times—some football players are apt to perform better away from the home town than they are on their own gridiron.

And then there's that humorous threat by Higgins concerning the Bowdon game, "If the Spartans don't win they are in for a long walk home."

A country woman was walking along a city street when she was amazed to see a man take pigeon after pigeon out of a hamper, look at his watch and then project the birds into the air.

"Hey, mister," she cried, running up to him, "you might give me one for my little Johnny before you throw them all away."

She—"You certainly do keep your car nice and clean."
He—"It's an even deal—my car keeps me clean too."—Boston Transcript.

"Anything new in the paper today, George?"

"No, my dear—just the same old things, only happening to different people."—Answers (London).

Miller Announces Tentative Plans For Physical Education Program

Miller Adams, instructor of physical education, has announced a tentative program for intra-mural sports.

Due to the small classes in this department and the fact that the football squad has deprived most of these classes of a number of outstanding athletes the program has been planned in a tentative form until after football season. A schedule calling for soccer and touch football is already underway.

Classes Divided

Adams has divided the freshman classes into four squads, as follows: No. 1, led by Marvin Nelms; No. 2, captained by Manuel Ramirez; No. 3, under Morales, and No. 4, by Manuel Rodriguez. The first two squads combine and engage in athletic contests with squads 3 and 4.

Division in this manner has formed two well-balanced squads. The one game of touch football played last week ended in a scoreless tie, and the soccer game terminated in a 2 to 2 deadlock.

Adams also expects to place other sports on the intra-mural schedule as soon as possible. Tennis and basketball are next in line with track and baseball following later in the year.

Issues Challenge

As the program progresses, it is expected that keen rivalry will be developed between classes. It is understood that the sophomore class has already issued a challenge to the freshmen for a soccer contest. This challenge will probably appear on the bulletin board this week.

Rivalry between classes is encouraged as a means of bringing about the necessary interest and spirit vital for a successful program. Adams requests a little time in which to develop the department along with other courses in the university curriculum. With the support of the student body he is convinced that he can organize in the school a well-balanced, live wire intra-mural sports program.

For the fourth time the corporation lawyer conducting the cross examination led the witness to the accident.

"You say that after the street car passed, the man was seen lying on the ground with his scalp bleeding. Did the car hit him?"

"Naw," exploded the exasperated witness. "The conductor leaned out and bit him as he went by."—Punch Bowl.

Have You Bought Your Season Ticket?

To attain and achieve scholastically, one must have interests other than the four "R's." One must have wills, desires, and enthusiasm which come with the feeling of accepted responsibility. These are as much the food for mental work as the three squares we hope you sit down to daily.

To attain praiseworthy heights, one must be willing to cooperate in the establishment and maintenance of that element most necessary to the success of any and every school—Spirit.

Now, for those of you who are too busy to accept an active and responsible part, there is a serviceable manner in which you may cooperate.

There have been, for four weeks, student season tickets on sale by the Athletic department which entitle students to witness 20 inter-collegiate contests, including eight football games, and a year's membership in the Students Athletic association. This association will, in the near future, sponsor activities of various natures. Only members of the Student Athletic association will be invited.

Special Matinee

Arrangements are being made by the management of the Park theater for a special student rate to go into effect in the near future. Members of the Minaret staff contacted the theater management about a week ago concerning the possibilities of a special matinee for university students on certain days each week.

Ten Students File Application For Cheer Leaders' Squad

Focusing their attention on the pep meetings scheduled for the university, 10 students have filed application for berths on the university cheer leaders squad. This group will be composed of eight students, four boys and four girls.

The following entries have answered the call for volunteers issued in the Minaret some time ago: Julia Folsom, B. H. Letton, Barbara Alexander, Mildred Rupe, Aleyne Clayton, Jim McNeill, Martha Powell, Torino Scaglione, Madison Post and Manuel Rodriguez. These students have been requested by B. Wofford Wait, student president, to pair off for competitive try-outs soon.

Popular Vote

The cheer leaders squad will be elected from the above group by the popular vote of the student body. Those students winning positions on the squad will probably receive a letter at the end of the year.

Wait has also requested that any other students wishing to try-out will communicate with either him or Coach Higgins, and that original cheers and yells from the students will be appreciated.

The first pep meeting was held here yesterday immediately following the regular assembly period.

Sunday Services Are Planned For College Students

Sunday morning services for university students and the public will be held in the music room here Sunday morning at 9:45. Chaplain John Page Jones will have charge of the program, which will be non-sectarian. The topic for his sermon has not been announced.

His wife returned from the morning shopping expedition and called her husband into the room from the garden.

"Frederick," she said heavily, "when you came home last night you told me you had been to the Grand hotel with Mr. Wilson. I've just met Mrs. Wilson, and she said you were both at the Trocadero. Why did you lie to me?"

Hubby groaned. "When I came home last night I couldn't say 'Trocadero.'"—Answers (London).

Marcus Hall Turns Presidential Reins Over To B. Wofford Wait

Constitution Adopted During Hall's Term

Marcus Hall, president of the student body of the University of Tampa last year, turned over his office to Wofford Wait, his successor, in the first general assembly of the year held here recently.

Hall, a sophomore last year, had a successful administration which included a matter of vast importance to the student body—the organizing of the present form of student government. It was during his term in office that the constitution was written and adopted. Needless to say, the constitution has proved successful in that no amendments have been passed.

Committee Chairman

The new president, Wofford Wait, was chairman of the constitutional committee and had a large part in the composing of this document. Other students on this committee were Winston Fowler, Theodore Lesley and Bill Hippenmeier.

During Hall's administration a weekly publication, The Bulletin, appeared on the campus under the supervision of Edna Frances Prince, chairman of the publications committee. She was obliged to resign later due to pressing duties outside the school and was replaced by Winston Fowler, who was manager of the football team during the first semester.

PERSONALS

James McNeill, freshman, and Theodore Lesley, sophomore, spent their vacations at the Lesley's home in Waynesville, N. C.

Among the students taking a summer course at Southern this year were Mary Miceli and Theresa Rebak, sophomores.

Addie Perez, freshman, made a tour of the eastern states this summer with special stops at Washington and New York.

Florida and the University of Tampa were well represented at the World's fair in Chicago this summer. Among the University of Tampa students who brought back enthusiastic reports were Spurgeon Fulford, A. C. Van Dusen, Charles Norris, W. C. Myers, and Arthur Webb.

Vida Claire Scally, junior, comes to the University of Tampa after two years at the Blue Ridge mountains college in Mississippi.

Mrs. Fitzwell (socially inclined)—"My dear, I've picked out a husband for you."

Daughter—"Very well, but I tell you emphatically that when it comes to buying the wedding dress I'll select the material myself."—Seaside Herald.

Edna Prince Gives Party for Friends

Miss Edna F. Prince, 1315 West Cass street, entertained a group of friends here recently at an old-fashioned hide-and-go-seek party.

Later in the evening the party assembled within her home where dancing and bridge were enjoyed.

Delicious refreshments of cakes, sandwiches, and punch were served. The hostess was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. E. F. Prince.

Those invited were: Miss Myrl McWilliams, Miss Melita Quinby, Miss Marguarite Litschgi, Miss Mary Litschgi, Miss Alene Clayton, Miss Ruth Kickliter, Miss Dot Pou, Miss Elizabeth Becknel, Miss Louise Leonard, "Buck" Buchanan, Winston Fowler, "Cotton" Clinton, Munroe Jordan, Theodore Lesley, Marcus Hall, "Red" Means, "Deak" Rhine, Hafford Jones, Earl McKendree, Ray West and Jack Harding.

First girl (on bathing beach)—"Marge ought not to go in alone. She was nearly drowned yesterday and Jack had to use artificial respiration."

Second girl—"You mean Marge had to use artificial drowning."—London Opinion.

Dorothy Pou Has Bridge Club Party At Her Residence

Miss Dorothy Pou entertained members of her bridge club with a buffet supper here recently at her home on South Dakota. All details of the attractive affair were carried out in a yellow color scheme.

After the games, the club held a business meeting, where it was decided that the club members would apply for a local sorority connected with the university. The name decided upon was Delta Kappa.

It was agreed upon that the meetings would be held every Monday night.

Officers elected were: Miss Marguarite Litschgi, president. Miss Carmen Cosio, vice president. Miss Mary Litschgi, secretary. Miss Carolyn Maness, treasurer. Miss Dorothy Pou, sergeant-at-arms. Miss Hazel Webb, corresponding secretary. Miss Louise Leonard, publicity chairman.

HERE'S THE ANSWER

"Say, what's coming off here?"

"Has Gasparilla come early this year?"

These and similar queries were heard around school about 5 o'clock recently when a cannon was fired in Plant Park in honor of the men who died on the U. S. S. Tampa.

The women's auxiliary of the local Post No. 5 has sponsored a program each year in remembrance of the 22 Tampans who drowned when the Tampa boat was sunk in 1918.

The cannon salute, followed by "taps" was the termination of an impressive program given in the band shell.
