The Third Annual Minaret Society Dinner

...once again proved to be one of the most elegant and entertaining evenings of the year in Tampa. The black-tie dinner, held May 24 in the University Union, complemented the nation's forthcoming Bicentennial celebration with a patriotic décor and musical theme. As 1974-75 chairman, Fred D. Learey and his wife Marian welcomed guests. Mr. Learey is the retired chairman of the University's Board of Trustees and former president of General Telephone Company of Florida.

UT President B. D. Owens addressed the honorees and assisted with special presentations and awards. Recognition was given to new members with a personalized parchment scroll; second year members received a University of Tampa special edition Webster Dictionary; charter members in their third year with the Society were honored with original design minaret banners.

Chris Kirsch and his string quintet provided background music, with The Norwood Singers of Jacksonville as the featured entertainers. This group of young concert artists specialize in patriotic presentations and have been nominated for a Freedom Foundation Award by the U.S. Navy.

Retiring chairman Fred D. Learey and his wife, Marian, display one of the Minaret banners presented at the dinner. J. Thomas Touchton (right) is the 1975-76 Minaret Society Chairman.

"new horizons" expands its view

Some things new have appeared on the horizon of UT's educational programs for the mature student: The Learner's License—a satellite to the New Horizons Program; and Ms. Ruth Nance, special counselor for both programs, and herself a former New Horizons student and 1975 UT graduate.

The Learner's License is designed to reach out to the mature person who is still uncertain about braving it back to college and possibly a new career. The program in essence is an academic "window-shopping" opportunity. Those enrolled may (for $50 a semester) monitor any of a large selection of courses for any length of time—one lecture or an entire semester. A "licensee" might, for example, spend a week or two each in "Art of the Renaissance," "Marine Ecology," "U.S. Foreign Policy," or "Drug and Alcohol Abuse." Since there are no exams or papers, one can (re)experience the atmosphere and challenge of the college environment in a non-threatening manner. Although college credit cannot be granted, the program should accomplish the objectives of helping a student discover an area of interest and encourage him or her to seriously pursue a college or graduate degree.

The program's energetic counselor-director, Ruth Nance, is a prime exhibit of what college can do for the mature student—intellectually, economically and personally. Beginning as a tentative New Horizons "seeker," Ms. Nance has moved from UT's ethnic classrooms to the mystic streets of the Kremlin on a travel/study tour, and finally down the well-travelled walk where degrees are handed out.

The Learner's License is a low-keyed excursion into academia for the timid, the tentative and the uncommitted—its purpose is to transform them into the brave and the committed. As one of the brave and committed, Ms. Nance in turn will encourage others to take the first decisive step.

Most of her counselees will probably be women. They couldn't do better than talk to this open-minded, energetic woman. She has a rare combination of European sophistication and an easy empathy with the average American woman's conflicts—from the most soul-dividing to the everyday humble. And she knows how a woman often yearns to brush off what she calls "the domestic fuzz that settles on a woman." The program is certainly not limited to the female population, however; many men in their middle years are seeking for new directions and challenges through educational avenues.

Among the reasons Ms. Nance suggests for more mature persons—both men and women—to return to college are the added independence it affords, self-confidence, job mobility and salary increases, new bases of communication with the younger generation and with the world in general, and a more complete sense of personal identity.

Intellectual stimulation, creativity, expanded views, new career directions—these are the advantages of higher education that have no age limits.

Just ask Ruth Nance. She has information and some definite views to share. Her headquarters are the Admissions Office, Plant Hall (253-8861, Ext. 445).

It has been "the year of the woman" in politics at UT as well as in the nation and world. To prove it is Kathy Hoyne, elected the first woman president of the UT student body in the school's history. A senior marine biology major, Ms. Hoyne has been active in student government since her freshman year as senator. In other SGA offices the women have also held their own, having been recently elected to fill 50% of the major positions. Right on!

Sports honors for times past

The 1975 Spring sports season ended with a fine flourish at the Annual Spring Sports Awards Banquet on April 10. It had been a fine season—competition was stringent, spirits ran high, the victories were substantial and even spectacular.

The highest honor—Outstanding Athlete for 1974-75—went to a deserving Dave Hauser, who represented the University of Tampa at the 1975 NCAA Wrestling Championships. Athletes from all varsity sports except football were eligible for the award. Hauser, who wrestled at 158 pounds, compiled an enviable 13-1-1 dual meet record for the Spartans this past winter; including tournaments, his record reads 33-5-1.

Coveted awards went to other top UT athletes. Most Valuable Player plaques in tennis went to Jerry Goldstein of the men's team, and to Mindy Schreier of the women's team. John Sylvester, who is batting at nearly a .450 clip, was named baseball's Most Valuable Player—John's second such award.

Another second-time winner was golfer Bob Ford, who has accepted a position as a teaching professional with golf great Lew Worscham. Cited from the water ski team was Mike McGinley. Randy Newcomb received the award for soccer—a sport on the move at UT.

The only double winner was Jackie Langley, who was named Most Valuable Player for both the women's basketball and softball squads. She shared the basketball honor with Debbie Wilcox. Women's volleyball Most Valuable Player was Linda Frizzell.

Awards for the crew teams will be made at the conclusion of crew season, according to Coach Tully Vaughan. The crew teams are still rowing strong, with the latest reported triumph being the women's crew capture of the Regional Championship in Pine Mountain, Georgia, with an internationally competitive time.

The dinner was sponsored by the Tampa Alpha Chapter of the UT Alumni Association. Glenn Dobbs, former head coach and athletic director for the University of Tulsa, served as master of ceremonies.

Homecoming is being completely restructured and will be held the first weekend in March, 1976. We should have some definite schedule information by the time the next Muezzin goes to press.

Parents' Weekend at the University of Tampa will be October 31, November 1-2, 1975. Start making your plans now to attend this annual event planned for the purpose of familiarizing the parents of the student body with the University campus, faculty and administration, thereby insuring a closer relationship with the parents and the school.

Regency Travel Service, Inc., out of Brooklyn, New York, is again offering package travel arrangements for the weekend for parents in the New England area. For further information contact Sonny Yacker, Regency Travel Service, Inc., 2842 Church Avenue, Brooklyn, New York 11226.

and promises of things to come

With each ending comes a new beginning, especially in the tough, competitive world of sports. Serious athletes, such as those honored this spring at UT, cannot rest on their laurels. Already the emphasis is on things to come in 1975-76, the Bicentennial celebration year during which UT varsity and intramural sports plan to distinguish themselves even more solidly than this year.

The biggest news in expansion of UT's sports program is a new NCAA-AAU regulation swimming pool, to be constructed inside UT's newly acquired state fairgrounds adjacent to campus. The approximate cost: $80,000, half of which will come from the 1973-74 and 1974-75 senior class gifts. According to President B. D. Owens, the pool will have four primary uses: student recreation, physical education classes, eventual intercollegiate competition, and use in scuba classes.

The pool, which will measure 60 x 75 feet and feature a diving tank, is part of a larger plan for a recreation area in the fairgrounds complex. Located near the pool will be an area for lockers, snack bar, and possibly tennis and handball courts.

The projected recreation area plans are part of the new direction in sports at the University. Former Spartan coach Billy Turner has been named as Coordinator of Intercollegiate Sports and Intramurals for the coming year, and it is hoped that a significant portion of the students will participate in some way in one or more of the available programs.

President Owens and Senior Class President George Dunn participate in groundbreaking ceremonies for the University's new swimming facility.

The Spartan Club

...is part of the new image and commitment in the University of Tampa sports program.

As a new support organization, The Spartan Club serves as an umbrella for all UT athletics, both for men and women and for the intramural program.

Members of The Spartan Club will have the satisfaction of helping young athletes continue the University's winning tradition, which has brought fame and attention to UT and to the Tampa Bay area.

Membership in The Spartan Club is annual, and is tax-deductible as a gift to the University. Members can join at various levels to suit their means and interest, including the time-honored Sword & Shield at $100 per year. Gifts can be designated for specific athletic activities, such as crew, soccer or women's athletics.

More information on The Spartan Club is available from the Development Office, Plant Hall (Ext. 274).

Student Government Association out-going president Donald Marinelli of Hialeah, and Audrey Williams from St. Croix, Virgin Islands, were named the outstanding seniors of the 1975 graduating class. They were honored at the annual Honors Convocation, April 17. The first-time Sumter L. Lowry Freedom Award was given to Daniel P. Rauh. The Louise Loy Hunter Teaching Award for the outstanding faculty member went to Prof. Joe Testa-Secca, UT Artist-in-Residence.

the (almost) final word on forward fund '75

by Carl Johnson, Director of Development

It's almost all over but the shouting—and there's plenty to shout about.

The Forward Fund '75 Final Report Meeting on April 30 revealed a total of $414,119.10. This figure includes net new money of $44,863.78. With almost $50,000 of 1974 gifts from donors yet to be reported, the figures indicate the Forward Fund 1975 goal of $450,000 can be reached in the very near future.

Several festivities have already honored the winning team and individuals. A Barritt House cocktail and dinner party on May 16, hosted by Bob and Sue Owens, honored the winning team producing the most net new money: Captain Bob Rice, and team members Bill Chestain, Garrett Mangin, Paul Pinson, John Thrift and Jon West.

The top ten individual FF '75 volunteers bringing in the most net new money were treated to a Fondue Party at the International Inn, June 5; the party was hosted by Bill Watson and George Glover, owner and manager respectively of the Inn. The honorees: Rod DeHann, Jim Judy, Joe Martineau, Sharon Sandler, Art Stoutenberg, Howard Handwerg, Tom Johnson, Max Vance, Tom Steele and Tom Cone.

Miss Cindy Abbot was selected by Forward Fund volunteers to represent them as Miss Forward Fund 1975. Her selection was announced at the Final Report meeting by 1975 Forward Fund Chairman James L. Ferman, Jr., (left).

the university of tampa's student referral program

The University of Tampa has been doing an admirable job of swimming upstream against the onslaught of problems facing small private universities this year: diminished enrollments, a struggling economy, a national temper of caution and uncertainty.

The Admission Office particularly has been working steadily and hard to contact prospective students and encourage them to enroll in undergraduate or graduate programs. So far, prospects for next fall portend a positive trend.

One of the most productive ways alumni can reinforce this trend is to talk personally with student prospects. Another alternative is to join UT's student referral program.

To do this, just send the names of prospective students in your area, using the form provided below. Our Admissions Office will contact them and provide information and encouragement.

I recommend that the following students be sent information about the University of Tampa:

The unseasonal 90-degree heat at UT's Spring Commencement in Plant Park didn't daunt the 300-plus graduates or diminish their joy. A large audience was on hand to hear speaker U.S. Senator Richard Stone (Dem.-Florida), and to watch honors for the graduates and other special guests. The Senator (pictured at left) received the UT Distinguished Public Service Award—and a kiss from UT Trustee Sylvia Vega. Dr. David M. Delo, UT president emeritus, received an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters.

focus on faculty

The University family wishes Godspeed to its retiring faculty for this year: Captain James N. Schrader (Director, Military Education Program), Dr. Mary Louise Lake (education), and Professor Herman H. Siemens (physics). They were honored at this spring's Honors Convocation ceremonies.

Dr. Herman Saatkamp (philosophy) was chosen to be one of 12 participants in an NEH summer seminar at the University of Georgia on "Justice and Equality." He will attend under a $2000 grant, and will present a project on "Value Issues and Economic Theory."

Also on a summer grant, Dr. Steve Meats (chairman, humanities) will spend the next months at the University of North Carolina, researching the Revolutionary War novels of William Gilmore Simms and also appearing around the state as a guest lecturer on that topic.

Dr. Ben Hartzog, Jr. (banking & finance) is to be congratulated for being awarded a one-year fellowship (1975-76) for work and research at the Federal Home Loan Bank Board in Washington, D.C.

A UT dean and faculty member have been named as Outstanding Educators of America (OEA) for 1975. Marisol Grimal Johns, Dean of Student Development, and Dr. James J. Dinsmore, Associate Professor of biology, were nominated earlier this year by UT officials. They were selected for this national honor on the basis of exceptional civic and professional achievements. Their complete biographical sketches will appear in Outstanding Educators of America, the national awards volume.

A specialist on international economics on the UT faculty, and an incoming professor from Wisconsin with expertise in computer-assisted instruction have been appointed UT division chairmen, effective July 1. Dr. Michael Truscott, UT Associate Professor of economics and business was named chairman of the Division of Economics and Business. Dr. Waldo Widell, formerly of the University of Wisconsin in LaCrosse, will be chairman of the Division of Education. Current chairmen, Dr. William Czerwinski (economics & business) and Dr. Samuel Brick (education) will return to full-time teaching at UT.

There is a way to give and receive at the same time: the time-honored Gift Annuity Agreement. Here is how it works: You give to the University of Tampa irrevocably a gift of cash, securities or property. The University in turn enters into an agreement with you to provide you with a guaranteed and fixed income for your entire life. This income is based on the amount of your gift, your age at the time the gift is made, and whether one or two lives are involved. The gift also entitles you to a charitable contribution tax deduction for the year in which it was donated.

Send for your free Gift Annuity Calculator (using form provided below) and learn more about the value of this time-tested gift method in planning your affairs. You will find it helpful and informative.

The University of Tampa has plans to open the Lee Scarfone Art Gallery & Museum in early October.

Architect Lee Scarfone of Tampa has offered the University an estimated $50,000 facility which his firm will design and erect with the support and cooperation of culture-conscious individuals and firms in the community. Scarfone is shooting for a public grand opening on October 3.

The Gallery & Museum will be housed in the former Women's World Building of the fairgrounds adjacent to the main campus.

In addition to being a fine art museum, the Scarfone Gallery will also function as a teaching laboratory for UT art students.

The Western Civilization Corridor, as of May 28, is graced with yet another specially renovated classroom—the Environmental Room, donated by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Friedman of Tampa. The room commemorates the 25th anniversary of Southern Mill Creek Products Company, Inc. The dedication was held after the annual Board of Trustees meeting, and was followed by a cocktail buffet in Fletcher Lounge.
