

No vote for youth until 1971?

By Walter Grant
College Press Service

WASHINGTON — (CPS) — Despite President Johnson's support of a constitutional amendment to lower the voting age to 18, it is highly unlikely that young Americans will be truly accepted as participants in the political process before 1971 at the very earliest.

The President, in a special message to Congress said the time has come to signify to the 12 million persons between the ages of 18 and 21 that they are participants, not spectators, in the adventure of self-government.

To be effective, the amendment would have to be approved by a two-thirds vote in both the House and the Senate, and then be ratified by three-fourths of the states. Since all but three of the state legislatures will be in session in early 1969, and Congress did not approve the amendment this year, many of the legislative bodies may not have a chance to ratify it until they meet in regular session again in 1971.

Governors of states where the legislature meets only biannually could, of course, call special legislative sessions, to ratify the amendment, but this would be a great expense to the states, and therefore is improbable.

In addition to these obstacles, the amendment may face considerable opposition by some of the states, if not by Congress. Opponents of extending the right to vote to 18-year-olds are expected to emphasize two major arguments:

The recent wave of student demonstrations indicates that young people between the ages of 18 and 21 lack maturity and are not ready for the political process. During the Senate hearings on the amendment opponents argued that the demonstrations prove young people "are prone to take an extreme point of view and push their ideas to the exclusion of all others."

The states should retain the power to set the voting age.

Behind most of the opposition, of course, is the fear of politicians that they will be voted out of office if additional millions of young people are given the right to vote. Some observers already have pointed out that President Johnson did not support the amendment until after he decided to drop out of politics, and he still waited so late that Congress did not have time to act on it this year.

Most of the arguments in favor of extending the vote to 18-year-olds were outlined in the President's special message to Congress.

"Throughout our history as a young nation," Johnson said, "young people have been called upon by the age of 18 to shoulder family responsibilities and civic duties identical with their elders. At the age of 18, young Americans are called upon to bear arms" and "are treated as adults before many courts of law and are held responsible for their acts."

He also emphasized, "The age of 18, far more than the age of 21, has been and is the age of maturity in America — and never more than now."

In the election for freshman president, Dave Basarich defeated Andrew Bers 150-95 in the run-off contest after losing by 30 votes in the primaries.

Pool delayed By deed wait

The much-discussed swimming pool and tennis courts will soon be constructed at the University as part of its expansion program, Edmund Sliz, vice president for business affairs, has announced.

Start of construction is delayed until the land on which the facilities are to be built is deeded from the Tampa Urban Renewal

Basarich has always been interested in student government, after being active in his high school. He said he felt he can be of service to the entire school if he can represent the freshman class as a whole working unit.

Cheifitz, who ran on a ticket with Basarich, plans to bring the class in closer contact with student government.

Bill James, Attorney General of Student Government reported about one-third of the class voted.

New dorm planned

by Cliff Wallis
Minaret Staff Writer

Edmund Sliz, vice-president for business affairs, announced recently that a new men's dormitory will be erected at the University of Tampa as part of its expansion program.

Construction will begin within 60 days. The vice-president said it is hoped the dormitory will be in use by September, 1970, north of Phillips Field on the southwestern bank of the Hillsborough River. The uncertainty, at this point, is when the land for the site will be deeded to the University by the Tampa Urban Renewal project.

The site will cost $535,000 while $3.25 million will be the cost of constructing the building. The dormitory will be financed by rental income.

The residence hall has been planned for three years.

There are also two more dormitories planned for men and one more for women, according to Sliz.

House defeats committee bill

By Jeff Onore
Minaret Staff Writer

A bill passed by the Student Government Association Executive Committee pertaining to the selection and placement of students on University committees was defeated in the House of Representatives by a close vote.

House members voiced displeasure with the bill because it was inexplicit in its requirements for students to serve on these committees.

Two bills presented by Attorney General Bill James were defeated by the executive committee. A Bill of Obligation defined the responsibility of students to know student regulations and present their opinions or criticisms to the Student Government.

The bill was defeated after objections were raised as to its ambiguity and purpose.

Controversy was raised by a bill calling for the reducing of the number of room checks for juniors and seniors. After discussion about the need for a periodical check of living conditions, the bill was defeated.

What Is A Student Section For?

Here at the University we have some students referred to as "The Mature." Because of our advanced age we are given a few considerations such as not being required to take physical education, being exempted from outside activities like street dances, etc., and being provided with an elevator to get us up to the third floor. However in every other way we are students. We too must stand in long registration lines, pay tuition, attend classes, and take final exams before we are awarded our degrees.

For the most part we are serious, married, and over thirty. The women are usually housewives, mothers, teachers, and nurses seeking to improve their minds, their children, and their professional careers. The men come from every segment of this community including firemen, policemen, salesmen, and janitors that come to college with the hope of providing themselves and their families with a better future.

It seems only fitting that such an integral part of this University enjoy the same benefits as our younger counterparts. I am referring to the section provided for students at all athletic events.

Saturday night when we played Mississippi quite a few of us were treated unjustly and unjustly by fraternity members who stole our seats, refused to move, and informed us that we didn't belong in the student section anyway. They explained to us that they were forming a fraternity block and if our seats were being occupied by their fraternity brothers it was just our hard luck. Their rude, discourteous, and obnoxious behaviour created an unpleasant experience, annoyed the surrounding fans, and resulted in a policeman being called to remove them from the seats we had bought and paid for.

In the future I strongly suggest that they attend to their seating arrangements in a more suitable manner and conduct themselves in a more diplomatic fashion.

Just in case there is any doubt, all members of the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity should be informed that the student section is provided for all students, young and old alike, for the purpose of unifying people who enjoy giving their support and praise to the most fantastic football team Tampa has ever had.

Name withheld

The Minaret contacted Pi Kappa Phi President Jeff Leptich, and Mr. Leptich and his fraternity expressed their regret over the incident, and offered their sincerest apologies to those parties involved.

The editorial staff of the Minaret wishes to emphasize this letter in the hopes of discouraging any further incidents of this nature in the future. There have been a number of occurrences of students sitting in the wrong seats, and this is a definite imposition to the rightful owners of those seats. It is hoped that in the future an adequate system of seating the fraternities in their own block section, and of seating other groups together, can be devised.

More freedom means more spirit

Spirit and enthusiasm at the University of Tampa have attained a peak which not even TU's six-and-seven-year undergraduate students have witnessed before. Morale has reached a new high, and students are now beginning to say, "Yeah, I go to college; the University of Tampa," instead of mumbling, "I go to a small school in Florida. You probably haven't heard of it though."

One reason for this climbing of spirits, of course, is the "new" Spartans, who support a 6-1 record against a schedule of formidable opponents. A winning season always instills a feeling of superiority in the students.

However, another factor plays a big part in our student outlook. This factor is the more liberal attitude taken by the administration toward stringent rules of the University, mainly the dress code.

Students at TU are experiencing a spirit of freedom this year, instead of the constant fear of being reprimanded for a minor infraction in the rules. This new freedom instills a feeling of belonging in the students, especially the freshmen, and instead of rushing over to the registrar requesting the mailing out of transcripts, people are now rushing to the various organizations on campus, offering their services.

Never before have freshmen played such a large part in the activities of the university, and even upperclassmen, who in the past have had a record of apathy, are joining in the fun and games. This fact can be witnessed by the recent freshmen elections, where a large number of students ran for the vice-presidential and presidential posts in their class.

The dress code at the University of Tampa has always been a very controversial issue. It has been eased this year, though, and we believe that thanks are in order to the administration for their foresight in seeing that this change in the rules has finally made TU a school for the students, not the city of Tampa, or the board of trustees.

Society is constantly changing, and the rules and laws governing the people of the society must change too. This holds true in private institutions as well as public institutions. Tampa U. has made great strides in adapting to the changing times, and let's hope that TU continues in its policies of progress, not regress, especially in the social aspects of the University.

Dissent should not be restricted to your roommate or close friends. Dormitory discussions of outdated or inadequate school policy should be brought out in the open, where something can become of it. This goal can be achieved by contacting your Student Government Evaluation and Research Committee. It cannot function without your gripes, your comments, and your feelings toward the University's world.

PLEASE — let them know what is bothering you. Send your complaints in letter form to the Evaluation and Research Committee, c/o Student Government Association, and drop it in the inter-office mail boxes at the post office.

NEW FOOD SERVICE

Caterers seek opinions

Nancy Meehan
Minaret Staff Writer

Constant complaints in the past years over Morrison's food service finally have been acknowledged at the University of Tampa.

A R A Services, of Philadelphia, took over the contract at the University July 1, 1968.

Complaints in the past claimed students didn't get enough to eat and that the food served wasn't of the highest quality.

ARA Services offers a program where a person can get as much food as he wants. In order to make this program successful, there must be the smallest possible amount of food waste.

The first time through the line a student is allowed one salad, one dessert, one entre, two vegetables, rolls, one milk and one beverage. This is to keep students from taking more food than they can consume. If someone takes too much, he is destroying his own food dollar.

The only exceptions to this rule is steak night or when steam-ship roast beef is served.

According to Morris J. Pennock, director of food services at the University of Tampa, the food is being prepared differently and displayed in a more appetizing manner.

"Realizing that most of these students are from the North, I try to order as many northern foods as possible and prepare them accordingly. But I also try for variety. Right now I am primarily trying to convert to frozen vegetables such as corn, peas and carrots, instead of canned," states Pennock.

The new food service offers special meals that are centered around and the election meals last week are examples. "Many more of these meals are planned for the rest of the year," Pennock stated.

"We are also offering a program where the students vote on the meals they wish to have. The student government is deciding on one such theme now," Pennock explained.

This is a flexible program and Pennock and his assistant, Gene Dickerson, are open to student suggestions. If students have any complaints or suggestions, they would appreciate hearing them.

"I have asked students how they feel about our services," explained Pennock, "and if there are any problems, I would hope that the student would come to my office, instead of the administration. It will only revert back to me anyway."

Before coming to University of Tampa, Pennock worked for Longwood College, in Farmville, Va., for four and one-half years.

The food preference survey taken Oct. 29, is another aspect of A R A services. These forms are sent to headquarters in Philadelphia and the results are sent back in two weeks. They are carefully studied and changes made accordingly.

Other schools serviced by A R A are Florida Presbyterian, University of Miami, Bolles School in Jacksonville, University of Alabama, University of South Carolina, Wake Forest, American University in Washington, D.C., Georgetown, A & T State and some divisions of the University of California.

CBS-tv newsman to discuss election

Dan Rather, White House Correspondent for CBS News during the Johnson administration, will speak here on Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. in the Falk Theatre.

In his lecture, Rather will include a discussion of all major domestic and foreign policy issues involved in the 1968 presidential campaign. He will clarify the position of each of the candidates on the issues and interpret the effect their stands had on the outcome of the presidential race.

His privileged position as chief White House representative for CBS, as well as his years of reporting experience in Vietnam, Europe and Latin America, has given Mr. Rather unique insights into the ramifications, global and nationwide, of the '68 presidential campaign. And his many intimate glimpses of the candidates have provided him with the opportunity both to examine and to analyze their personalities.

Appointed White House Correspondent after he distinguished himself as CBS News' key Dallas correspondent during and after the assassination of President Kennedy, Rather has become a familiar figure in trouble spots around the globe. In 1965-66 he covered the war in Vietnam from Saigon as well as from the fighting fronts.

Even before his Vietnam assignment, Rather was no stranger to danger. He headed CBS News' coverage of the riots surrounding James Meredith's entry into the University of Mississippi; the turbulent civil rights demonstrations in Birmingham, Alabama; and the events at Tuscaloosa, Alabama, when Governor George Wallace "stood in the schoolhouse door" to prevent Negro students from entering the University of Alabama.

As Southern Representative for CBS, Rather covered revolts in Guatemala and Honduras, riots in Nicaragua and Panama, and the visit of President and Mrs. Kennedy to Mexico. As a CBS News correspondent he has traveled more than one million air miles and reported from all 50 states and more than a baker's dozen countries.

Rather joined CBS News in 1962 as Chief of the Southwest Bureau in Dallas, after two years as Director of News and Public Affairs for KHOU-TV in Houston. While he was at this station, his news operation won two national awards, the Headliners and the Sigma Delta Chi honors for television news public service.

The Program Council plans a reception for Rather at 3 p.m. Tuesday, in the International Room.

project. The projects should be completed within 45 days after construction starts, Sliz said.

No contract has been awarded yet for the $45,000 pool or the $13,000 courts.

The facilities have been planned for from three to five years as a result of student requests.

The swimming pool is primarily intended for use by residents of the proposed dormitory complex. To be open only to University students, the swimming pool will be located north of Phillips Field beside the Hillsborough River.

Three or four tennis courts of regulation intercollegiate size will be built north of Howell Gym.

The pool will be six lanes measuring 42 feet by 75 feet, regarded as a regulation intercollegiate swimming pool by the AAU. Another, Olympic-sized pool is proposed for erection on the grounds of the Florida State Fair if this land becomes available to the University.

The patios adjacent to the Student Center dining room will be enclosed and converted into part of the dining facilities during the Christmas holidays, Sliz stated.

Construction of aluminum and glass sidings will begin in late November. They should be finished during the Christmas vacation.

Enclosing the patios will provide 160 additional dining room spaces.

Leadership discussions highlight conference

Program Council Writer

The third Student Leadership Conference, sponsored by the Student Center Program Council is underway. For five weeks, the Conference, which began Oct. 24, a series of Thursday night seminars are planned to guide those students who hold or will hold positions of leadership.

Dr. Aureluido Jani will speak on the psychology of leadership and SGA Attorney General Bill James will address a two-part series on parliamentary procedure. Other topics include effective meetings and organization.

A certificate will be awarded for perfect attendance, signed by the Dean of Men, which can be used as an aid for future employment.

Seminars meet in Room 3 of the Student Center at 7:30 p.m., Nov. 14, 21 and Dec. 5.

Harris, Testa-Secca exhibit in galleries

Three acrylic paintings by Lewis Harris, new instructor in art at the University, will be exhibited during November at the Lee Nordness Gallery in New York City.

Harris said the works will be shown in a collection of paintings by University of Florida Professor Hiram Williams and some of his students. Harris studied under Williams and received his MFA at the University of Florida in 1968.

The instructor said all three of his works are shaped canvases of a sculptural look.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

We welcome to our sisterhood Lynn Benson, Carol Harding, Mary Pratt and Patsy Shealy. These four lovely girls were initiated on October 7th.

It is better late than never to congratulate and say how proud we are of sisters Sandy Link on becoming Homecoming Queen and Kathy Driscoll on becoming Lady-in-Waiting.

While we are on the subject of congratulations and best wishes, just look at this list of our sisters married this summer:

Ava Spitzer to Tom Allen
Nadine Austin to Jeff Silva
Sharon Harler to Jim Parker
Pat McClosky to Robert Wilson
Kiki Schiestl to Mike Irvin
Wanda Warren to Mike Selvanik
Cindy Wells to Robert King

Our very best wishes and love go with these girls and their husbands. Those of us left haven't been letting the grass grow under our feet either! Would you believe — Sue Bashaw pinned to Bill James? Congrats also to Mary Pratt recently pinned to Paul Ziko and Mary Morrison who is still pinned to Tom Cunningham. Congrats Pam Doster on finally engaging Bill (smiley) Mellin!

DELTA PHI EPSILON

The Deepers would like to congratulate all winners of Homecoming skits and lawn display on a job well done.

The D Phi E's have pulled through with a triumphant victory in our last volleyball game with the GDI's. In the last minutes of the game, sister Donna Poll picked up fourteen points and led us to a winning score of 15-8.

Best wishes are expressed to Deepher Carole Wagner and Pi Kap Bobby Gumrot on being pinned.

Brenda Braun made her TV debut this past week when she narrated an early morning fashion show on WFLA.

This year's "Nerve of the Year Award" goes to "Goldie" (Sock it to me) Wells for her unprecedented performance in D Phi E's Laugh-In.

Sisters Barb Weinstein and Janice Wells have been in the "dog house" lately. Janice says, "It's a nice place to visit, but I wouldn't want to sleep there," while Barb just thinks it's "repugnant."

As of last week, "Sister" Angie Ciavarelli has taken her "last vows." Angie has also reported that she has developed a new "drink" which is really quite a knockout.

Good luck to everyone on the upcoming mid-term exams.

B. W.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

Congratulations to those who placed in this year's Homecoming lawn displays and skits. Even after a week's delay the competition was so hot that everything ended in a blaze of fire. Such spirit will be hard to match in future years. A special thanks to Donna Blaess, lawn display chairman, for her ideas and hard work that brought us the first place trophy.

Congratulations to Janet Lewis and Donna Blaess who are now holding the positions of President and Vice President of Gamma Sigma.

Congratulations also go to Liz Worthing and Vic Diefenderfer, of Tau Kappa Epsilon, on getting lavaliered.

Our Sunday volleyball practices among the sisters are sure paying off. Wednesday we won our second game to put us back into the competition with two wins and one loss. Co-ordination awards go to Irene and Vicky for their fine volleyball tactics.

C. G.

ALPHA EPSILON PI

Once again congratulations is in order for our Fighting Spartans, who are number one in the Pi Poll.

Be on the lookout for a big money making project by our brotherhood. It is rumored that a certain Nicky Newark is looking forward to the third annual penny guess, but it will not be held until the spring. Sorry, Fred!

Has anyone seen Ira Klein? If spotted you should report to the psychiatric ward, as it must have been an hallucination. Willie is looking more like Genghis Khan every day. Gary has won the best date award for his wonderful performance during and after last week's game. Is it true Bear has stopped drinking, and is on a skim milk kick? Doubtful, very doubtful!

Finally we wish to congratulate Mike and Warren on their apathetic nature! Keep up the good work fellows.

PI KAPPA PHI

Congratulations go to those fraternities and sororities who placed in lawn displays and skits. Our skit took third place this year and all the thanks go to Arty Cooper for writing and directing it.

Our Halloween party was really great this year, with the best costume award going to Buddah and his Tarzan leopard skin.

We are kicking off our intramural year well with one win and one tie. In fencing, we found out that Jack is not a Zorro!

Apologies go to Bob Most, House Manager, who was left out of the listing of officers in our last article. Bob, you're doing a really great job taking care of the house. Keep it up.

Pi Kapp Quickies: Buddah's rating on the dating game has been falling, he's having his own troubles.

Guess what Buz — the Vanilla Fudge are in town! This year, get the show date right! Arty is giving the house his horn as a warning device so Buddah doesn't have to play Paul Revere at 2:30 a.m. when the distress call is heard.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

The people of Sigma Phi Epsilon would like to congratulate the Delo Forensic Society on their award winning skit performance. Unfortunately for us, our drug bag theme apparently had a few holes in it. Maybe next year we will be fortunate enough to have the F.B.I. and Vice Squad represented in the judging.

We would like to congratulate Zeta Tau Alpha on their recent victory in the lawn displays. Unfortunately there were some people who did not share this enthusiasm to the point of thinking the display was, "on fire."

Sympathy is extended to those courageous brothers who must suffer daily at the hands of their students. It is a constant wonder to see how they can submerge themselves in such mediocracy and still emerge with their original and highly developed sensitivities.

Is Rick Johnson's car stalled at Sam's or is their another reason?

What conservative, extremely right wing reactionary, is receiving the newspaper of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of Cuba? No conversion evidence as yet, but there is still hope.

TAU KAPPA EPSILON

The fraters of TKE are busy as usual. One-dollar tickets are on sale now for a car wash being held on Saturday, November 9. That same Saturday the TKE's are holding their traditional "Toga Party" — Roman style. The Halloween party turned out a success. Even Professor Lloyd was well entertained.

Congratulations to Smity and Debbie and to Greg and Bobbi on being pinned. Congratulations to Paul Zicko and Mary Pratt and to Vic Diefenderfer and Liz who are lavaliered. Congratulations to pledges William James, James Patterson, and Ken Dickson who were obtained through open rush.

MISCELLANEOUS:

Are the Tampa police really going to take away Foley's car in place of a stroller? Only Jim Foley could run over an entire display of oil cans while making a U-turn through a gas station and plow into Rocky's station wagon on the way home. What happened to the dirt under Don Juan's nose? What ever happened to Randy Squires, III? When will Andy Susla ever stop thanking his lucky stars? Someone said Stu Williams was feeding pledges to his man-eating Siamese fighting fish. Did anyone notice if Don Juan's date was snaked at the Halloween party?

TAU EPSILON PHI

The brothers of TEP have been very active. Rudy Grant is busy on this year's yearbook. Steve Rudolph is becoming an actor and is head of the University Players. Steve Levy follows his other two brothers with time consuming jobs as president of the Rhycology frat.

Now, on the other side, we have some brothers whose idleness is interrupted periodically like brother Brian Mitchell and Alan Goldberg. Brian is doing his best to help enforce the law by taking a firm stand on gun control, that is, when not attending his bar exams. The only trouble is where he is standing when the gun is being controlled.

Now brother Goldberg has finally trained his dog to know where the paper is. The trouble is, his dog has a hard time trying to house break Allen!

On the intramural scene, the TEP football team went down to defeat to Sig Ep for the first time in more than three years.

We won intramural football last year and plan on the same this year. Keep your eyes on the rest of the games!

THETA CHI

The brothers of Theta Chi fraternity proudly congratulate the University of Tampa, 1968 Homecoming Queen, Sandy Link. Sandy was sponsored by the brotherhood and escorted by handsome brother Micky Tighe.

In other Homecoming activities Theta Chi took third place honors with their lawn display.

Chuckholes have been mysteriously appearing on nearby brick roads as the fall pledge class began carrying their jewels last week. We hear that pledge Brian Wormser has gotten 35 per cent fewer cavities since he has been carrying the Theta Chi "toothpick."

Recipient of the Theta Chi Most Valuable Player Award for the Mississippi State game is "Fast" Eddie Johnson. The award is given by the Fraternity to the outstanding player of each home football game.

In intramural competition the Vikings tied the Pi Kaps 6-6 in their first game. Intramural chairman Bart Travaglio sustained a broken nose in the melee. The Vikings are at the present time in first place, undefeated after an expected 7-6 win over the TKE's.

We hear an anonymous brother missed the homecoming game and was found later sleeping in the weeds of the stadium parking lot.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

Wednesday, October 16, was the first meeting of the International Relations Club in which elections of 1968-69 officers were held. Those elected are as follows: President, Gail Kirkconnel, Vice President, Astrid Rogers, Secretary, Janet Johnson, and Treasurer, Barbara Kanaszka. Appointed to the House of Representatives was Janet Johnson.

The club focused its attention to the Biafrican War. Janet Johnson suggested that the club might pursue a fund raising program in order to send money to the Biafrans: However, this would involve great efforts, basically because of the red tape that would have to be gone through.

The I.R.C. meets bi-monthly, on Wednesdays at 4:00 p.m. in the International Room. We are encouraging those students who are interested to attend our next meeting. The promotion of world peace must begin with the individuals. Through the combined efforts of the individuals within the I.R.C., we strive to make our University and our society a better place to live.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS

Roy Thompson, Hillsborough County Chairman for Nixon, spoke to the Young Republicans October 21. Thompson spoke on three major issues of this political year; inflation, crime, and Viet Nam. He offered justification for supporting Nixon.

Last year Thompson returned from Viet Nam where he was Bureau Chief of the Stars and Stripes newspaper — a daily paper sent to Saigon, which was sending 110,000 papers daily. The paper helps to alleviate friction between United States and Viet Nam. It was Thompson's discouragement with the war and the method the government in Viet Nam handled situations that motivated him to return to the states and be of assistance to the means to the end.

Weight problem? join the crowd

"Why am I one of the many typical college students gaining weight?"

This question puzzles many freshmen and upper classmen on our campus and at other universities. The ability to put on excess weight is not difficult for many individuals being subjected to the great amount of starchy foods such as bread, rich desserts, and potatoes which are plentiful in our cafeteria. Students also find a need for either a sandwich, hamburger, or candy bar to get them through the long hours during the evening.

Pupils should be aware of this problem and once over weight they should place themselves on a diet.

One next might ask the question, "But how do I diet?" Weight is based on the consumption of calories. The fewer calories you consume the less you will weigh. The meaning of calories is the measuring how much energy a particular amount of food will produce. Foods with lots of calories produce lots of energy — energy used to breathe, to exercise and for other activities. Only the calories you do not need cause problems and pounds, not those required to function. You gain weight when you consume more calories than you use up. These extra calories are stored as fat. You lose weight when you use up more energy than you have taken in. Your body then goes to the calorie "bank" and draws on the reserve you have stored up in extra pounds.

There is no secret for finding the successful diet. Most authorities agree that by cutting down, not out on the intake of food is the best method. Skipping breakfast or skimping on lunch won't work. First decide how much you need to lose, then follow your diet. There is no need to follow the diet meal-for-meal; feel free to mix-and-match, eating all the foods you like . . . just eating less of them. Much of the food you have been consuming: soft drinks, pastry, candy are actually "empty" calories — they add up, but they don't add vitamins and minerals or the protein your body needs. The successful dieter must learn to eat, not starve. There are those who have lost weight many times. But a good dieter diets but once and teaches their body a whole new way of eating.

The following list are some helpful points in dieting.

1. A scale is worth its weight in pounds lost.
2. Limit your fluids to 8 cups per day.
3. Cut food into tiny bites. Eat slowly.
4. Use as little salt as possible.
5. Eat a good breakfast. Don't skip meals.
6. Eating out? Have the waiter skip bread and butter.
7. Coffee and tea are low calorie drinks.
8. Do not diet while upset or studying for finals.
9. Use saccharin for sugar.
10. Stop eating before you are full.
11. Go Californian; eat your salad first.
12. Budget your dieting: eat less one day, have an extra treat the next.
13. Try to stay away from fried foods.
14. Firm up the pounds you have with exercise and then you will look inches smaller now.
15. Watch yourself, just think of the appearance that you are making on others.

MINARET MAID OF THE WEEK

Meet Bobbi Downer, a Canadian Miss hailing from Goose Bay, Labrador.

She is a sociology major and has an unquenchable thirst for knowledge. When asked about school, she replied, "I love it. Sometimes I just wander off and groove amidst the bookshelves and cobwebs in the library. And, after a hard day in class, I hop over to the Retreat and blow the suds with Steve the bartender. I hope to see you all there. Take it easy but take it."

Petti scores hit with Oedipus

by Herb Goode
Minaret Staff Writer

"Oedipus Rex," perhaps the most famous of tragedies, opened at Falk Theatre last week to a capacity crowd.

Vince Petti, drama director, produced and directed the student performance, a compromise between a short, tight production and a long, drawn out one.

This allowed the entire cast the opportunity to participate actively while enabling the audience to enjoy an under two hour performance without an intermission.

Oedipus and Jocasta, the leads, were played by David Upson and Grace Hackney, both professional imports from the community. The rest of the cast was students.

Staging, set and costume design, although sparse, was authentic - looking, leaving little to be desired. Much attention was given to detail from the palace portals to the sandals and frayed togas.

Oedipus' and Jocasta's gowns were exquisite, looking more like Cassini originals than costumes. Neither one, Oedipus nor Jocasta, could have looked more genuine.

Unfortunately, Oedipus' makeup, being too heavy made him look more like Herman Munster than a king.

Paul Gowack as Teiresias and Jan Vest as the shepherd gave the finest performances of all, making one feel drawn into the action.

Upson was the only one, considering experience, who was not up to par. I felt he didn't feel the part himself and thus could not convey a true feeling to the audience.

The play as presented was an enjoyable experience and congratulations are in order to Petti for a job well done.

Zetas, Delo Forensic take homecoming awards

Zeta Tau Alpha sorority and Delo Forensic Society captured first place in the Homecoming lawn display and Spartan Spoofs contests Oct. 24 and 26. The events were postponed during homecoming because of Hurricane Gladys.

"Jump on the Spartan Bandwagon" was the invitation of the Zeta entry in keeping with the "Peanuts and Politics" theme. The display featured a bouncing wagon carrying the Peanuts characters and drawn by Snoopy in pursuit of a Huron Indian. Prairie scenery revolved in the background and Pig Pen in his cloud of dust brought up the rear.

The Great Pumpkin, another timely Peanuts character, of Alpha Chi Omega sorority won second place. Theta Chi's depiction of Snoopy killing an Indian netted them third place. All winning displays employed moving parts.

Judging of the displays was based on originality, technical ability and overall appearance. Judges were Mr. Pekars, Mr. Fonte and Mr. Palios.

Delo Forensic captured Spoof honors by lampooning various national figures and campus personalities. Snoopy and Lucy offered friendly advice and psychiatric counseling to the presidential candidates.

Coaches praise offensive line

Week after week, game after game, there are a group of men who practice as they play and play as they practice. No matter if its in practice or a game they give everything they've got, they are seldom if ever praised, but still they play in only one way and that is to win. Throughout the course of a game their name may never be mentioned and it usually isn't except at their introduction. These are the ones who take the blame if him. Russ, as he proved last season and is again proving, is perhaps one of the finest guards in Tampa history. This business major has grown ripe in football ability. He does everything well, his good speed makes him very effective as a "pulling" guard, and his size and strength enables him to perform well as a pass blocker and in moving those big defensive linemen.

Lined next to Edge is Pat Turner, also a senior, 6-0, the offense doesn't move, and the ordinary spectator usually credits them with no more than a helping hand when a back runs for a gain or a pass is completed. But the lack of praise or glamor seldom hinder them in their performance, for if they are knocked down they get up, and if they are stymied they try a little harder. Men like these compose the University of Tampa Spartan offensive interior linemen.

Co-captain Russ Edge, a 6-0, 210 lb. senior from Cedertown, Ga., heads this lineup with three very strong years of experience behind 220 lb. from Hialeah, Fla. This mobile senior has filled the vacant position left by an unsung hero who has not yet had the chance to play this season, Vasa Stolbrand. Up until the start of this season Pat was a defensive specialist, but when fate fell upon Vasa before the first game in the form of appendicitis, Pat was nominated to fill the vacancy. Pat may not have the offensive proneness of Vasa, but what he lacks in knowledge he more than makes up in strength and determination. Perhaps this is what makes him such a valuable unit, and even though he may be underrated by some, it is sure that his teammates and the coaches give him the highest rating. Vasa, having lost 20 lbs from his 6-0 frame during his illness, is on the road to recovery.

The right side of the line is anchored by Dick Nittinger. This 6-3, 245 lb., right tackle from Sayre, Pa. is a big reason why the offense moves so well. For a big man he is very quick, and is probably the best blocker on the team. Only a junior,

Coach Curci has rated Dick in this manner, "He's a great ballplayer", and "He's going to be a pro someday."

The remaining parts of the fantastic wall of humanity are filled by center Jack Warren, and guard Barry Perez. The center, a sophomore at 6-2, 215 lbs, from Plant City, Fla., is going to be a good one. Barry, meanwhile, is only a freshman at 5-11, 215 lb. These two are the youngest in experience of the fearsome five. Yet what they haven't yet learned they make up for by sheer drive and desire, and maybe something known as "guts."

These are really the players which really make the offense go. They play for "your" team. The next time the offense scores, think of these players and what would have happened if they didn't do their job. Maybe when they come trotting off the field it would be nice if someone gave them a round of applause. They deserve it.

P. E. majors lead dorm league; Pi Kaps, Theta Chi share frat lead

Men's intramurals of the 68-69 year have gotten underway and are in full swing with the fraternities again showing the way.

The season again this year started with the usually unheard of sport of fencing. The Sig Eps started their intramural program off with a first place victory, as defending champion Smokey Burgess was the Sig Ep victor. Dwight Donage of TKE placed second and Bart Travaglio captured third.

The flag football program is probably the most enthusiastic of all the intramural games played. TKE started off the season with two quick victories, but were beaten by Theta Chi, who now 1-0-1, is in a first place tie with the Pi Kaps.

In the dormitory league, the Major's Club has yet to be beaten and holds a commanding lead with a 3-0 record. But the Independents are still in contention in second place with a 2-1 card.

In both leagues all the games have been sparked with fierce competition because this is the true starting point for an organizations goal of attaining the overall intramural championship.

Other sports now in progress are horseshoes, billiards and baitcasting. The only other competition before Thanksgiving vacation will be volleyball which begins Nov. 12, and table tennis which starts on the 19th.

All Records are based on those of Nov. 1, 1968.

'Fast' Eddy receives award

Eddy Johnson, Spartan defensive back, receives Outstanding Player of the Week award from Mike Tighe for his performance in the Mississippi State game.

by TONY GAUDIO
Minaret Staff Writer

"Fast" Eddy Johnson, Spartan defensive back, has been selected the Theta Chi Most Valuable Player for the Mississippi State game.

Johnson was honored for his outstanding performance in the game which he bottled up State's Sammy Milner, second leading pass catcher in the nation, allowing him only 38 yards in 5 receptions.

Johnson was presented a plaque by the fraternity at a dance held in the Student Center Thursday, October 31.

Previously, plaques were presented to Leon McQuay for his record setting performance against Akron and to Spartan captain Ron Brown for his outstanding play in the Eastern Michigan game. Both were presented their awards at the Spartan Spooft Skit night at Falk Theater.

Theta Chi awards a plaque to the most valuable player in each home game. Each player may receive the award once during the regular season. An overall Most Valuable Player Trophy will be presented at the end of the season. Players receiving the honors are selected by area sports writers.
