A New Face For An Old Star

By JERRY THOMSEN
Campus News Editor

With a $25,000 facelift in progress, the old Florida State Fair Administration Building will soon be ready for limited use as the University's new student activity center.

Located in the southwest corner of the fairgrounds, the building is now being remodeled for outdoor functions and should be ready for use by Oct. 10, according to Leo Smith, director of plant management.

"All we're doing now is preparing it for outside use, such as dances," said Smith.

The renovations include a new concrete courtyard, an eight-foot cypress wood fence, and new sections of barrel time roof similar to those of the nearby Lee Scarfone Gallery. The outside is also being cleaned up and new trees will be planted in the courtyard.

The outside of the building will eventually be painted, but Smith said it wouldn't be done by Oct.

10. "We're hoping that students are going to volunteer to paint," he said, adding that he's seeking the help of small groups of about a half-dozen students.

No work will be done on the inside of the building except for freshening up the bathrooms and adding a few doors. Plans exist for a 250-seat movie theater and student offices, but these have to sit on a back burner until more money can be found.

The cost to fully renovate the structure is now estimated to be about $70,000. "We can't make any structural changes unless we have more money," said Smith. The $25,000 for the outside work came from last year's $20,000 senior class gift and some "other sources," said Smith.

"The cost overrun is out of sight on the building," said Carl Hite, dean of students, adding that the original estimate of about $20,000 was "way off."

Hite also said there will be a contest to rename the building. He'll give the details sometime in the future.

UT Gets Spartan Arms

By MARGARET M. O'ROURKE

The University of Tampa acquired the 35-unit Spartan Arms building for conversion into a student residence to help meet the increasing demand for on-campus housing.

The apartments on the upper two floors have been renovated and converted into 70 additional student spaces for occupancy. The rooms provide comfortable and presentable apartment-like accommodations and each unit has a complete bath and a kitchen sink. For safety, the kitchen appliances have been removed.

Part of the 10,000 square foot ground floor will be retained by the University for office space and other uses. The balance of the ground floor space will be available for commercial rental through the University of Tampa Improvement Foundation (UTIF), a separate non-profit corporation which acquired the Spartan Arms property.

The UTIF was established to handle real estate opportunities for the University. It operates with a board of directors separate from the University. Fischer Black, its president, is a former chairman of the University Board of Trustees.

Even with the addition of the 70 spaces in Spartan Arms there have been more requests for housing than there are spaces available. Some students were housed temporarily in the Travel Lodge motel on Kennedy Boulevard until space opened up.

The Spartan Arms building is the latest purchase by the UTIF of property adjacent to the University. The old Aires Diner property was acquired in December. "The Spartan Arms acquisition was just the next step in an on-going program to establish a definite perimeter for the University and to help control the quality of the environment of its immediate surroundings," said William Ebsary, UTIF vice president and local insurance agent.

Student Attacked: Campus Crime Increasing

By MARGARET M. O'ROURKE

On Sept. 21, at approximately 1:30 a.m., a female UT student was assaulted at 202 S. Parker St.

The student was walking in the parking lot of the Tampa Tribune next to the Hillsborough River when an unknown black male, approximately 15 to 18 years of age, struck her on the right side of the face with a bottle. She ran to Howell Hall where University Police proceeded to investigate the incident. The suspect was not apprehended.

This is just one of the numerous criminal incidents which have either involved a UT student and/or have occurred on campus this year. Last week, University Police arrested a subject who walked on campus into Howell Hall and stole a camera from a resident's room. The subject is in jail and the camera has been returned. However, many thefts have occurred on campus in which the thief has not been apprehended.

From May 1 through Aug. 31 of 1979, University Police investigated 213 incidents of suspicious persons on campus.

University Police Chief Patrick J. Schaefer, said that most of the thefts that have occurred on campus could have been prevented by locking residence rooms or covering valuable property so that it cannot be seen.

University Police Corporal Linda Hicks has been designated Crime Prevention Officer. Her main duty is to disperse crime prevention information to students and staff members. Corporal Hicks will be conducting formal crime prevention meetings in all of the residence halls on campus with the hope of reducing crime on campus.

Chief Schaefer commented, "It's much easier to prevent crime than to investigate and make an apprehension afterwards."

Last weekend we had our annual pledge picnic at Picnic Island. This was held with the Alpha Delta sorority. Many burgers, hotdogs, oysters, and much fluid was consumed. During our escapades on the beach, we saw many shells, including the elusive Silver Dollars.

Saturday was the Miller Beer - Pi Kappa Phi Tug-of-War. With sunny skies and cold beer, who could ask for a better day. The Pi Kapp A-team took first place in the fraternity division, and second overall.

This weekend is "Pounds of Pennies for P.U.S.H." at Tampa Bay Center. Bring your pennies on Saturday at 9:30 a.m.

The current record of the Pi Kapp football team is 7-0. We will go all season undefeated. Don't stand in my way, Bucko.

Aloha,
Mrs. Murphy

ZBT News

ZBT would like to thank everyone who came to our Backyard Bash. It was a hellacious night and a great success. Good times were had by all. We hope to see you at future ZBT events.

There will be a pledge picnic this Saturday at Lowry Park at 11:30 a.m. The list of munchies include hamburgers, hot dogs, and plenty of brew for all. Besides Lowry Park's usual attractions of rides, zoo, and wide open spaces, there will be a brothers vs. pledges football game which is sure to have interesting results.

OK folks, here's your chance to go to a free concert. A free concert you say? There has to be a catch.

Well, you're right, there is.

Kappa Kappa Psi, University of Tampa's honorary band fraternity, is looking for students to act as ushers at this year's performances of the Florida Gulf Coast Symphony. The concerts will be held at McKay Auditorium.

Anyone interested in ushering and enjoying an evening of excellent music at the same time should send their name and P. O. box number to the fraternity's P. O. box 2775.

The Pledge Class of Fall 1980 held their first meeting with vice-president of Pledge Education, Gail Tucker, on Sunday, Sept. 26 in the library.

Congratulations are extended to the Pledge Class officers, consisting of Andy Zarlinski, president; Donna McCloskey, vice-president; and Bryon Holz as Fund-Raising Chairperson. The pledges as well as the Brothers of Delta Sigma Pi are looking forward to an exciting and worthwhile semester. GOOD LUCK PLEDGES OF DELTA SIGMA PI!

Student Political Organization

The Student Political Organization (SPO) of the University of Tampa is pleased to announce the results of the election of officers held on Sept. 11. This year's officials are: Richard Fasman, president; Bill Graham, vice-president; Tom Egan, secretary; and Mike Galuska, treasurer.

The SPO is a non-partisan political organization that is composed of students interested in politics and government. Meetings are held every Thursday at 4:15 p.m. in Plant Hall, Room 210. All interested students are welcome to attend the meetings.

Some activities planned for this semester include a voter registration drive, pre-law forum, and a question and answer session with representatives of the major candidates for President.

For further information about the organization or any of its activities, contact any of the officers or Dr. Piper, Room 214.

Need Employment?*Full And Part-time Jobs Are Available

By NORMA CALTAGIRONE

Looking for a part-time or full-time job? If you've been up to the third floor of Plant Hall for help in doing so, you probably noticed the job bulletin board is now divided into six bands of color with the job leads posted on separate bands. Why divide a job board up this way? Sure, it makes it more colorful, but more importantly, I am hoping to make distinctions between types of jobs. Based on your interests and personality, you are probably more attracted to one type over another. Your past experiences may have a common thread running through them and my hope is that in selecting your present part-time or summer jobs, you are testing out these experiences for your future occupation.

According to John L. Holland, a professor from Johns Hopkins University who has studied occupations for years, there are six basic categories of occupations (and of people), and every job can be grouped into one of these categories or some combination of them. Each band on the job board corresponds to one of Holland's categories. Briefly described, they are:

Realistic - these are mainly skilled trades or technical jobs, usually involving work with tools or machines.

Investigative - these are scientific and laboratory jobs; jobs where people investigate how the world is put together.

Artistic - these are creative jobs where people work with words, or music, or art.

Social - these are jobs where people work with people - healing them, teaching them, helping them.

Enterprising - these are jobs where people persuade other people to do something - sales jobs, political jobs, merchandising jobs.

Conventional - these are usually office jobs where people work with organizations, files, and regular schedules.

Some jobs fall directly into one category, but most jobs fall in between or are a combination of two or three categories.

In planning your career, you should concentrate on the category that attracts you most but you also need to know more about jobs in the others and more about yourself.

Jobs differ in three important ways: 1) the actual work involved on the job, 2) the type of co-workers attracted to each job and 3) the unique rewards of each kind of job.

I will be describing these differences more thoroughly in the next six "Career Corner" columns, going into detail about each difference for all six types of occupations. If you can't possibly wait six weeks to find out which category you fall into, come up and see me in 305 Plant. There are several questionnaires available to help you see where your interests are highest and they are correlated to Holland's types.

Ya Gotta Love It!*An Attempt At StudyingBy VALERIE deBLOIS
Minaret Columnist

I dragged myself out of bed this past Saturday groggy, but alive. I had two days to complete the assignments haunting me all week. "This weekend," I wrote in blood on my mirror, "I am getting my work done." I gathered up my $120 worth of books and began the lonely journey to UT's pinnacle of knowledge and resource, Merl Kelce Library.

My first obstacle came in trying to cross Kennedy Boulevard. I did have a nice conversation with one of the more talkative "Tampa Townies" who quipped, "Going to learn your A,B,C's huh? All them books is a waste of time." If I was a little more with it, I would have thrown my fifteen pound biology book through his person. He was lucky, this time. I did make it over the wall, down the cement steps, and past the familiar odor of the Hillsborough River.

Breakfast time, barrier number two. If I could bring myself to eat a cold omlette and blueberry yogurt at one sitting, I would have no problem in getting to the library.

I made a third stop along the way to see the soccer game. This gave me a chance to sit in the sun awhile and go over what I had to get done in my head (intelligent collegiate reasoning). During halftime, I did get my psychology book out and read a chapter (a chapter I realized I had already read as I was finishing the summary-- wake up, Valerie!). Reality hit, the game was over, I was out of pitstops.

I made it to the library by mid-afternoon and walked up to the smoking lounge. It was the first time I had the room all to myself (and the last time I'll forget my cigarettes and remember the matches). My syllabi before me, pen in hand, I was ready to study. Never let anyone tell you getting motivated to study is easy, it's not. I found however, once under the buzzing fluorescent lights in the serene atmosphere, one can accomplish procrastinated work. I wrote 32 letters in all. Ya gotta love it.

New York Fashion School Offers FellowshipsFrom Tobe-Coburn School For Fashion Careers, Ltd.

Each year, up to eight $3000 full-tuition fashion fellowships are awarded by the Tobe-Coburn School for Fashion Careers in New York City to senior men and women graduating from four-year colleges before August 31 and December 31. Now in its forty-third year, this widely-known school of fashion retailing and promotion will make its annual awards this winter. Each fellowship covers the full tuition for the One Year Course and results in an Associate Degree in Occupational Studies (A.O.S.) authorized by the New York State Education Department Board of Regents. The school is an accredited member, National Association of Trade and Technical Schools (NATTS).

Fashion fellowships are granted to encourage promising college graduates to enter a profession which offers unusual opportunities for advancement to well-trained people.

Graduates hold a wide variety of executive positions in merchandising, advertising, fashion coordination, on magazines or newspapers and as owners of their own shops.

The school maintains an active lifetime placement service for its graduates.

Ten full weeks of work in top department or specialty stores and other fashion-related organizations provide on-the-job experience, an exciting supplement to classroom training.

New York City, the center of fashion, provides the broad background for the carefully organized One Year Course, planned to equip its graduates for executive positions in the fashion field. Close contact with the fashion industry comes through frequent lectures by well-known fashion personalities plus visits to manufacturers, buying offices, publishers, fashion shows, museums and through social events.

Seniors may secure fashion fellowship registration blanks from the placement office, Dean's office, or from the director of admissions, Tobe-Coburn School for Fashion Careers, Ltd., 851 Madison Avenue, New York, New York 10021, (212) 879-4644.

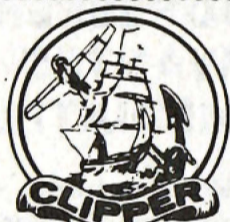

Registration closes Nov. 15, 1980.

Alcohol Information Workshops

By DR. CARL HITE

Mr. Robert Leahy will be sponsoring four Alcohol Information Workshops during the Fall Semester, 1980. The purpose of these workshops will be to provide you with information about alcohol and its effect on you. The more you know about alcohol, the more rational your decision will be concerning its use. These workshops will be scheduled on Monday night beginning at 9 p.m. and lasting for one hour. They will take place in Room 2 of the University Union. The workshops will be on Oct. 20, Nov. 24, and Dec. 15. If you have any questions concerning the workshop, please contact Mr. Robert Leahy, Director of McKay Hall, ext. 338.

The workshop will include a movie and a questionnaire concerning your knowledge of alcohol and its effects, followed by a discussion. Many students establish drinking patterns while they are in college. It is important that before you establish this pattern, you have an understanding of what alcohol is all about as well as its effects. We hope that you will attend.

GMA Test Now Available

The Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT) will be offered on Oct. 25, 1980, and on Jan. 24, Mar. 21, and Wednesday evening, July 15, 1981. The Wednesday evening test in July is a change from the traditional Saturday morning test and replaces the Saturday test.

Scores on the GMAT, a test of academic aptitude designed to estimate an applicant's promise for success in a program of graduate study leading to an MBA or similar degree, are used by about 675 graduate schools of management in admission to MBA programs.

GMAT registration materials are available locally from Norma Caltagirone in 309 Plant Hall or by writing to GMAT, Educational Testing Service, Box 966, Princeton, N.J. 08541.

The GMAT fee for candidates tested at published test centers in the U.S., Guam, Puerto Rico, U.S. Virgin Islands, and U.S. territories is $23.50. The fee for candidates tested in other countries is $28.50.

GMAT registration forms and test fees must be postmarked on or before the registration deadlines announced in the bulletin. A $4 late fee is charged for registrations (domestic centers only) postmarked during the late registration period. Procedures and fees for testing at supplementary centers not listed in the bulletin are described in the bulletin.

In cases of emergency candidates may register at the test centers on a day-of-test standby basis if sufficient space and test materials are available after all preregistered candidates have been admitted. To be admitted on this basis a candidate must present a completed registration form and a check or money order for the regular test fee plus an additional $10 service fee. The late registration fee does not apply here. There is no guarantee that space for day-of-test standby registrants will be available.

MBA Forums Scheduled For Fall, Winter

Masters of Business Administration forums are being offered in six cities during the fall and winter of 1980-81 under the sponsorship of the Graduate Management Admission Council to help students and working people to learn more about graduate management education. Prospective applicants will be able to talk with admissions representatives from MBA programs about admission procedures, curriculum offerings, financial aid and placement, and career opportunities in management. In addition, representatives of admissions offices, corporate recruitment, recent MBA graduates, public administration programs, and various corporate career paths will offer workshops at regularly scheduled hours during the Forums.

The 1980 Forums and workshops will be held on the dates and at the locations listed below:

December Commencements Canceled

By STEPHANIE TRIPP
Minaret Staff Writer

December graduation, one of two formal commencement exercises annually scheduled by the University of Tampa, will be cancelled this year.

UT Provost Ed Wilde said the ceremony, planned for Dec. 20, was no longer justified because of a substantial decrease in the number of students participating.

The decline began two years ago when only 149 students graduated, a number well below the university's December average. Last year, the total dropped to 124. This year, only 77 had signed up for the event.

Wilde decided that 77 graduates were not enough. "The numbers were just not there to justify the involvement of the entire university community for such a program," he said.

Instead of the traditional December ceremony, Wilde and UT President Richard Cheshire will host a reception for the graduates in the ballroom on Dec. 20.

Wilde will form a committee at the end of October to decide the arrangements for the reception.

Students who graduate in December have the option to march in spring commencement.

Wilde said he had received some complaints, mostly from parents, about the decision. He also received a few notes from those in support of the cancellation.

SG News

By MIKE WALDROP

On Saturday, SG will be offering two different activities. Saturday morning, we will be providing a bus to Adventure Island. Advance tickets are available at a discount in the Union. Saturday night, a band will be playing in Plant Lobby from 9 p.m.-12:30 a.m.

This weekend's movie is 2001. The movie will be shown Friday night at 8 p.m. and 12 p.m. and Sunday night at 8 p.m.

Notice To Prospective Law School Students

Four law schools will be at UT next week to talk to prospective law school candidates. On Monday, Oct. 6, California Western Law School will be on campus. On Wednesday, Oct. 8, representatives will be here from the Washington College of Law (American University), Boston College, and Loyola-New Orleans.

Interviews are being coordinated by the Office of Career and Life Planning. Sign up for appointments in 309 Plant Hall. Catalogs from the schools will also be available there. You don't need to be of senior class standing to sign-up. Any students interested in law schools may come.

Another Hot Night In Havana

By ROC GARRAMONE
Minaret Staff Writer

Last Saturday night, at the Cuban Club in Ybor City, over 1,200 people celebrated the second annual Hot Night in Havana party.

Vincent Guarino, chairman of the Club said, "Last year we had about eight-hundred people. This year we broke our record. We had to set up an extra twenty tables and that still wasn't enough!"

Two makeshift bars supplied the beer and liquor. With a dollar a beer price tag it was understandable why many people brought their own cooler filled with refreshments. However, a cork fee was charged: a dollar per bottle and two dollars per ice chest.

The festivities took place in the Club's 200 square foot courtyard under a warm evening sky. Hot Devil crabs, stuffed potatoes, and meat pastries filled the air with Latin excitement. Multi-colored flags hung everywhere.

Under the half-shell bandstand a warm-up group played. At 11:30 the Wally Watson Band rocked the house down by performing top 40 music.

Some men dressed in white three-piece suits with ladies in bright colored dresses added a realistic flair to the Cuban fiesta. There were even a few senioritas wearing hats made of real fruit!

Originally, the event was supposed to be sponsored by GO Magazine, a weekly entertainment and cultural guide publication. Promoter Ronnie Elliott explained, "Because of red tape, the deal fell through. Instead, the Cleveland Amory Organization took over the sponsorship. By then, it was too late to change the advertisements - they were out in the streets by then."

The Cleveland Amory Organization supports such causes as "Save The Whales" and "Fund for Animals."

Last year the Cleveland Amory Organization also sponsored the first annual Hot Night in Havana, with all the proceeds going to charities. However, this year not all the proceeds will go to charity. "After we pay the bills," Elliott explained, "a small portion will go to those who made this possible, and then the rest will go to charity."

Hot Night in Havana was a big success and Vincent Guarino plans on hosting next year's party as well.

A Touch Of Class

By BRYON HOLZ and

Consider it "the great escape." A cure for the cafeteria blues. Rockefeller's restaurant in downtown Tampa packs fine dining and evening entertainment in a rich, yet relaxing atmosphere.

There is a distinctive touch in the crisp, clean, green decor. A touch of class reminiscent of the days of John D. Rockefeller.

Neither the decor nor the menu are prohibitive. A delicious and reasonably inexpensive meal await the UT student.

The house specialties are Veal Piccata (tender veal splashed with sauteed mushrooms), Veal Rockefeller (delicious veal with crab meat drenched in sauce bernaise), the "Carpet bagger" (charbroiled tenderloin stuffed with oysters and wrapped in bacon), and Red Snapper.

Other dishes include Chicken Cordon Bleu, London Broil, N.Y. Strip Steak and Chicken Fingers, hamburgers, sandwiches and salads.

The Veal Piccata, with its tangy trace of wine and refreshing hint of lemon is highly recommended. You will find this delicacy well worth $9.75.

Save room! Rockefeller's features two scrumptuous desserts. "Apple in My Eye" is a generous helping of vanilla ice cream topped with cinnamon-sprinkled hot apple pie slices and covered with whipped cream. "Tumbleweed" is vanilla ice cream blended with several liquors, refrozen and topped with whipped cream. Both desserts are exquisite.

Rockefeller's hosts a variety of local entertainment groups Tuesday through Saturday. Tuesday night is talent night. Amateurs from the Tampa area entertain on Rockefeller's small stage. Some of the acts are obviously amateur while many others are superb.

Rockefeller's: a close, quaint and enjoyable escape.

UT MUSIC NOTES

Travelers Begin New Season

By BRYON HOLZ
Minaret Staff Writer

UT's "Travellers" are in full swing again. Comprised of a select group of performers from the vocal music department's Show Chorus, this ensemble is busy rehearsing selections from Broadway hits like "Mame," "Oklahoma!," "My Fair Lady," "The Sound of Music," and others.

The group has performed at such notable places as the Plant City Strawberry Festival and the Egyptian Shrine. Concerts around the Bay this year so far include the Anthonian Society of St. Petersburg and The New Tampan Society, among others. Outfitted in elegant black and white tuxedo shirts and vests, they serve as UT's musical ambassadors to the community.

On Dec. 8, they will join the rest of the Show Chorus for an evening of musical entertainment entitled The Gentlemen of Broadway. The Travelers will give only a taste of what is to come on this evening of excitement complete with costumes, make-up and expert choreography.

The group is choreographed by Mrs. Mary Ann McCulloh and directed by their pianist professor Malcolm Westly.

Collegiate Chorale Spring Tour

Spring break may seem a long way off, but it is just around the corner for Dr. David Isele and members of the newly organized collegiate chorale. Plans are now being made for this select group of singers to tour parts of Florida and Georgia during the spring recess. The tour promises to be of great interest to students who enjoy singing serious chorale literature.

Dr. Isele, who joined the music faculty this September, has helped to make such a tour possible. His experience with touring chorale ensembles at the University of Notre Dame and Otterbein College insures the success of this year's initial tour.

Students interested in learning more about the collegiate chorale and the spring tour may contact Dr. Isele in Room 205, McKay Auditorium, or through P. O. Box F140. The chorale meets on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at noon in the ballroom. A special rehearsal is planned for 5 p.m. on Wednesdays for those students unable to participate in the chorale this semester.

Chamber Music Program Restrung

Under the supervision of University of Tampa Artist-in-Residence Esther Glazer, the highly successful Saturday Morning Chamber Music Program for strings will resume at 10 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 25 in Room 101.

Professional and amateur musicians are invited to attend this organizational meeting. Small chamber music ensembles will be formed from the available instrumentation. A special invitation is extended to existing string trios, quartets, etc., to participate in these weekly sessions.

The Saturday Chamber Music activities are open to all musicians, free of charge. For additional information, contact the University of Tampa, Division of Fine Arts (253-8861, ext. 217).

Take Note: Composer/Professor Joins UT Faculty

By CARRIE LINDQUIST
Minaret Staff Writer

Dr. David Clark Isele, an accomplished organist and composer, recently joined our music faculty.

Originally from Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, Dr. Isele's first ambition was to be an architect.

He attended Oberlin College and received his bachelor of music in 1968. He received two masters, one in music and one in sacred music, from Southern Methodist University in 1970 and then a doctorate in composition from the Eastman School of Music in 1973.

Dr. Isele is qualified in organ and piano instruction, choral conducting and in composing both religious and secular works. When questioned about his colleague, Dr. Terry Mohn said, "David has been educated at the finest schools, and if he's not the most capable for the job I don't know who is."

Isele was an assistant professor of music, responsible for choral and vocal activities, at Otterbein College. At Notre Dame, he was assistant professor of music, founder of the Chorale and conductor of the Glee Club from 1973 to 1979. He has recently been appointed music coordinator for St. Paul's Catholic parish in Carrollwood.

During the past seven years, Isele has prepared concerts for more than 25 choir tours, including two in Europe. A UT student tour group has already been planned for the spring break. "Hopefully this tour will act as a public relations project to make more people aware of all the University of Tampa has to offer in the music department. It will enhance the overall image of the university," stated Isele.

Isele decided to move to Tampa because he feels that the area is rapidly expanding in fine arts and that UT is involved in this growth.

"I would like to see more practice and rehearsal facilities and a pipe organ. At the present time there is no organ available anywhere on campus and there are very few in this area. A pipe organ on wheels, small enough for chamber use, either in Fletcher Hall or the Ballroom would also add to the appearance of the university. Some plans might still be down the road a bit, but at least we're building a very solid base," Isele said.

Isele has established a national reputation for his composition and has had numerous works published. He has just finished composing an opera with a friend, Gweneth Walker, entitled Opera Buffet, a spoof on the Italian version of Opera Buffo. The piece is a comic opera about the celebration of gluttony, with the actors becoming their favorite dish at the end.

"Every job has its disadvantages," said Isele. "My only complaint is there's no free time to be out in the sun and get a tan."

The Junkyard Lounge:

"The Oldest Rock Club In Tampa"

By PAUL NEWMAN
Minaret Staff Writer

A place to go, things to do and people to meet; this is what the Junkyard Lounge is all about.

Mike Kennedy, an alumnus of UT, has been the successful owner and operator of the lounge for five years. Mike graduated from UT on a basketball scholarship. He coached at Tampa Catholic High School and went on to become the promoter for the Miami Floridians.

He started his liquor business with his first club, Mike's Lounge. "I turned this thing into what's happening today," said Mike, "the oldest rock club in Tampa." Mike stated, "The life expectancy for a rock club is 18 months. We have been here for five years."

Mike is in the process of expanding the Junkyard Lounge to a capacity of seven hundred people. This is almost twice the present size. The expansion will be in a three phase plan:

1. A drive-thru liquor store that carries all the wines and beers of the world. "The largest package store in north Tampa," said Mike.
2. Enlargement of the game room that presently has four pool tables, two foosball games and about ten pin-ball machines.
3. A new addition on the Lounge that will allow two bands to perform on separate stages throughout the night.

Mike's future idea is to have a showcase concert club.

One of the factors that has made the club a success is the hiring of many out of state bands such as The New York Flyers and Carney (from Toronto), and many others.

Premiering Sept. 22 to 27 is the hottest new-wave rock band in Florida, "Freewheel".

Along with the game room, good music and fine atmosphere, there is excellent service. After being asked, "What makes it so pleasant to work here, Barbara, a cocktail waitress and bartender, said, "I like meeting really nice people". So, if you're up for something new, check-out the Junkyard Lounge on the South East corner of Fletcher and Nebraska.

Minaret Reviewer Experiences Side Effects

By TIM O'CONNOR
Minaret Staff Writer

SIDE EFFECTS

BY Woody Allen
149 pp. New York:
Random House. $8.95

Everything Woody Allen is involved in becomes an event. When he plays his clarinet at New York's Michael's Pub, the back room and adjoining bar are packed. When he ekes out his annual films, Time and Newsweek build their entertainment sections around him.

And when he schedules another collection of essays—the majority of them reprints—his devotees haunt the booksellers until the release date.

In 1971 the trend began, with Getting Even. In 1975, Without Feathers was unleashed. Now, in 1980, we experience Side Effects.

In fifteen essays, Allen thoroughly covers his favorite topics: death, sex, death, God, and death.

Allen aptly parodies one of his idols, Franz Kafka, in "The Diet." It is the gloomy story of F., a civil servant who has lost 16 pounds in an effort to be trim. F. is scorned by his co-workers after being "discovered in the Xerox room behaving like a woodpecker." He requests a raise, but his superior instead sprays him with Raid. However, when he loses the weight, his luck changes. He is taken to lunch by the supervisor. Once at the table, the mood changes. The supervisor goads him into breaking his diet. F. runs to his father, to confess his deed. His father listens calmly and says, "I condemn you to death." The two men then embrace.

In "The Kugelmass Episode," we meet Kugelmass, a balding professor of humanities who whines to his analyst that he wants a magician to fix his life.

The analyst makes the introductions, and Kugelmass soon finds himself in Brooklyn, standing in front of a cabinet. The magician, Persky, offers to put Kugelmass in the cabinet and fix him up with any woman in literature. Kugelmass chooses Emma Bovary, and soon finds himself in a flaming affair. He thinks his secret is safe, but

What he didn't realize was that at this very moment, students in various classrooms across the country were saying to their teachers, "Who is this character on page 100? A bald Jew is kissing Madame Bovary?" A teacher in Sioux Falls, South Dakota, sighed and thought, Jesus, these kids, with their pot and acid. What goes through their minds!

A professor at Stanford notes that "the mark of a classic is that you can reread it a thousand times and always find something new."

When Kugelmass plans his final trip, into Portnoy's Complaint, the magician errs. The machine blows up, kills the magician, and strands Kugelmass in a remedial Spanish book, where he is chased "over a barren, rocky terrain [by] the word tener ('to have') -- a large and hairy irregular verb."

Allen also dips into history with a short-short play, "The Query." He investigates the origins of Abe Lincoln's response to the question, "How long should a man's legs be?" (Lincoln replies, "Long enough to reach the ground.") Lincoln winds up brooding at night, because he "was too preoccupied with getting the quick laugh."

In "My Apology," another short play, Allen dreams that he is in Socrates' place, forced to drink hemlock. He chickens out in the end, arguing that although he proved that death doesn't exist, it only worked on paper. He says,

"See, that's the one thing about philosophy—it's not all that functional once you get out of class."

The final selection in Side Effects is "Retribution," a modern Oedipus story. Twenty-four-year-old Harold Cohen meets, seduces, and ultimately moves in with Connie Chasen, who is, of course, brainy and beautiful. At a family get-together, Harold meets Connie's 55-year-old mother, Emily.

Harold becomes obsessed with Emily, but cannot bring himself to place "the predictable hand on Emily's leg and pursue my dark desires." He finds that she thinks of him as a son. Wonderful, he thinks.

Except that Connie suddenly finds that Harold reminds her of her blond, blue-eyed, WASP brother.

Except that Connie will no longer sleep with him because of it.

Except that Connie would rather sleep with a few other men, instead.

They break up. Then her parents break up. Then Harold takes up with Emily. They decide to marry. After the wedding, Harold finds himself in the bedroom with Connie, who throws him down on the bed.

"It's a whole new ball game," she tells him. "Marrying Mom has made you my father."

Side Effects is another fixture in the tenement of America's foremost Brooklyn neurotic.

WARNING: Don't read it in public, unless you welcome stares; Allen is the rare humorist who makes you hysterical regardless of your defenses.

Tampa Bay Area Has A Few Outstanding Book Stores

By VICKI STEWART
Minaret Staff Writer

It is almost impossible for a college student to survive without the services of a book store. Unfortunately, if you look in the yellow pages of your phone book, you'll find that the list of book dealers isn't long. There are almost five times as many beauty salons listed as there are book stores.

But among those on the brief list are a few outstanding stores. One of those stores is Haslam's Book Store at 2025 Central Avenue in St. Petersburg. Haslam's is one of the largest stores in the area and has a superb collection of books. In addition to the new books in the front of the store, there is an extensive collection of used and out-of-print books in the back. Thousands of books piled floor to ceiling cover all kinds of topics. Since most of these books are out-of-print, it's not likely that you'll find many of your textbooks, but there's just about everything else from botanical dictionaries to old comic books.

Haslam's will, on occasion, buy old books. They pay about half of the original price or slightly less, depending on the condition. They don't want all books so there's really no telling what they will or will not buy.

If they don't have what you're looking for at Haslam's, then you can head back across the bay to Tampa and check out Book World on Fletcher. This store, near U.S.F., is better for the college student in search of a textbook. It is likely that you'll find at least a few books for school there. Book World buys books more readily than Haslam's. They pay about the same, though. They deal mainly in textbooks and paperbacks for the college student and have only standard fare: no rare books or collector's editions.

Mary's Book Exchange, 2515 W. Hillsborough Avenue, deals in paperback books and magazines. There is a large selection and the prices are reasonable.

In almost every major shopping mall in the area you're sure to find a B. Dalton Booksellers or a Walden Book Store, or both. In these stores you'll find about the same selection and the same prices. In addition to stocking all of the books on the best seller list, they also have books on varied topics as well as the classics.

For those interested in Christian book stores, seventeen of the sixty-three bookstores in the Tampa Bay area are for you.

If all else fails, try the library. The selection is excellent and the cost is reasonable. There are two libraries within walking distance of U.T.: Merle Kelce and the Tampa Public Library downtown.

Spartans Put Win On Line Against FIU Tomorrow

Don Latray, motorcycle daredevil, will attempt a spectacular ramp to ground jump over ten cars during the halftime show of the FIU vs. UT soccer game, tomorrow on the fairgrounds at 4 p.m.

By ROCKY HARMON
Minaret Sports Editor

The party is over. After compiling a 6-1 record and outscoring their opponents 32 to 8 in their first seven games, the UT soccer team's early season dominance will face its sternest test this Saturday against Florida International University.

This Friday's game will match two of the best teams in the state of Florida. FIU went to the NCAA tournament last season and have had a quality program for a number of years.

On the other hand, the young Spartans of coach Jay Miller have won their last five games in a row. They defeated the University of Miami last Saturday by the score of 7 to 1.

The game against Miami started out roughly for UT, playing without three starters. Alfonso Smith, Joe James and Rocky Harmon were all unable to play due to various injuries. Coach Miller was forced to experiment with different combinations of players that resulted in an early Miami goal. But freshman Steve Savage was able to tally a pair of goals before half time to put UT ahead 2-1. In the second half, Pete Johanson scored three goals as the Spartans offense kicked into high gear while the UT defense, led by Mark Putnam, shut down a semi-dangerous Miami offense. Keith Fulk and Jay Dubble also added goals to help UT to another lopsided win.

But the score of the upcoming game against FIU will be anything but lopsided. Says coach Miller of the game: "Yes, we are definitely trying to peak for the FIU game. Hopefully by then all of our injuries will be healed and the team will be back at full strength."

The winner of Saturday's match will be in great position for a NCAA tournament bid, and with some student support UT might very well be able to continue the party that they have already started. Game time is 4 p.m. with special halftime activities planned.

Volleyball Team Has "Dr. Jekyll And Mr. Hyde" Week

By TONY DeSORMIER
Minaret Assistant Editor

The way the University of Tampa volleyball team played last week had some people, including Anne Strusz, their coach, asking:

"Would the real UT Spartans please stand up?"

A week ago Monday saw UT start its week of the bizarre and unexpected.

The scene was the gym at the University of South Florida against the Manatee Junior College Lady Lancers, an old UT adversary, in the first of a tri-match.

The Spartans took an 8-1 lead early in the first game of a best-of-three match, then watched MJC score 14 points to their three and win 15-11.

UT won the first four points in the second game, but as expected the Lady Lancers soon got rolling and took the second straight game from the Spartans to win the match.

After watching the Spartans leave the court like the cast from the Dawn of the Dead, and seeing the spirited play of the USF team against Manatee, one could guess what the outcome would be of the third and final match of the evening.

The USF Lady Brahmins won two straight games and the match.

At the end of the evening, Strusz was understandably upset with her team. Technically, the team had played decently, but they were playing without any emotion, simply "walking through the steps."

The week's practices saw the Spartans working on different drills that would help them prepare for the Florida Southern Tournament that weekend. Some of the best teams in Division II would be there, and Strusz knew a maximum effort would be needed.

During the week, starter Becky Bahantka, a transfer student from Elmira, New York, became ill, and Strusz opted to start Joni Vollman.

With Vollman in the lineup, Strusz decided to shift some of the setting responsibilities from senior Kathy Dunaway and allow Dunaway to make use of her leaping ability to spike. This required a shift in the service order, for basic volleyball strategy dictates that the two setters (the players responsible for "setting" the ball up for the spikers) be opposite one another so that one of them is in the front line at all times.

UT opened up its tournament play against defending Alabama, Division II State Champions, the University of Montevallo Lady Falcons. UM was seeded second out of the ten teams participating in the tournament.

Montevallo thumped UT in the first game, 15-3, and it looked like history would repeat itself.

After receiving a combined plea and roasting from their coach, the UT Spartans started to click. Before the Lady Falcons knew what had happened, the Spartans had done a little thumping of their own, 15-2, winning the third and deciding game as well.

Before UT could enjoy its win, it would have to take care of Stetson University. Strusz was worried that the big win might take the edge off of the team's newly-found desire to win. But she soon found out that her fears were unfounded.

Stetson never had a chance.

Debbie Harrison, Lisa Turdo, and Tricia Burrows all combined to give the Spartans some consistent serving. Vollman and captain Karla Garner worked well together, setting for Dunaway, Jane Castor, and Linda Hadfield. The trio and Garner also combined to give UT strong blocking at the net.

The next morning had the Spartans scheduled to play the host team and tournament favorite, Florida Southern. UT fought valiantly against the superior FSC squad, but were outmanned from the beginning, losing the first two games.

UT showed their competitive strength by coming back two hours later to beat Flagler College in straight games.

The victory against Flagler allowed the Spartans to get into the finals for the first time since Strusz has been at UT.

The finals, a single elimination round-robin, had UT pitted against the University of Montevallo once again. UM won the first game 15-8, UT came back in the second 15-11, then lost out to UM in the deciding game 15-9.

But afterwards Strusz had only praise for her team.

"The scores really weren't indicative of the way the games went," she said. The match seemed to last forever, neither team really surging ahead, just battling it out, point by point.

"The team played well all weekend. It's tough to single out any one individual... It was a total team effort. They're just learning how to win. They're beginning to think on the court, playing smart."

"They anticipated rather than reacted, taking control of the games and forcing the opponents to make mistakes. There's room for improvement, but the big thing for now is that they're showing a winning attitude."

As the UT Spartans head into the meat of their 1980 schedule, the future can only be described as bright. After two years of scraping and digging, the finished product may be ready this year.

Ahoy! UT Sailing Club Afloat

On Monday night, Sept. 22, ten enthusiastic members of the Sailing Club held their organizational meeting under the leadership of President John Gemperline.

The club currently owns and maintains two seaworthy vessels, a Hobie Cat 14 and a 470 monohull. Both boats are launched within walking distance at the Davis Island Yacht Club on Davis Islands.

Dues for the semester are set at $15. Club members are entitled to use either boat at any time during the semester. Weekly meetings are held every Monday night at 9 p.m. in room 3 of the University Union. All students are welcome to attend.

Among the new business discussed was the formation of an intercollegiate racing circuit with Eckerd College and the University of South Florida. The members also plan to raise funds by sponsoring a Hobie Cat regatta with one of the Bay Area's fleets.

A series of four sailing lessons are on the club's calendar for October at the Yacht Club's beach. They will be taught by Warren Lewis, instructor for the club. The purpose of the instruction is to educate the inexperienced sailor.

For further information and club membership contact: John Gemperline, 111 N. Blvd., Apt. 4, Tampa, Fla. 33606 or phone 251-5742.

Pep Band Toots For UT

How long has it been since you last played in the band? Is your trumpet lost in the dust? Is your flute left in the mothballs? Has your trombone rusted away?

Now's your chance to get your sax out of the closet and back in your hands.

The University of Tampa Athletic office will sponsor a pep band for all interested students. The band will play at many of the athletic events throughout the year.

Brass, woodwind and percussion players are needed.

If you wish to get involved with the UT pep band, leave a message for Rick Mayer with the Fine Arts office secretary or with the Athletic Office of the university.
