Peace Corps Representative Visits Tampa University Campus Today

by Julie Quintana

Visiting our campus today and tomorrow is Peggy McNally, a Peace Corps Representative.

Miss McNally obtained a B.A. degree in 1961 from Loretto Heights College in Denver, Colorado, where she majored in English and minored in Drama and Education. During her college summers Miss McNally worked as a tourist guide in Denver. Upon graduation, she taught for one year at a private school in San Jose, Costa Rica and upon her return to the United States she taught English at York Junior High School in Denver. And it was at this time that she applied to the Peace Corps.

She was assigned as a Volunteer to teach English Literature as well as methods of teaching English to prospective teachers at the Cebu Normal College, Cebu City, the Philippines.

There are dozens of local dialects in the Philippines and so inter-island communication was most difficult. Facing this problem and hoping to eradicate it, the Philippine Government decided to make English the medium of instruction in all grades above the third. The first step towards this accomplishment was to up-date the methods of teaching English to its future instructors. Miss McNally's project was designed to work specifically in this area by supplementing information on the oral-aural approach to language teaching.

In Cebu, Miss McNally was active working with the drama club, the school newspaper and literary magazine.

She wrote and directed a Christmas pageant and directed six one-act plays, including one written by one of her Literature students. Her enthusiasm did not end at this point, for she helped to coach the debating team, and assisted in training speakers for participation in inter-collegiate competition.

Miss McNally started a rental library in her home for the use of her students, using books and magazines supplied by the Peace Corps, as well as her own collection.

This is what Miss McNally had to say about her term in the Philippines: "There were moments of deep satisfaction, unlike any I have ever known. There were also moments of frustration and loneliness. I will always feel a deep love for the Philippines and the Filipinos. The Peace Corps experience itself is intense — it's a period of constant discovery about yourself and others. I almost envy those who are just beginning to explore it."

Richardson Accepted To Peace Corps

He is one of Sargent Shriver's helpers now. Odie Richardson has been accepted by the Peace Corps. Odie has been assigned to teach English to the youth of Liberia, but Odie will be working with the Boy Scouts of America for a year before leaving for Peace Corps training.

In his brief time here Odie has been a member of B.S.U., Delo Forensic Society, Minaret, University Players, N.E.A., and F.E.A.

After a special training period he will be sent to Liberia. English is the official language there, but many dialects are spoken which he will have to learn.

Nassau Trip Planned

Students interested in going on the University of Tampa Nassau cruise should sign up immediately in Dean King's office, and be ready to pay the $58.00 for the trip by January 12. The money is to be paid in Dean King's office. The $58.00 covers your boat trip to Nassau from Miami and return, also your meals and the use of the ship as your hotel while in Nassau.

The ship, the BAHAMA STAR, sails from the Eastern Steamship Company's docks at 4:00 p.m., Friday, January 29, but passengers should be on board by 2:00 p.m. in order that the preliminaries may be taken care of. The trip will end Monday, February 1.

Persons wishing to go on this trip must provide their own transportation to Miami and return.

Vista Gets Underway

VISTA, the domestic "Peace Corps" program, will have some 150 volunteers in training before January 1, Sargent Shriver announced last month.

Shriver is serving concurrently as Director of the Peace Corps and as Director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, the agency created in August as Congress passed the administration's antipoverty legislation. There is no administrative connection between the two agencies.

After a meeting last month with President Johnson, Shriver announced details of the "War Against Poverty," as it has been termed by the President. VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America), is one arm of the program; the other two branches of the Office of Economic Opportunity are the Job Corps and the Communist Action Program.

VISTA is headed by a former Peace Corps official, Glenn W. Ferguson, who served as an Acting Associate Director, and from 1961-1963, as Peace Corps Representative in Thailand.

Ferguson will oversee VISTA's recruitment, selection, training, placement, and support of volunteers whose services have been requested to assist in eliminating poverty in the U.S. In the next six months, the program will assign 3500 volunteers to projects in the 50 states of the U.S. and its terriories, Ferguson said in describing the program.

"Job skills will be diverse. Volunteers will work in rural and urban community-action programs, Job Corps camps, migrant-worker communities, Indian reservations, hospitals, schools, and institutions for the mentally ill or mentally retarded," he said.

Requests for VISTA projects which would involve 1800 volunteers have already reached the Washington office of the O.E.O. Projects are being submitted by state, county, and city governmental agencies, and local civic groups. VISTA program officials are working with local sponsors in co-operation with the governor of each state involved.

Application requirements are similar to Peace Corps standards. Any person 18 years of age or older may apply. Married couples are eligible if both the husband and wife qualify. Volunteers will not be exempted from military obligations.

Each applicant will fill in a preliminary application, which establishes legal eligibility. Applicants who fulfill the legal requirements will then be sent a detailed questionnaire and a request for letters of reference.

The VISTA selection process is handled by the Division of Evaluation and Placement. Since no written examination is given, applicants are judged on their skills, experience, and background. Selected applicants will then be invited to participate in training programs.

Exact scope of each project will determine the types of skills needed, and volunteers with requisite skills will be drawn from a pool of applicants.

"VISTA seeks volunteers from people indigenous to poverty areas. We can use high-school graduates who want to serve because they will already know the environment and understand the poverty syndrome and thus have fewer adjustment problems," Ferguson said.

"The initial response of applicants has been good," he continued. "VISTA has already received 2000 applications, some 30 per cent from the southeastern U.S. An active program of field recruitment is also planned under the Division of Volunteer and Community Relations. Volunteers will be sought from among artisans and labor unions, and at high schools and on college campuses."

The period of volunteer service will be one year, including the four-to-six weeks training. The training program will stress supervised field experience, application of particular skills to the environment in which the volunteer will work, discussion of the nature and causes of poverty, area and language study, health education, and the development of recreational

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

I Hope More Americans Will Follow

Dear Editor:

Two years ago, when 5,000 Volunteers were serving abroad, President Kennedy said, "I hope that in the coming months and years many more Americans will follow the example of those who have gone before, for there can be no greater service to our country and no source of pride more real than to be a member of the Peace Corps of the United States."

Last month, with 10,000 Volunteers serving in 46 countries and thousands of requests unfilled, President Johnson said, "We must double the size of the Peace Corps." He didn't mean it could be done overnight. His target date: 1968.

Colleges and universities throughout the country supply more than 80% of the men and women who have applied to become Volunteers. You and your predecessors over the past four years have played a major role in informing college students about the Peace Corps.

To double the size of the Peace

Corps over the next four years and maintain the quality of which we are proud is indeed a challenge. Your continuing support is as necessary as it is appreciated.

Four years ago the Peace Corps was a promise. Today it is a reality. Tomorrow depends on what we do today.

Sincerely,
Charles Woodard, Jr.

Honor Roll, Off Limits

Dear Editor:

I have been a student at the University for two and a half years. For that period of time I have observed that various students and campus organizations have been posting promotional material on the Honor Roll in the Main Building.

Although I realize that the Honor Roll is at the first landing of the main stairway in the Main Building, and it affords an excellent opportunity to post promotional material which will meet the student at eye-level, I do not feel that it is proper and fitting to do so.

The Honor Roll is for the purposes of paying respects to those from the University of Tampa who have lost their lives in the various international conflicts. I do not think that even the most avaricious campaigner or campus organization would object to declaring this particular space "off limits" to all posters.

I am sure that calling this unintended disrespect to your attention will lead to the immediate rectification of the problem.

Very truly yours,
Charles Kevorkian

DELTA PHI EPSILON

The sisters of Delta Phi Epsilon would like to extend their most sincere thanks to President Delo for giving an excellent talk on the history of our University.

We would like to thank the Theta Chi pledge class for joining with us to give a Christmas party for the Children's Home. Thanks to the brothers for their help, cooperation and the donation of their house for the occasion.

Congratulations Sisters Jacqueline Beltram and Elizabeth Frank on their recent engagements.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

Sigma Phi Epsilon hopes that you all had a wonderful vacation and wants to wish you all the most prosperous of new years. The brothers are also looking forward to the new year and are preparing themselves for final exams which are just around the corner.

We would like to congratulate Brother Neil Rowsey on his recent engagement and also Dino Kutumbos who worked hard in organizing our airplane trip to New York. Even with delays this was a successful trip and plans are now being made for a spring vacation flight. So, see Dino or any of the brothers and make your reservations early.

The Sig Eps welcome back Marc Beaubien and "Moon" Griffin, both from Rhode Island, who will remain with us until June. It looks again, as if we will have more brothers returning next semester.

than we have graduating.

With intramural basketball up and coming, the basketball squad has been quite impressive in recent workouts. This year's team will rely on muscle and hustle, plus the moral support of the entire chapter.

DELTA SORORITY

The sisters of Delta Sorority would like to welcome everyone back to school and wish you good luck on the up-coming finals.

Elections were held and our new officers are: President, Sand Seed; Vice President, Florence Barbour; Secretary, JoAnn Russo; and Treasurer, Diana Espinosa.

We extend our congratulations to sister Judy Alvarez who was married during the holidays and to sister Florence Barbour who is now pinned to Hank Moore.

What Is The Peace Corps?

by Don Esposito, Peace Corps Rep.

The idea of a Peace Corps is not a new one. It may be traced back to William James' book "The Moral Equivalent of War" with his suggestion for an "Army enlisted against nature." More recently, there have been many voluntary agencies and mission groups which have carried on programs similar to the work proposed for the Peace Corps.

Executive Order 10924, which created the Peace Corps, was signed on March 1, 1961. It was followed on September 22, 1961 by the Peace Corps Act in which Congress established the Peace Corps to: "Promote world peace and friendship by making available to interested countries Americans willing to serve overseas who would:

1. Help the people of these countries meet their needs for trained manpower;

2. Help promote a better understanding of the American people on the part of peoples served;

3. To promote a better understanding of other peoples on the part of the American people.

So this was its beginning; ambitious, yes, idealist, yes, realist, maybe.

Today the first Peace Corps project in Ghana is a success, and that country is asking for more volunteers as are all the countries throughout the world. The best answer to this can be found in the foreign press. The Malayan Times said:

"Before the first batch of American Peace Corps Volunteers arrived in Malaya, people here were speculating on the motive of the U.S. Government in sending young Americans to underdeveloped countries. Now that they are here and working in remote areas among the people, Malaysians are beginning to admire them for their self-sacrifice. They are setting an example for young Malaysians."

Cohen Narrates Film "Inside E. Germany"

Mr. Robert Cohen, distinguished news correspondent and producer of documentary films was the guest of the University this week.

Mr. Cohen, who has recently returned from a visit to East Germany, narrated his film "Inside East Germany" as a sector of our "The World Around Us" series.

The film gave a clear view as to what the actual living conditions are in Germany today. It showed the vast economic differences that were shared between East and West Berlin.

Mr. Cohen received a graduate degree in motion picture production and has also studied at the Sorbonne.

He served as a newsreel cameraman at Allied Supreme Headquarters in Paris and was commissioned by the National Broadcasting Company to film Red China.

CLUB & CAMPUS FASHIONS

by O. E. SCHOEFFLER, ESQUIRE'S Fashion Director

YOUR FAIR LADY has a way of turning into Cinderella-At-The-Ball over the Christmas holidays. What with the stepped-up pace of formal entertaining, parties, dinners, balls, and theater parties, you, as Prince-Escort, will be called upon to look your elegant best. In fact, quite aside from the Christmas season, your undergraduate years will probably afford you more frequent opportunities to don formalwear than any other time in your life. And, as always, the traditional rules for formal attire apply. Here's a run-down to keep you up on the latest in formal fashions for today's Prince Charming.

THREE TO GET READY for the big night. Three popular styles in formal dinner jackets give you a wide variety to choose from. The new, flattering peaked lapel adds a distinctive note to the traditional dinner jacket. The notched lapel is also gaining ground, and, of course, the shawl collar remains the campus classic. Jackets are lightweight, natural-shoulder, single-breasted in all-worsted or worsted and mohair combination, and are cut on straight-hanging lines. Whatever your choice, the lapels should be in either a dull or lustrous silk facing.

THE HONOR OF YOUR COMPANY requested on an engraved invitation implies a personal obligation to look your absolute best. A vest, worn in combination with the dinner jacket, continues to be a more popular fashion trend. Either the V-shaped with points, or the traditional straight-bottom styles are correct. One of the newest trends in men's formalwear is the "modernized Edwardian" vest in straight cut with dull satin facing on the lapels. Whatever your choice of vest, it will echo your jacket in color and lapel styles. Your matching black trousers should be tapered.

IT MIGHT AS WELL BE SPRING if you're lucky enough to be vacationing in the sunny South. The usual white dinner jacket makes an appropriate substitute, and follows the same styling rules as for the all-black outfit and calls for the same kind of accessories. The more venturesome among you will want to investigate the dashing new crop of plaid Madras and striped seersucker jackets. These are tailored in natural shoulder, single-breasted styles with shawl collars. For the winter bound among us, the brighter, bolder fabrics must wait for spring and summer. But even with a colorful print, the standard white shirt remains white.

THE MIDNIGHT SUN will gleam on your all-important accessories. The front-runner in studs and matching cufflinks is black or smoky pearl. The pleated silk cummerbund and black bow tie, either in the straight bow or butterfly style, are standard. Whether you choose a clip-on or a self-tie is largely a matter of personal preference, but the clip-ons are so expertly made that they are virtually indistinguishable from the self-tie. The regular dress shirt has a pleated bosom and leaves a dazzling 1/2" of white cuff showing. NEVER try to get by with a regular button-down collar; it's definitely out of keeping with correct formal standards.

THE GLASS SLIPPER for your lady; for you the shiny black patent leather slip on, or the plain-toed, two-yelet black shoes are best. Any relatively simple black shoe light enough for dancing will do. Socks are black, rayon or nylon, plain, and should be securely gartered above the calf.

A BLACK HOMBURG or derby is the appropriate headgear for the formal occasion. For an outercoat, the black raincoat makes a good substitute for a formal evening coat, though a light tan or stadium-type coat is out. Ideal is the classic, velvet-collared Chesterfield. A white silk scarf and light gray suede or natural chamois gloves handsomely complete the picture.

So much for Prince Charming. Next month, a mid-winter checkup on the latest in knitwear, leather apparel, gloves and so on. See you then.

Spartans Beaten At Foul Line By Alert Stetson Hatters

The University of Tampa Spartans recently dropped a tough decision to the Stetson Hatters at Tampa's Howell Gym 96 to 89. The Spartans out-shot the Hatters from the field but Stetson more than made up for it at the freethrow line and taking advantage of 11 Spartans errors. Tampa scored 80 points from the field while the Hatters dropped in 70. From the foul line, the Hatters hit 26 of 32 while the Spartans mustered only 9 of 16. The Spartans were called for 24 fouls as compared to the Hatters 11. Senior forward John Pooley played one of his best games this year scoring 20 points and pulling down 9 rebounds. High scoring Spartan guard Dick Pusins fell short of his 20 plus average and came up with 15 for the night. Dick did a good job as field general and had 7 assists to his credit. Two other pleasing performances for the Spartans were turned in by Ron Stone and Jay Anders. Stone had 16 points on 8 of 11 from the field. Anders scored 9 points and did a good job on the boards pulling down 13 rebounds and was also tough on defense. The high scorer for the game was Bill Hester of Stetson, he had 24 points.

The Spartans' next game was Saturday night at Howell Gym with Rollins. Dick Pusins went into the game with a 20.3 average in 8 games. John Pooley has a 15 point average and leads the team in rebounding with 101. Wayne Harden continues to lead the team percentage-wise from the field hitting 27 of 45 for 60%.

After the first 8 games the Spartans are outshooting their opponents from the field by 7 points and have 16 more rebounds than the opponents. The Spartans have been called for 201 fouls to give the opponents 211 free points and the Spartans have been able to pick up only 122 from the charity stripe to make one of the big differences in the season so far. The Spartans now stand 4-5 this year.

skills. Training will be conducted by local private and public organizations, and selected colleges and universities.

"The approach will be functional," Ferguson said. "Training officers must understand and be able to articulate the realities of the environment of poverty. Training efforts will be directed toward converting an existing volunteer's skill into field application, rather than teaching new skills."

VISTA volunteers will receive a monthly allowance. Since the volunteer will be expected to live where he works, the amount will vary depending on local conditions. During service, volunteers will be reimbursed for medical and dental expenses. In addition, they will receive a $50 stipend for each month of satisfactory service. (The VISTA program is financed by a $4.5 million sum, part of the $784.2 million appropriation passed by Congress for the anti-poverty program on October 8, 1964.

VISTA will have no field staff. The Division of Volunteer Assistance will help local citizens aid volunteers in the field. The Washington headquarters staff, with 50 members including four returned Peace Corps Volunteers, is nearly at full strength now, according to Ferguson.

"A VISTA volunteer will have the same basic role and responsibilities in the U.S. as a Peace Corps Volunteer has overseas," Ferguson said. "He will live in and try to understand the local environment, working with the local people, and developing communication with them."

"When VISTA volunteers get into the field, they will encounter difficulties similar to those of Peace Corps Volunteers."
