

Clyde Perry Will Direct '68 Forward Fund Drive

Three members of the University's Board of Trustees were recently chosen to head the 1968 Forward Fund.

Investment broker Clyde Perry is the new chairman of the campaign which will supplement various programs of the University.

Perry will be assisted by co-chairmen Fischer S. Black, executive vice president of Tampa Electric, and H. Grady Lester Jr., president of General Welding Supply.

Clyde Perry is a past governor of the Greater Tampa Chamber of Commerce and directs the United Fund this year. He is public interest director of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Greensboro and is an elder of the First Presbyterian Church.

The former Navy Lieutenant Commander received his A.B. degree from the University of Florida in 1935, and completed his M.B.A. degree at Harvard in 1937.

ALUMNI TO HEAR DR. WALTER LANE

Dr. Walter Lane, named recently to the Presidential Advisory Council for the Office of Economic Opportunity replacing Dr. Benjamin Spock, has been named luncheon speaker for the annual University of Tampa Alumni Day, June 1. The Class of 1943 will be host for the Saturday luncheon in the Student Center. Reunions will be held by the '48, '53, '58 and '63 classes.

Registration will begin at 9:45 a.m. in the Student Center. A tour of the Western Civilization Corridor starts at 11 a.m. Lunch is set for 12:30 p.m.

Dr. Lane, class of '61, is a Temple Terrace physician. Last year, he was named one of 10 outstanding young men in the nation by the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce. He also has received one of 50 gold medals awarded by the American Academy of General Practice in 100 years.

To be completed in 1969, the new library will seat more than 600 students and house more than 200,000 volumes.

$1.3 MILLION

Construction On Library Will Begin During July

Construction on the $1.3 million library for the University will begin in July, according to President David M. Delo.

The University has secured the needed funds for construction and final plans have been forwarded to the Health, Education and Welfare Dept. for its consent.

Dr. Delo said this approval is necessary because the University has been awarded a federal construction grant of $427,000, or approximately one-third of the total cost. The building is slated to be finished by September, 1969.

The 40,000 square foot facility will be erected on the City of Tampa's Tourist Center site, almost directly across the Hillsborough River from the newly dedicated Tampa Public Library.

The two-story structure will be built on a concrete frame and feature brick panels and a cast stone trim. Adopting the architecture of the University's main building, Henry B. Plant Hall, the modern building will feature Moorish arches on the outside.

The main entrance will be on the west side. There will be two large classrooms on the first floor at the north end that can be used as study and reading rooms when the library is heavily used. There will also be entrances on the north side.

The library is designed so students can study individually, or in groups of 2, 4, 10 or 12. This grouping will be

LIMONA CENTER IS DEDICATED

Dr. David M. Delo, left, president of the University, receives the keys to the newly completed University of Tampa Center for Biological Studies from Robert Shulnburg, president of the Brandon Rotary Club. The Club and the The Limona Academy were credited in helping to complete the Center.

Greetings from the President

On April 15, I participated in a roundtable discussion of current higher education in Florida with presidents of both the tax-supported and the independent institutions. This conference was called by Gov. Claude Kirk so that he could familiarize himself with the situation in Florida firsthand and further encourage future planning by all sectors of higher education on a cooperative basis.

This is the first time that a Governor of Florida has held such a conference. This year is also the first year that the private colleges and universities of Florida have been brought into the overall planning for the future of higher education in the state. This change of attitude has largely been produced by the work of the Independent Colleges and Universities of Florida Inc., an organization of 13 independent institutions of which I have had the privilege of being chairman for the past two years.

As indicated by the discussion of April 15, the private sector in higher education complements and supplements the tax-supported sector. The private sector is freer to innovate, is not subject to the outside pressures often exerted on the tax-supported institutions and has more freedom of choice in accenting fundamental values which the tax-supported institutions cannot do because of their public nature.

I have often stated, and I reiterate here, that unless the private institutions are continuously strengthened in their ability to perform an important educational function, the long-range situation in the United States will be adversely affected.

This is an additional reason for joining with us to create a greater future for the University of Tampa.

Cordially yours,

Daniel M. Dorsey
President

Gulf Oil President Named Commencement Speaker

Two native Texans, Gulf Oil President Bob Rawls Dorsey and Rabbi David L. Zielonka, will address seniors during graduation exercises Sunday, June 2.

Dorsey will be commencement speaker for the 3 p.m. ceremonies in McKay Auditorium.

The 11 a.m. baccalaureate service in Falk Memorial Theatre will feature Rabbi Zielonka, religion department chairman and a member of the original faculty.

The senior luncheon at 12:30 p.m. and the president's reception for graduates and their families following commencement will be in the Student Center.

Dorsey received the 1965 Distinguished Engineering Graduate Award from the University of Texas where he earned his B.S. in chemical engineering in 1940.

Born in Rockland, Texas, he joined Gulf Oil in Port Arthur, Texas, as an engineer from 1940-48.

He has been chairman of several subsidiary boards and rose through the ranks to become executive vice president of Gulf Oil in 1962.

Rabbi David L. Zielonka was born in El Paso, Texas, is a member of the American Association of Political and Social Studies and has been Rabbi of Schaarai Zedek congregation in Tampa since 1930.

The sometimes happy, sometimes sad tunes from "Funny Girl" will be heard in the Falk Memorial Theatre next year when the flamboyant Broadway musical based on the life of Ziegfeld comedienne, Fanny Brice, appears as a presentation of the Theatre Artists Series.

Varied Entertainment Set For Theatre Artists Fare

Two musicals, a comedy and a song and dance troupe from Spain will be presented by the University Theatre Artists Series during 1968-69.

The musical, "Carnival," the Broadway touring company's presentation of "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running," and "Funny Girl" and the "Jose Molina Bailes Espanoles" will be at Falk Memorial Theatre.

A company of 16 will bring "Carnival" to Tampa on October 12. It is the story of the orphan Lilli who joins the glamorous carnival.

"You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running" is the treatment of sex in marriage from newlyweds to retirees, written by Robert Anderson. It is scheduled November 9.

On February 27, Jose Molina Bailes Espanoles will offer flamenco, folkloric and ballet works interspersed with rousing songs and instrumental performances.

"Funny Girl" tells of the great Ziegfeld comedienne, Fanny Brice, and features such hits as "Don't Rain on My Parade" and "People." This story of her affair with Nicky Arnstein closes the season March 22.

GI Bill Students Keep Increasing

While some students view impending military service as an interruption of their education, the number of University students attending with the aid of service connected benefits continues to increase.

The number receiving benefits has risen from 145 in the fall to the current total of 164, according to Peter J. Cook, student financial aid officer.

The total represents an increase from 5 per cent of the student body in the fall to 7.7 per cent of the spring enrollment.

The tally includes 13 disabled veterans and 151 persons falling under the war orphans provision of the new GI Bill.

Two Workshops To Aid Students

Intensive help will be offered to two age groups of academically deficient students in separate summer workshops at the University, according to Dr. Willis J. Dunn, director of guidance and placement.

A pioneer Summer Workshop program for continuing college students on the borderline of the minimum grade point ratio is scheduled for June 13-August 8.

The seventh Summer Pre-College Workshop for high school juniors and seniors is slated for July 1-August 16.

The college students will enroll in one three-hour course which will be recommended by the Guidance Office. They will be tutored in the credit course. They will also receive tutorial help in the equivalent of six additional hours of directed study aimed at their weakest study and reading habits.

In the college student program, expenses for commuters will be $300. Resident costs will be $500.

Pre-college students will participate in supervised improvement programs in mathematics, speed-reading, study-reading, outlining and note-taking, library use and effective scheduling of time.

Testing, evaluations and recreation are included in the workshop plans. Resident costs, excluding entertainment expenses, will be $500. Commuter tuition is $250 plus an estimated $30 for books.

92 Awarded Scholarships

A total of 92 academic scholarships totaling $19,265 were awarded by the University for the spring semester.

This brings the total number of scholarships presented for the 1967-68 school year to 169 involving 116 students and $36,580. This is compared to a total of 151 scholarships to 102 students involving $36,348 for the 1966-67 school year.

Scholarship recipients for the spring semester include:

Stephen Barfield, Stephen Bergin, Susan Bashaw, Lorraine Bradley, Mrs. Betty Busler, Gary Calder, Vito Carpitella, Mrs. Adeline Castillo, Michael Catanese, Ronald Cento, Craig Cerrone, Joyce Chao, Seth Chase, Vincent Cianfroga, Julius Cinquegrani, Julia Clontz, Barry Clyman, Eileen Cohen, Gary Cooper, Thomas Cunningham, Vincent D'Alessandro Jr., Pamela Doster, William Dudley, Rosemary Easton, Eddis Elkin, Marlene Fernandez, Gene Flores, Peter Flynn, William Franklin II, George Frilingos, Robert Gordon, Diana Harrison, Era Lea Henderson, David Hill, Steven Hill, Georgia Hopper, Thomas Imbema, Nancy Jernigan, Barbara Kanaszka, Jill Katcher, Richard Kendall, Christopher Keyes, Barbara King, Gail Kirkconnell, Eloise Klein, Edward Kraftick, Sylvia Krohn, Jo Ann Kurtz, Nancy Leonelli, Janet Lewis, Sarah Marchese, Lourdes Martin, Morley Mason, Joseph Masturzo, Neal McCarthy, Patricia McCloskey, Mrs. Norma McCumber, Carmen Melone, James Merron, Phyllis Newman, Philip Owens, Norman Paeth, Claude Page, Gerard Paradiso, Theodore Patterson, Linda Perkins, Margaret Perkins, Selestine Prater, Laura Pullara, Patricia Rimm, Mrs. Frances T. ## Tampa Debaters Defeat Princeton

Members of the Delo Forensic Society recently defeated a debate team from Princeton for the second consecutive year.

The win secures the coveted "Challenge Cup" for the University of Tampa.

Eugene Canfield of Tampa and Arthur Eichenberg of Hawthorne, N.J., defended Tampa's record. Both are seniors concentrating their studies in business and economics.

They successfully debated the negative side of the controversy, "Resolved: That the Federal Government should Guarantee Every Citizen of the United States an Annual Cash Income."

Dr. Hugh Price Fellows, professor of speech and debate coach, and Jack H. Bertsch, assistant professor of philosophy and advisor of the society, hope to challenge another major university to a similar trophy contest with the winner of two out of three annual debates taking permanent possession of the prize.

JAN COOK

RUDOLPH GRANT

Jan Cook, Grant To Edit Publications In 1968-69

Miss Jan Leslie Cook of Tampa, and Rudolph Richard Grant of Schenectady, N. Y., have been named editors of The Minaret, the school newspaper, and The Moroccan yearbook at the University for next year.

Serving as assistant editor of the paper and yearbook will be Claude Edward Page of Lebanon, Mo., and Miss Donna Tapley, New York City.

Selected By Committee

Dr. Charles West Jr. said the editors were selected by the Student Publications Committee composed of staff, faculty and students at the University. "All four have been outstanding students, have contributed a great deal to the publication this year and have been named to the honorary journalism fraternity, Pi Delta Epsilon," he added.

Miss Cook presently serves as assistant editor of The Minaret and has worked in the public relations office at the University two years. A sophomore, she will intern in the newspaper field this summer on the St. Petersburg Times and Independent. She is an English major.

Grant, a junior art major, worked on the Moroccan this year. A member of Tau Epsilon Phi social fraternity, he is minoring in biology.

Student Government Reporter

Page, a senior, has served as student government reporter for The Minaret. President of his junior class, he has been awarded an academic scholarship at the University where he is majoring in business and economics. He has been on the school's honor roll.

Miss Tapley, current editor of The Moroccan, is majoring in elementary education and minoring in art and English. The work in the 1968 Moroccan directed by Miss Tapley was considered so exceptional by the publishing house that the firm reproduced the work and sent it to other colleges as an exemplary annual.

achieved by equipping the building with a large number of carrels, individual study areas, and with small rooms of various sizes.

Rooms, where typewriters may be used, will be placed on both floors.

In addition, there will be an audio visual room for listening to music or using micro tape and micro cards and taped lectures.

The building will house more than 200,000 volumes and provide a seating capacity for 650 persons. Stacks in the building will be open so books can be secured without difficulty.

Conduits will be built into the floors so that wiring for information retrieval equipment, computers and other electronic equipment can be installed.

Fletcher-Valenti of Tampa are the architects.

ONE OF THREE

Riba Wins Top All-Florida Undergraduate Art Award

Brian Riba, a senior art major from Chagrin Falls, Ohio, recently won one of three top awards of equal merit in the Sixth Annual All-Florida Undergraduate Painting Competition.

The University of Tampa artist entered an acrylic painting titled, "The When, What That We Are," in the show sponsored by the University of South Florida.

Riba was "very surprised" to win the $100 cash prize. It is his first major award although he won both third and fifth prizes in the 1967 student show at the University of Tampa.

Riba tries to learn from each new technique he tries, whether it succeeds or fails. He plans to "keep experimenting until things fall into place."

Riba tries to learn from each new technique he tries, whether it succeeds or fails. He plans to "keep experimenting until things fall into place."

University President David M. Delo will receive the honorary Doctor of Humanities degree from Rollins College Sunday, May 26. He will deliver the commencement address that day for the graduates of Rollins Central Florida School for Continuing Studies and for Rollins Evening Graduate Programs. The title of his speech will be, "The Anatomy of Freedom."

Joe Testa-Secca, assistant professor of art and artist-in-residence, describes the lauded work as "a highly successfully designed picture, exciting to look at." He said it would be considered worthy of notice even among work of professionals.

Testa-Secca singled out Riba's "willingness, through trial and error to come up with something original," as an unusual student trait.

James Bignell, associate professor of industrial arts, attended the National Industrial Arts Association meeting in Minneapolis, Minn., as representative of the Florida Industrial Arts Association.

His duties as president of the 500-member FIAA took him to the Florida Education Association convention in Miami recently to preside as chairman of the FIAA Executive Board meeting.

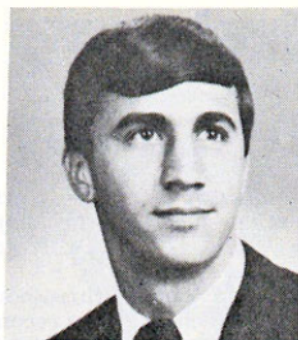

He also attended district meetings recently in Jacksonville and Orlando and was special speaker for the Suncoast chapter meeting in Tampa.

The December issue of "Science Education" published the results of a study by Dr. C. J. Ho, associate professor of psychology, on the effects of frustration on the performance of complex mental tasks.

Art work by two University of Tampa professors has been purchased for the new Tampa Public Library. A ceramic sculpture by Harold Nosti, instructor in art, and two acrylic paintings by Joe Testa-Secca, assistant professor of art and artist in residence, will be displayed in the library.

Nosti's ceramic exhibit of more than 50 mosaics, sculptures, pots and reliefs at Studio 4 in St. Petersburg in the fall was hailed as a success by the "St. Petersburg Times."

The revised edition of "Mosaics: Principles and Practice," published by Reinhold Publishing Corp. features a full page photograph of the mosaic mural on the University

Mike Catanese of Charlotte, N. C., was elected Student Government Association president for the 1968-69 year during spring elections. Serving as vice president will be Herb Knowlton with Mary Sue Gaudio as co-ed vice president. Miss Kathy Driscoll will handle secretarial affairs.

Tampa Will Be Workshop Site On Cheerleading

The University of Tampa will be the site of the first University of Cheerleading Summer Workshop for Southeastern junior and senior high school cheerleaders June 30-July 5.

Twenty-five segments of the cheerleading field will be taught during the seminar. Courses will include: cheer techniques, pompon routines, uniform fashion design and public speaking. The workshop is conducted by the International Cheerleading Foundation Inc., a non-profit organization headquartered in Kansas City, Mo.

FACULTY STAFF

of South Florida administration building designed by Testa-Secca. Two of his acrylic washes and a pencil drawing have been accepted in a Print-Drawing Show at South Georgia College in Douglas, Ga.

Prints by Miss Marie Freckleton, instructor in art, were featured in a 3-Man Show at the Tampa Bay Art Center this spring.

Dr. Lora Friedman, associate professor of education, participated in two judo demonstrations at the Florida State Fair.

The Institute of Family Treatment, sponsored by the Family Service Association of Tampa and the Family and Children's Service of St. Petersburg, was attended by Fred Fisher, assistant professor of sociology.

John F. Rhilinger, director of purchases was a member of a panel discussion on furnishings during the recent annual National Association of Educational Buyers meeting at the University of South Florida.

Inspection of the new science building and a study of the curricula in the sciences was the purpose of a recent visit to the University of Miami by Dr. Floyd E. Allison, chairman of the physics department, and Dr. Robert E. Wean, biology department chairman.

Dr. Curtis A. Gilgash, chairman of the psychology department, will appear in the 11th Edition of "Who's Who in the South and Southwest."

"Spirit of God," an anthem composed by Stephen Park, associate professor of music and composer-in-residence, was sung by the University Christian Church Choir, Tampa, recently. David Wallace, director of bands at Oregon College of Education, Monmouth, Ore., included Park's "Almost April," concert march for symphonic band, in his winter concert.

Dr. J. Ryan Beiser, chairman of the history and political science department, attended the recent Florida Conference of College Teachers of History at the University of Miami. He also reviewed two books for the American Quarterly, published by the American Studies Association.

A composition by Dr. Noel Stevens, chairman of the music department, was recently recorded with 11 other works by the Florida Woodwind Quintet and Harpsichord. The album is now on sale.

The recent Northeast Conference on Teaching Languages in New York City was attended by Dr. Eustasio Fernandez, chairman of the modern language department.

A number of poems published recently in the British magazine, "Euphoria," as representative of the new American subjective school, were by Dr. Duane Locke, associate professor of English.

Dr. Locke's poems also recently appeared in "Ann Arbor Review," "Ann Arbor, Mich.," "Maelstrom," "New York City," "Intermission," "Chicago," and 10 other "little magazines."
