Sponsored by the Department of English & Writing

Dr. Nishant Upadhyay

"Indians on Indian Lands"

Nishant Upadhyay (they/them) is an Assistant Professor of Ethnic Studies at the University of Colorado Boulder. This talk theorizes Indigenous and South Asian everyday proximities, relationalities, and intimacies, or what they call colonial intimacies, within the Canadian settler state by exploring short stories written by Cree writer Thomas Highway and Punjabi writer Sadhu Binning. Colonial intimacies engage with gender, sexual, and racial formations to theorize the coloniality of racial/sexual power.

Light refreshments will be served.
