SPARTANS READY FOR HATTERS

313 MASQUERS PLAN TO GIVE RANKING PLAYS

'Nothing But the Truth' On List for Year

At the meeting of the 313 Masquers Tuesday night, Mrs. Connally, faculty director, outlined the dramatic program for the year.

"Nothing But the Truth," a three-act, box-office-attracting comedy will be the opening production. As usual, a large crowd of both residents and tourists is anticipated for this, the first play of the year. In the opening play last year, "Adam's Evening," another three-act comedy, a record attendance was established.

Shortly after the Christmas holidays the club will present an evening of one-act plays. As of last year, these plays will be of the best entertainment. Last year the club presented "The Bohemian Shawl" and "They're None of Them Perfect." These one-act plays were met with much applause by a large audience.

The evening of one-act plays will be followed with either Phillip Barrie's "Holiday" or "Let Us Be Gay," both splendid three-act plays, and of a rank above any that the Masquers have attempted so far. This may be made more emphatic by the fact that the royalty of either will be $50, and that this price is a reduction from the regular price allowed because the Masquers have a chapter of Alpha Psi Omega within their group. The payment of a royalty of this height will necessitate much working by the club to raise the needed money.

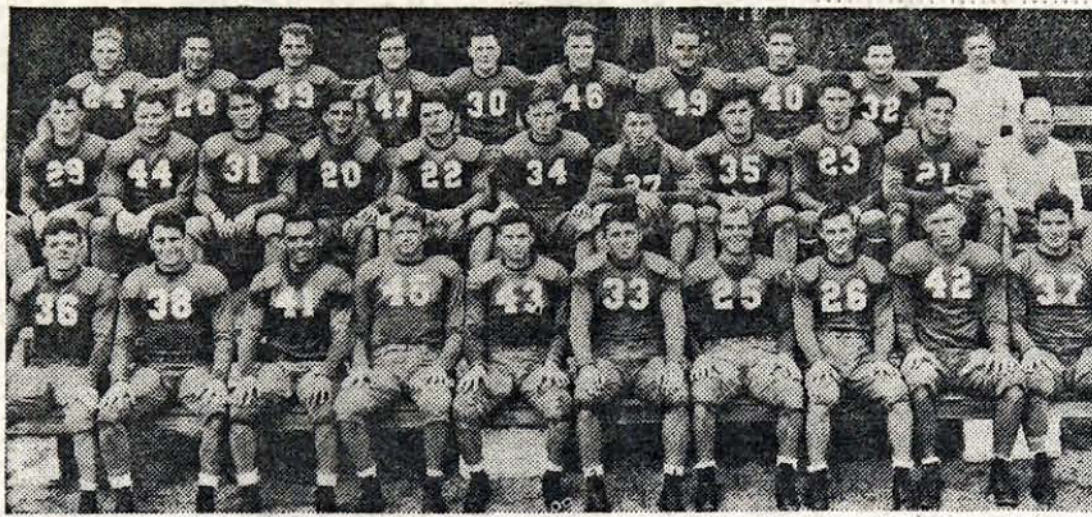

The year's work on publically presented plays will be climaxed, as was done last year, by a classic, which has been turned into a play for the stage production. This play will be "I Have Five Daughters," an adaptation of the very old, and equally well-read novel "Pride and Prejudice." Probably better known than "Jane Eyre," it ranks, however, with the production of last May, in dramatic scenes, costume possibilities, and general stage quality. Those who had a chance to see "Jane Eyre" last year will remember the striking adaptations the cast made for the characters they portrayed. It was said by some to be one of the best college productions seen in many a day.

As another point, Mrs. Connally also reminded the club of the quality of the honorary fraternity, Alpha Psi Omega, which is the largest dramatic organization in the country. The local chapter is also the only national fraternity on the campus, and is even more prized for membership because of the actual honors conferred upon the members. In the fall issue of the Play Bill, the official magazine of the national organization, the pictures of the members appointed from the Masquers group last year, in the first appointment to the fraternity from the University. These members are: Helen Windham, Truman Hunter, Bert Hernandez, Anne Way Peebles, Joyce Turner (former student), Idelle McMillan, and Carlos Baliff.

After the business meeting the Masquers enjoyed an impromptu program which consisted of songs by Martha Franco, Mickey DeWolf, Sam Harrison and Bert Hernandez, a reading by Catherine Basenius, and music played by Catherine Quinby and Ella Beth Laird. Dee Driver and Frisbie Carr presented a pantomime of newlyweds preparing their first meal, which dramatic production gave many laughs and much applause was given by the audience.

Teacher—"Now, Louise, what are you doing—learning something?"
Louise—"No, mam, I'm just listening to you."

THE HATTERS OF 1937

Famous People of Long Ago Graced University Halls

Let's turn back the pages of time for 50 or more years. Take a look at our thriving University's home. No paddles, no "rat caps," no black sweater with big yellow T's on them, no sloppy sweat shirts, no culottes, no professors, and what's more no "rats." Look back to the days when such a thing as a person who was broke did not so much as walk through the building, to say nothing of living in it.

Take a glimpse at the people themselves. The majority were older and all were dressed in the latest fashion. All were well-to-do—for the University at that time was a hotel—a home for the most exclusive people in the world.

Let us meet a few people. There sits Richard Harding Davis, the greatest war correspondent of his time. It was he who wrote an article called "The Rocking Chair Period of the War." This whole article was centered around what is now our University. Here also is Commander in Chief Miles, General Wade, General Shafter, Gen. O. O. Howard. During this same period we can easily talk to Ira Sankey, who sang and preached to the soldiers, Clara Barton, Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, Gen. "Joe" Wheeler. And over there in the far corner sits a man with a group of gentlemen around him. Who is it? Why it is none other than Col. Theodore Roosevelt.

Let's turn the page. Who do we see? Why there sits Grover Cleveland.

Not all of the notables are generals and presidents. Look over there. See—Von Sternberg, German ambassador, Madame Schuman-Heinck, the famous singer, Sarah Bernhardt, one of the greatest actresses of all time. And see, there sits the Baron and Baroness des Planches of Italy.

Turn a few more pages. Take a look. This time we see Constance Bennett, the movie star. Sitting beside her is the bridegroom, Phil Plant, son of the man who built our home.

Turn the pages again. Wow—stop! Here we are in 1937—Right smack in Rat Court. Look at those "rats," aren't they cute! I wonder who will write about them 50 years from now?

Two ways to get through college:
1. Faculty of work.
2. Working of faculty.—The Mountain Eagle.

TIME MARCHES ON:
In 1837—"Look, there's an auto."
In 1937—"Look, there's a horse."
In 1950—"Look, there's a pedestrian."—Western Graphic.

Cop—"Why did you jay-walk, young man?"

Despondent lover—"Well, officer, I was going to end it all by walking in front of the taxi, but the darn thing was yellow."

INGLEY, NAVA RECEIVE PAPERS OF CITIZENSHIP

Mr. August Ingley and Mr. Louis Nava, two prominent professors of the University of Tampa, passed the final requirements for their naturalization papers, last Tuesday, Oct. 7.

Professor Nava came to this country from the northwestern part of Spain in 1915. But, due to his continual moving from state to state since his coming, he had not as yet been able to meet the first requirement—that of living in one state for a continuous period of five years. "I am very glad to get my naturalization papers," said Professor Nava, "and I wouldn't take anything for them. I thing the duty of every newcomer to this country is first to learn the language and second to become a citizen."

Professor Ingley moved to the United States from Montreal, Canada, 12 years ago. He applied for naturalization papers during the year of a presidential election, but in accordance with the law he had to wait until now to get them. Smiling happily, Professor Ingley said: "I am very proud of having my naturalization papers, and I hope to live up to our constitution and be a decent American citizen from now on."

To receive naturalization papers in this country the applicant voluntarily takes an oath that it is his honest intention to become a citizen of the United States. He fills out a paper giving his name, age, occupation, date of arrival in the United States, and the name of the vessel on which he came.

After living in this country at least five years he may apply for the "petition for naturalization." For this the candidate goes to the office of the clerk of the court, accompanied by two witnesses who are citizens of the United States, and have come in constant contact with the applicant for five years. He must be able to answer several questions on the constitution, speak English, and be able to satisfy the court as to his good character and loyal purpose. When these tests have been met, the candidate for naturalization takes the "oath of allegiance" and receives his "certificate of citizenship."

Mr. Nava has been on the faculty of the University as instructor of Spanish since the school was organized as a Junior College in 1931. He is married to an American girl, and has two children, Louis, Jr., and Marilyn.

Mr. Ingley, director of the band and orchestra, has been with the University

Co-Eds Brave Warm Weather To Sport Their Fall Apparel

Those of you who witnessed the first Tampa U. football game of the season Monday night at Phillips Field also witnessed what the University co-eds will be wearing this fall. Although the weather was of the mid-summer variety, yet the fans sat sweltering in their newest cold-weather apparel. Lightweight sweaters and skirts, tailored silk dresses in rich and new autumn shades, sheer woolens, and trim knitted suits—all seem to be a necessary part of the college girl's wardrobe. The hat, however, is the tell-tale note of her costume. All hats (with the exception of the ever popular "snap-brim") have an upward soaring appearance. Smart calots, toques, felt berets, and peaked cones were much in evidence.

Shoes, we noticed, were to be seen in various colors. Low-heeled suede oxfords, to match the skirts and sweaters, were the most popular type.

As to the colors seen, there seems to be a "riot of color." From bright "Kelley" greens to the most subdued "London" tans, we found a never ending assortment.

Dr. Denton Recovers From Auto Accident

A dime cab will get you if you don't watch out! At least that is what Dr. Denton thought when she was struck by a cab last Wednesday. However, it was the cab driver who wasn't watching out. Dr. Denton had had luncheon across the street and was returning to the University when she was suddenly knocked down. Although terribly bruised, she remained calm and said, "A miss is as good as a mile." After some persuasion she yielded to the entreaties of bystanders and was taken to the doctor. Fortunately X-rays showed no broken bones. She is, however, suffering from a severely sprained knee and has been obliged to use crutches.

It is commendable that she has met all her classes except those the day after her accident. We hope that she will have a speedy recovery and that she will have a pleasant and successful year at the university.

There is great need for a traffic light at the corner of Crescent place and Lafayette to insure safety for students and all pedestrians who are obliged to cross such a busy and dangerous street.

Three sweetest words:
"I love you."
"Inclosed find check."
"Let me help."
"Dinner is ready."
"Vacation with pay."
"Showers and cooler."
"All is forgiven."—The Bison.

RATED BELOW STETSON BY ONE SCORING

Large Crowd Will Watch Close Game

By SAM HARRISON

The University of Tampa, in good shape except for the loss of Stephens and Sparkman, through ineligibility, are ready to "shoot the works" against the Stetson Hatters at Phillips field tonight. The kick-off is scheduled for 8:15 o'clock. Richard Spoto, who combines speed and deception with driving power, is completely recovered from early season injuries, and much of the ball-carrying responsibility will be placed on his shoulders. It is hoped that "Strawberry" Cox's recent illness will not hold him in check.

Godwin Shifted

In the line "Pix" Pearson's "seven blocks of granite" appear to be in fine shape, with the possible exception of Willie Godwin, who is nursing a bruised hip which he acquired in the Western Kentucky game. Godwin has been shifted to end to fill one of the vacancies left by the ineligibility of Sparkman and Stephens.

Hatters Rated Better

On paper, the Hatters are rated about a touchdown better than the Spartans, but this comes merely from comparative scores. Stetson beat South Georgia Teachers 24 to 0, while the Spartans drove across three touchdowns in the final half of the game to win 20 to 0.

Warren Thorn in Side

The Hatters, whom the Spartans defeated 6 to 0 last year on a last minute touchdown run by Rudy Rodriguez, are reported to have a slightly better outfit than that of last year. Lyn Warren, a thorn in Tampa's side last year will probably be the same tonight. Warren is a triple-threatener, and one of the finest passers in the state. Fans may anticipate a first class passing duel between he and Spoto.

Stetson will bring its famous 60-piece band with its co-ed drum major to divide half-time honors with the Spartan band. A colorful demonstration is planned by both bands.

Standing of Season

Stetson offered stubborn resistance to the University of Florida Gators in their opener several weeks ago in a close game, 18-0. Statistics showed a much closer game than the score indicated.

The Spartans were defeated in their second start by the powerful Western Kentucky Teachers' college at Bowling Green, 13 to 0.

Advance ticket sales indicate a large crowd will be on hand to witness the fifth meeting of the two schools. Each team has won two games, each by a single touchdown margin.

Annual Relations Day To Be Observed Sunday

The annual Church and University Relations day observed at the First Baptist church the past two years will be observed again next Sunday at the morning service, at 11 o'clock. Dr. Adiel Jarrett Moncrief, pastor, has invited the faculty, students and friends of the university, who have not assumed other church duties and obligations in the city, to attend the service. Pres. John H. Sherman will give a brief address of response to the student welcome and Dr. Moncrief will speak on the subject, "The Returns From Religion." All students of the university, who have not found other church homes are invited to the First Baptist church.

WHEREIN LIES HONESTY?

Sometimes there arise problems, within an organization, which are seemingly unsolvable. Such problems baffle, perplex, worry and even torture the individual who must solve them, either because of assumed, real or placed duty. If the circumstances permit, the individual stands a fair chance of reaching a solution which will be wise and saving of energy, feelings and all the other things involved where people are concerned. But when the members within the organization, for any reason, try to hinder the individual in his working with the problem, then nothing but his best judgments can pull him through, into a satisfactory answer. Human beings are harder upon each other than any other force which has beat upon men since they started up from the mud of Creation. Man shows man less pity than the winds which tear at him, less compassion than the floods which carry away all his possessions, or less sympathy than the fires which lick up his only hope of livelihood. All philanthropies are thus reduced merely to the station of charity, because those who receive have sunk so low that they can no longer feel the intense sympathy of the rare few who really philanthropize. In such a world where does the ideal of honesty fit in? Or does it?

Has civilization then, merely aided in the downfall of the society principles of man? Are we then, merely losing our position gained from the centuries of conceiving higher purposes and livings? If we are so to be pushed down by all the lesser individuals in our midst, why should we strive to raise them even as we are ever raising ourselves? If we do not do this, we are not following our own ideals; if we do we retard the progress of mortal civilization. Which course can we take? Or shall we admit the theory of Original Sin and let Man be what Man pleases and in any way he choses to be it?

If our lives are spent on the building up of the higher principles of living, there is no room in them for such an unhealthy doubt of one's fellows. Yet we realize the weakness of those whose only aims are the selfish attainments of the moment, only to be satisfied by personal gratification. We must live with people whose only goal in life has been that of personal gain, despite or through others of their neighbors, as they are given opportunity to do so. We must be able to hold our own ideals so high that none may reach them, to degrade them by their selfish touch. We must live to these ideals and let them guide us; our education is not complete without this knowledge, this plan of living, and this holding aloft our ideals. In college we are given full opportunity to gain this education; if we will not to learn, we cannot. Those who will not to understand, cannot be made to do so.

Honesty, then rests with the students who are learning, the honesty, that is, within the larger group which we call "society" and which is bounded by city, state and national boundaries. If a country is not honest it is because the people have not learned the habit and ideal of honesty. Are we going to learn it here, by the examples we have had set before us?

FOR A REAL STUDENT SECTION

Phillips Field is indeed a great addition to the University of Tampa, and all who had part in producing it should be commended. But—with such an addition, why shouldn't the University students have the best seats in the entire grandstand?

Last year, the students and the band were placed on the 50-yard line in the bleacher section at Plant Field. Now that the University has its own football field and its own seating section, the students are placed in seats from the 20-yard line to the goal.

Who is to blame for such an error, if error it is? Shouldn't we, the students, have the very best, if, indeed, we are to represent the school? Or isn't the student body considered worthy of any better seats than those in the "F" section?

It is the right of every University of Tampa student to have the very best seats on the field. And now is the time to act!

Act! Act now!! And let's have nothing less than the 50-yard line for our school section!

Now that the argu-nizations have finished rushing maybe a romance or two will bud forth. . . . But before we break into the love racket it's a custom for us to pick out an outstanding pledge from each frat and sorority. Our bookies go to: Alpha Gams—Lydia Palenzuela, Dekes—Frances Sessions, Sigma Thetas—Marian Beers, Beta Chis—Dick Silechter, Rho Nus—Eustacio Fernandez, Skins—Mayhew Ingram, T. O.'s—Paul Hance.

Arthur Burrows receives verree, verree, scarlett letters from his fiancée, Katherine, at home. His dorm room is wall papered with her pictures. . . . Betty not Dick will receive the mate to her engage ring next semester. An informal nite wedding is planned. Roddy calls Betty "Baseball" 'cause she won't play without a diamond. (some yoke) . . . A Spartan co-ed is sending a frat pin back to her has-been. Who was it that said "Absence makes the heart grow fonder." . . . Sooky Jackson has a new lull in her life. The lull has curly blonde hair that matches hers.

During the Deke dance Jane Pearson dashed over to Lakeland by plane and chatted to the (alumni) Hoys. Prof. Culbreath was the pilot. It was Jane's anniversary so the two birthdayed it at the Tampa T. (Lucy Fulgum?—How should we know.) Joyce Turner sends her love and wit. She'll visit Tampa U in a month or two. . . . Who did Nancy Taylor jilt recently? (What's she got that we've overlooked?) "But she's not the only heart-breaker," he says. . . . For an interesting personality ask "one-time" Gainer to tell ya about "Rachael" (good ole Rachael).

Song Descriptions: High, Wide and Handsome: B. J. Mims and Ozzie Beynon; Satan Takes a Holiday: Strawberry Cox; No, No, A Thousands Times; No: Minna Dennis and Lyn Glasgow; You Can't Have Everything: Howard Stephens.

There will be an open house after the game tonite — just follow the crowd. . . . Next week will be election (by machine) of Frosh officers and we hope they get busy with a Freshman prom (general hint) . . . Officers of all classes might be installed in assembly for the first time. . . . The pres. would not O. K. a "jook organ" for the pajama parade and dance but an automatic music instrument was all right. . . . After the pajama frolic, Spencer Dimond and Jimmy Whitney were tossed overboard by the lowly rats. John H. Jr. enjoyed a forced swim too. The freshmen have one more on the spot and no fist will protect him this time.

. . . Sound in the lobby: Carolyn Lowe: "You look cute with your pants rolled up." "Rat Paul Hance: "Yeh, you'd look cute too if your —eh, uh, that is, yeh, I do look cute, don't I." (Gulp).

During the Ga. Teacher game Frances Saverese talked about "Mr. Freedy" until escort Bud Glass said a thing or two. . . . Miss Hunt and Prof. Bethal have dated. . . . Frances Macnamara and Wendal Waters are holding hands now. . . . Dr. Hinckley recommends "Co-eds, God Bless Them" for good reading. . . . Jane White, who has been pointed out by Dr. Bode as the most attractive gal on the campus, is competing for the "R. M. queen" title. . . . Edna Johnson admits that her frat pin means more than just a whim. . . . Margaret Hitchcock seems to be doing' all right with the marines. . . . The Tampa U band may make a little filthy lucre by having a swing session every Saturday aft and charge a small admission.

S'long, we'll see you at the game tonite. And get the yell in there and hell like yell!

300 Watch Game From Pine Trees

"Look, there are some owls in the trees!"

"Now, that's the decorations on a Christmas Tree!"

But in reality those white dabs against the black of the pine trees were young boys and ticketless men, trying to express their enthusiasm for the University Spartans by attending, as Nature offered best, the game between said Spartans and the Teacher's of South Georgia.

300, approximately, saw the Spartans beat the Teachers 20 to 0 merely by climbing the surrounding pine trees, sitting on the laundry roof or gazing through the unfinished east fence of the Phillips' Stadium.

Some students resolved to petition the building committee to put bleachers in these same trees for the benefit of those football enthusiasts who, while wishing to see the game, are as yet unable to pay the price of an admission ticket.

MUEZZIN CALLS

PORTRAIT

Tall sentinels, the pines are carved on wide expanse of sky
From priceless, ancient ebony. The breeze a sleepy sigh
Did breathe, and then retired within the hollows of the hills
To seek its silver slumber by the song of whip-poor-wills.

New moon, a pale exotic wisp, a beaten silver rim,
Pins purple puffs of clouds together at the heaven's brim
And drifting through the stillness campers' voices sweetly sing.
And I find peace and joy and love in everything.

MARY FRANCES O'BERRY.

LONGING

I long for you as the sand
Longs for the ebbing sea,
As the homeward-herded cow
Longs for the sweet-grassed lea.

As the painted passion flower
Weeps for its wild-grove bed
I weep for you in my heart—
In sorrow my tears are shed.

I've wearied of gay-papered walls
And I cry always for thee—
As the lonely, bleaching sand
Cries for the ebbing sea.

"SENTINEL OF SORROW"

Golden darts of twilight
Pierce the darkened sky—
Pierce my hearts a thousand times
While I watch the old sun die.

Silver shorn from moonlight
Tarnishes and fades—
Tarnishes the glamour cast
From countless cavalades
Reminding me of love-dreams
Fashioned from the dawn—
Fashioned from the changing light
Which, like our love, has gone.

I LOVE HIM BECAUSE:

1. He's interested in learning about me before he starts talking about himself.
2. He never thinks I mean things I say I mean when I don't.
3. He dances well enough to be interesting and often enough to be worthwhile.
4. I love him because, oh gosh, it's prom season and a girl has to be in love with someone.

I LOVE HER BECAUSE:

1. She doesn't ask me if I'm stringing her a line when she knows darn well I am.
2. She doesn't agree with me too much.
3. She doesn't recognize my roommate's clothes when I wear them.
4. I love her 'cause, oh, nuts, no one appreciates me anyway.—Flat Hat.

THREE DOWN AND ONE TO GO

Edna Johnson caused a cascade of girls to go tumbling down the steps of a theater here when she poked Jane White in the back to say hello the other night. Jane lost her footing, grabbed the closest person's skirt, who did likewise, ditto, until three of them ended topsy-turvy on the floor. No one was hurt. Edna, who escaped it all, said she laughed so much that she forgot to apologize. But later that night she rode out to Dot Talbot's house, and as a sort of anti-climax, sprawled on the ground while getting out of the car.

WE WANT YOU, ANYWAY, DALE

Dale Petersen twirled a wicked baton at the first game and cinched the job of drum major as far as students are concerned—or did someone say they wanted a skirt in front of the band?

AND EMMA JANE IS STILL CUTE

The co-eds have tried hard to make Rat Emma Jane Sacrey, Delta Kappa pledge, look not quite so cute. They even made her tie up her curls in paper (you guess what kind) and she nearly caused a sensation. Let's hope it doesn't become a fad.

SHERMAN URGES SPORTSMANSHIP IN GAME TONIGHT

President Sherman, in addressing the student body last Tuesday in Assembly, expressed a desire to have our school show the same type of good sportsmanship in our game with Stetson tonight that he witnessed at the game played between our team and that of Kentucky, when he attended that game in Bowling Green last Saturday.

He expressed his point by telling of the motorist who, as he told St. Peter, won a great moral victory at the cross-section where he had the right of way—but where the other driver had a truck.

"Last Saturday," said Dr. Sherman, "the University of Tampa won a great moral victory, but Kentucky had the truck." He recounted the fact that our team consisted of only 21 players, two first-string men being unable to play, and that one of these, another first-stringer, was brought out in the first quarter. Nevertheless, the Tampa team outplayed that of Kentucky during this first quarter.

"Every time," continued President Sherman, "every time our men regained the ball they regained it nearer to the Kentucky goal than they had received it the time before. This fact I am sure is without one exception. The Kentuckians played a punting game, and were considerably out-punted.

But, as Dr. Sherman went on to tell, in the second quarter the Teachers' realized that they would have to use different tactics, and therefore used a straight game of football, using power plays and counting on their superior weight to go through the Spartan line. They succeeded in breaking through and scoring a touchdown and the extra kick for this quarter. Then, in the third quarter, the Spartans seemed to pick themselves up and had the appearance of being "on their way."

"They needed two touchdowns to beat the Teachers," President Sherman reminded, "and therefore had to open up their game. This meant the chance of making a fluke. And then the fluke occurred and there were 6 more points for the Kentuckians. Their earned game really was only the original 7 points from the second quarter."

Dr. Sherman then reminded the audience that this Kentucky team had beaten the University of Virginia in the spring practice.

Continuing, Dr. Sherman told of the support that our team had from the spectators:

"The boys played 'way over their heads," he said, "and gained from this playing much support from the crowd, friends and admiration. They should feel that they do not care whether or not they won. They were playing out of their class, and were doing it well."

"The Kentucky team members said that they were keen to come down here next year and hoped for the same kind of top playing, and the same kind of real game, and did not care whether they won or not, but would enjoy the game for itself."

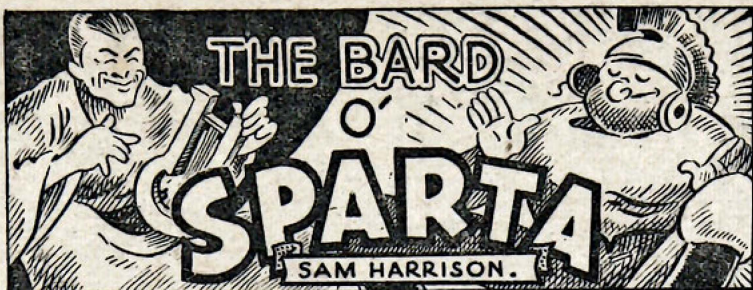

"A lighter team," continued Dr. Sherman, "has no chance except in continually jumping. Thus our team incurred many penalties, for which I never heard anyone, not even the 'hot-sports' of the college town, express any joy. Each penalty was met with good sportsmanship and silence. They all pulled for us and gave each of our attempts a splendid hand. In fact, during the second half, it would have been difficult to tell which of the two teams playing was the home team, except for the cheering section, itself."

"And we want this same kind of spirit, of cordial relations, between ourselves and Stetson. Athletics are only helpful to the college," he pointed out, "when they gain sportsmanlike relations between us and Stetson, Rollins, Miami, etc., so that they may be keen rivals and good friends."

Dr. Sherman reminded the students that the original cause of the bitter feelings between us and Stetson, was made by the Stetson officials and because of this, they are not able, as the offender, to make the first step toward re-establishing our former relations. "It is then up to us," he continued, "to make this first step."

"Help them to play the best game, have the best time, and work their hardest on the field and if we win we'll have more fun doing so and will have fun playing them—but only if the same attitude is behind them as was behind us last Saturday."

A teacher asked her class the difference between "result" and "consequences." A bright little co-ed replied, "Results are what you expect and consequences are what you get."

Grumblings and rumblings were heard arising from some members of the student body concerning the student section at the new stadium. Some of the guys and gals have begun to cherish the idea that section "F" in the south stands, is too far from the 50-yard line. So what? Every seat in Philips field stadium is a good one, as good at either end as a 50-yard liner. Furthermore, why should the athletic association sacrifice the higher-priced seats in the stadium for student occupation? If the students were stuck off in the end-zone bleachers, they would have a genuine protest. Why not let well enough alone, boys?

A football coach's mind is a complex and mysterious article. Totally unlike a baseball manager, who is ever bragging that his club is the finest in the world, a grid mentor will throw up his hands in horror if anyone suggests that his charges will perhaps win a game! Afterwards, if by some unforeseen quirk of extremely fortunate fate, dear old State U. manages to eke out a hard-fought 77 to 0, they shake their heads in utter amazement, being at a total loss to explain the phenomenon.

If on the night of the Rollins game, (some weeks off yet), you're not as broke as your old bard is at present, contact Bill Culbreath. He has a plan which may be of interest. W. E. has made tentative plans to charter a plane and fly to Winter Park to see the game. . . . The cost for the round trip would not exceed $10. Whatcha say, boys and girls? Some fun, eh?

In spite of Nash Higgins' dire predictions, it is our humble opinion that the Spartans are right to take the Stetson Hatters tonight. We are reminded of last year's meeting with the La. Poly eleven when the pre-game dope was for the Tech men to ramble over the Spartans like Minnesota over the Busy Bee Grammar school. Oh, yes, Tech won the game, but you will remember that they barely snatched victory out of a scoreless tie by a last-

MIRIA DESCRIBES FIRST GAME OF THE FOOTBALL YEAR

Well here I be. Plumb missed the first edishon but I aint a gonna miss nary nother one. Ya see hit was this yere way. I've been gittin' started an' hits been kinda hard. This year on account of my subjects a bein' so hard I'm a goin' to haf ta be reel scholery.

Went to the foot' ball game with the rest of youall. Had a heep of fun. Course I knowed most of the no. of the men from last yere, and them thet I didn't know I soon lernt.

In case nun er some of you freshmen aint never been to a Tamper U. game I'll tell ya about hit. The games given in a great big peace of ground called a Phillips stadium. Its reely a space of ground where the boys play with seats all around hit where the people kin set to holler when they all play. First thing off the bat happens is too teams of 11 players gits on the field. One team lines up and the t'other spreads out orn the ground. Then one player kicks the ball which is long and not round, reel hard and a nother one ketches hit and runs plumb down th feel till someones jumps on him an knocks him down. All the rest of the game is made up of kids chunken the ball trying to kerry hit down to som tall wite sticks stickin' up in the groun. Ever so often a bunch git in a circle and bend over and have a bull session. An all the tim yo 'ur a watchin' you holler, en clap, an sing and always watch. Som time you jump up and down when some one tells you. During intermission a bunch of boys all dressed up in red suits and hats, you know, like the elephant trainer at the circus wears, and one boy what leads the band twists around an around a shiny stick so fast, and onct he pitched it way up in the air and by cracky if it didn't go over that post what the ball is suppose to go over.

It shore was purty. When hits all over and done you eat and then you're spose to go home but you don't; you go truckin and if yall don't know whut truckin is I'll tell you next time.

I like an exam
I think they're fun;

minute touchdown pass — a mere gamble which worked. The game tonight will be close, but the warriors of Sparta are out to win—they have a will to win, and we believe they will.

We all hope "Strawberry" Cox's recent illness doesn't hamper the efficiency of his running and kicking tonight. . . . Cox is needed badly. . . . Doug Hance is anticipating greatly the coming frosh game with the Naval Air Station eleven at Pensacola, in which he and his brother will wage a ball-carrying duel the likes of which may never be seen again. . . .

The Bard recently read an interesting football short story, in which occurred an extremely clever bit of psychology used by a certain coach. Dear old Podunk was trailing Siwash by 12 to 7, and the final moments of the game were fleeing, alas, into eternity. Into the fray from the Podunk bench dashed a figure clad in the regularly prescribed uniform, with the exception that he wore track shorts instead of padded breeches. On the first play, the figure in the track shorts dashed like a streak far down the field, while a halfback faded and passed to him—the ball falling 10 yards short of its mark. Again the two teams lined up, again the bare-legged speedster sped down the field, and again the halfback faded and passed—this time over the track man's head. So yet again the weary eleven lined up. The clock showed 30 seconds to play. Once more the tense thousands watched the long-legged youth dash down the field, as did every last one of the Siwash eleven. Once more the halfback faded and heaved a mighty pass—straight into the arms of the other end on the other side of the field, who picked 'em up and laid 'em down, untouched for 50 yard and a touchdown. The frenzied thousands went mad with joy, for Podunk had won, 13 to 12. Besides, they knew all the time that the man in the track shorts had never played football before and never would again. . . .

Men's Home Ec. Class Finally Underway

The men's class in Home Economics is now a reality. The class meets every Tuesday and Thursday morning at 8:30 o'clock. It seems that the freshmen wish to attain greater heights in nutrition than the upperclassmen as the class has shown a greater freshman registration. There are nine members now attending class and eight of those enrolled are freshmen, the lone upperclassman being (without his permission), Ben Filipiski.

The class will deal principally with nutrition and has started the study of calorie content of foods and the determination by weight. Following this will be a detailed study of the different vitamins and their properties. Although there will be a fine collection of white rats in the laboratory for experimentation the fellows will not have a chance to use them. Their work will be limited to the text, "Nutrition," written by Chaney and Ohlborn, which will be paralleled by the experimental work on different types of foods in the new, well-furnished lab.

Girl's Teams Are Being Organized For Intramurals

Angelina Martino, newly-elected president of the W. A. A. called a meeting Thursday morning to discuss the oncoming volleyball tournament, which will begin on Oct. 20 or 23. Aside from the fact that a freshman manager was elected for this year, it was decided that there would be seven teams entering the tournament instead of the usual four. They will be the Delta Kappa, Sigma Theta Phi, and Alpha Gamma sororities, the freshmen, sophomores, junior and senior classes. Heretofore, the Physical Educators comprised of the sophomores, juniors, and seniors, not in sororities. But due to the increase of interest in athletics new teams now can be added.

The Alpha Gamma sorority, a comparatively new organization on the campus will this year make its bid for athletic fame. The Alpha Gammas will have Silvia Jardon, Evangelina La Fuenta, and Oliva Castro. The old Physical Educators will remember what value their services were and the sophomores, juniors and senior teams will miss them keenly.

Sigma Theta Phi Sorority will be one of the most improved teams on the campus. Edna Johnson, Verna Vining, and Mickey O'Berry are old members who will see much service. Jane Pratt and Ella Beth Laird, two Sigma Theta Phi pledges will probably become sparkplugs on their team.

Delta Kappa will not only have practically all of their old members led by their athletic president, Jeanie Trice, but will have a host of pledges who will undoubtedly make the D. K. team.

Sophomore team will have Ligia Vega, champion in diamond ball, Grace Moore, champion in basketball, and Martha Franco, varsity basketball player. All three of these girls played varsity volleyball last year. With these players to lead the way the sophomores may be the high point team of the season.

The junior and senior teams lose some of their old players to the Alpha Gamma sorority. At present the two teams seem weak. There seems only to be Frances Macnamara, Mickey DeWolf, and Frances Keating to keep the team's head above water.

The large group of freshmen have yet to show their talents. With such a vast number to pick from, it should be easily assumed that the freshmen class can have a real fighting team. Last year the freshmen team won the intra-mural events.

The W. A. A. distributed mimeographed sheets of paper with questions concerning interest and time for athletics to all university girls. It is to be emphasized that all women who are attending Tampa university are members of the W. A. A., and they should fill out these blanks given them.

This year on the evening of Oct. 25, a shuffleboard tournament will be held on the courts in back of the university. About seven events will be run off during the evening.

A dean of Rutgers university gives the following definition of persons concerned with higher education:

A professor—casts imitation pearls before real swine.

A dean—not smart enough to be a professor but too smart to be a college president.

An alumnus—one who holds the president and faculty responsible for the success of the football team.

A trustee—one who has nightmares about endowments.

Saturday Marks Beginning of Touchfootball Tilts

The University's Intramural sports program starts off with a bang tomorrow morning as six touch football teams open the season with three games at Plant field. The strong Tau Omega fraternity will tangle with the powerful Beta Chi team which has dominated the program for the last two years. In another contest the Sigma Epsilon Engineers face Rho Nu Delta, last year's runner-up for the championship. In the third encounter of the day the Plebes meet Sigma Kappa Nu, winners of last year's touch-football league.

The opening games should prove of interest due to the fact that a win or a loss this first go-round is certain to have much bearing on a team's rating. In tomorrow's contests, however, each team will establish itself in the estimates of the other clubs. No speculation has yet been cast on the outcome of the games, due to many changes that have taken place in the various lineups. Three teams are, nevertheless, certain to figure for the championship: Beta Chi, Sigma Kappa Nu and Tau Omega, being considered strong enough to be in the top rank when this season ends. The Plebes, Sigma Epsilon, and Rho Nu Delta may pop up and upset one or two of the strong teams and should therefore bear close watching throughout the season.

To facilitate the playing of these games the intramural office has announced that no players are to be borrowed from other teams or from bystanders; two dollars must accompany any protest filed and the money will be refunded in case the protest is well-founded, otherwise the money will go into a general intramural fund. It was also agreed that the captains of each team are to do all the talking pertaining to decisions made on the field or any other disagreements which may arise.

The singles horseshoe tournament also gets under way this week with a long list of contestants already signed up. Last year the tournament went to lanky Hector Ginesta of Rho Nu Delta. All first bracket games are to be played and reported to the intramural managers by Wednesday, Oct. 20.

Advice to girls:
Don't go out with:
Track men—they're too fast.
Football men—they'll tackle anything.

Swimmers—they're all wet.
Tennis players—they're like all good rackets, and play too many love games.

Baseball players—they hit and run.
Band players—they play their horns too often.

Basketball players—they're always taking time-outs and getting "out of bounds."

Dramatic students — they're too showy.

Social Spotlight

Dear Annette:

Miss Catherine Jane Armstrong and Miss Helen Sharp will wear the red, gold and black colors for the Spartans tonight. Miss Armstrong was selected as sponsor by J. B. Cox, and will be escorted to the game by Lafayette Ingram. Autrey "Happy" Hayes chose Miss Helen Sharp, who will be escorted by A. J. Gates.

The young ladies have chosen very smart suits to wear for the occasion. Miss Armstrong will wear a snug little suit of rust wool trimmed with beaver, accented with brown gloves, pumps, and an off-the-face turban with veil. A black crepe dress, cut along lines of a tailored suit, will be worn by Miss Sharp. She will wear a high tying turban matching her accessories, which are to be of black.

The Stetson Sponsors are to be Mrs. Charles Allen, escorted by her husband, and Mrs. George K. Straus, escorted by Lester Shebal. Both Mr. and Mrs. Allen were students at Stetson, Mr. Allen being a member of the alumni. She was a Delta Delta Delta while there, and he was a member of Sigma Nu fraternity. They formerly lived in Lakeland, but have just recently moved to Tampa. Mrs. Straus, the former Miss Virginia Einsel, graduated from Stetson in 1935, and was a member of the Pi Beta Phi sorority. Her escort, also a Stetson graduate, was a Hatter football star back in 1934.

House parties, luncheons, smokers, theater parties, lake parties, hay rides, buffet suppers, spaghetti suppers, and many, many dances have been the highlights of our sorority and fraternity rushing season. This season was brought to a close last Friday, and many rushees have been invited to become pledges of their preferred group.

Miss Mickey O'Berry introduced a new style of bathing suit last week at the Beta Chi lake party at the country home of Luis Zendequi. This suit consisted of a pair of culottes and a white, previously starched shirt. Her Beta Chi boy friend, Fred Manucy, to go jump in a lake—she did!—The D. K.'s report that Mr. Al Yorkunas was the center of attraction at their Lake Ellen party. He took along his guitar and after his playing of one selection, he had the undivided attention and help of the guests and their voices.

The Hance boys, Paul and Doug, accompanied by Luther Sparkman, Kenneth Woods, Vincent Schulz, and Al Keathley, followed the Spartans to Kentucky for the Western Kentucky Teacher's college-University of Tampa game last Saturday. They believe in showing the old school spirit—in person!

They left here Thursday afternoon and drove through the night, arriving in Bowling Green Friday evening. After many miles their funds began running rather low, so they planned to economize on their food for the trip. They planned their menu which consisted mostly of coffee and apples. Coach Higgins made a job for them (cleaning up men) after the game Saturday and in payment for it fed them their first square meal since leaving Tampa.

If you hear any of these adventurous gentlemen addressed as "colonel" you will know the title originated during their hilarious weekend spent in Kentucky.

The S. K. N.'s bought enough spaghetti to serve one hundred persons at their last rushing party. When asked why they did this, when only about 50 persons would actually be present, they replied "We want to double our number!"

The freshmen are electing their officers. They are getting away to a big start, and soon they are going to sponsor the annual freshman prom. There are loads of attractive "freshies" so we're wondering who will have the honor of sponsoring the gala affair.

The witches and spooks are scheduled to arrive at the end of this month. They must be entertained, and in a big way! The Sigma Theta Phi's are going to sponsor their annual Halloween dance again. We've heard it's to be given the night of Oct. 30, but that isn't a definite fact 'cause they haven't announced it yet!

Before we say goodbye, may we offer our congratulations to our first football sponsors of the year!

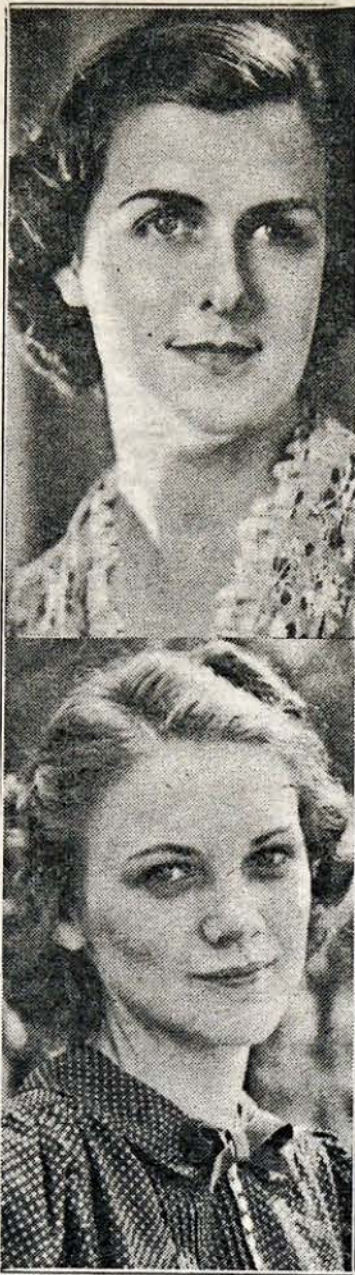

Yours,

FIFI.

Sigma Kappa Nu Entertains Pledges

The Sigma Kappa Nu fraternity entertained 18 new pledges yesterday with a luncheon at Parr's tea room. Lafayette Ingram, president of the fraternity, gave the welcome address.

The formal pledging ceremony will take place next Wednesday at the home of Theodore Lesley, III, 2707 Morrison avenue. Pledges will elect their officers and a meeting will follow.

SPONSORS FOR GAME—Miss Catherine Jane Armstrong, top, and Miss Helen Sharp, bottom, will be sponsors for the University of Tampa at the football game with Stetson university tonight. Miss Armstrong will be escorted by Lafayette Ingram and Miss Sharp by A. J. Gates. Stetson sponsors will be Mrs. George K. Straus, a graduate in the class of 1935, who will be escorted by Lester Shebal, football star in 1934, and Mrs. Charles Allen, escorted by Mr. Allen, both alumni of Stetson.

Rho Nu Delta Addressed By Pres. Sherman

Members of Rho Nu Delta fraternity, of the University of Tampa, held their monthly luncheon of the year Wednesday at Parr's upstairs dining room.

President John H. Sherman, of the University, and Dean M. S. Hale were guests of the fraternity.

In a talk to the fraternity members, Dr. Sherman enumerated the possibilities of Rho Nu Delta as a cosmopolitan organization, and how it can serve a well-felt need in aiding the University to attain its ultimate goal of extending its influence to the countries south of us.

He cited several instances where organizations similar in scope to Rho Nu Delta have played an important part in formulating a policy of goodwill and better understanding between English-American and Latin-American students and citizens. Dr. Sherman ended by saying that under proper leadership he foresees the nucleus here of an organization that may some day wield a powerful influence in encouraging foreign students to come to the Tampa campus.

D. Valenti Giunta, Tampa president, spoke on the objectives of the fraternity, and after reviewing a retrospect of the organization, gave a prospectus of what they hope to accomplish during the coming year.

Oswald Delgado, secretary, acted as master-of-ceremonies. Among those present were Braulio Alonso, Teobaldo Zaccchini, Dale Petersen, R. Paniello, Severino LaFuerde, D. Fernandez, Jack Alvarez, Aurelio Prado, Alvaro Breijo, and others. Immediately preceding the Homecoming game, the alumni of the fraternity will give a supper for the present members.

Delta Kappa Gives Two Rushing Parties

Delta Kappa sorority entertained recently at two rushing parties. The first, given Oct. 7, was held at Lake Ellen. Rushees, members and their dates met at the university and went to the lake together.

Swimming and rowing were enjoyed, after which a picnic supper was served. An old-fashioned songfest was held to the accompaniment of Al Yorkunas and "Maybelle." Chaperones were Coach and Mrs. Nash Higgins, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baldwin.

Rushees were entertained last Thursday night with a theater party given at the Tampa theater. After the show, guests went to the home of Mrs. Higgins, on Davis Islands. Refreshments were served at a late hour. Bids were then extended the following morning to 24 rushees. Mrs. Higgins and Mrs. Walter Connolly were chaperones for the party.
