

Despite McLuhan's well-taken point about our non-reading generation, the sometimes fantastical, sometimes highly serious world of children's literature is still very much alive. Pictured is Editor Suzanne Nelson's son Michael engrossed in one of the many charming children's books on exhibit now at UT's Merl Kelce Library. The exhibit, which will run through mid-October, is the first of this year's series, and features children's books from the 1400's through 1974. Some of the old classics include a replica of a 1550 hornbook, John Caldecott's famed "John Gilpin," and Fox's "Book of Martyrs" (1587).

the gay nineties: homecoming '74
november 22, 23, 24

Homecoming Chairman Marvin Scott is planning a spectacular weekend for you November 22-24. You will have plenty of free time, but several activities have been planned which no one will want to miss.

The Alumni Leadership Breakfast, new to Homecoming Weekend, will feature President Owens. Special recognition to the reunion classes of '39, '43, '49, '53, '59, '63, and '69 will be given, in addition to Outstanding Alumni and Faculty Awards.

You will have a chance to meet and talk with Coach Fryzel, see the dynamic Spartans with All-American candidate Freddie Solomon in action against Southern Mississippi, play golf or tennis, or just lounge by the pool.

Headquarters for Homecoming '74 will be the elegant Holiday Inn on Cypress Street. Spacious rooms and a congenial atmosphere will make your weekend one to remember.

We've made it easy to register! Just return the registration form on the back page, together with your check, to the Alumni Office, and we will set aside the best available tickets for you.

Alumni Loyalty Fund Chairman, Alvin Yorkunas ('39) has announced a record $60,000 goal for the 1974 drive. "Based upon our previous track record, I feel very confident we will exceed our goal," said Yorkunas. "Naturally it will take the collective effort of all alumni, but in light of the tremendous progress achieved under President Owens, I see nothing but a bright future and growing reputation for our alma mater through your continued support."

Initial reports by Special Gifts Chairman Richard Swirbul ('60) are most pleasing. The teams are concentrating on the personal solicitation of alumni for membership in The Minaret Society and the Century Club. The prestigious Minaret Society recognizes annual support of $1,000 or more, and the Century Club for alumni giving $100-$999 annually. Last year 14 alumni were Minaret Society members and 92 were Century Club members. "It will be our goal this year to substantially increase our members at both of these levels," Swirbul told his team.

A nationwide Telephone Campaign will begin September 30. Many alumni have already volunteered to man the phones during the three-week campaign. "Several thousand were called last year," Yorkunas said, "but we want to reach everyone in 1974 to help assure another successful year and the continued forward march of the University."

New captain, new shipmates... Some changes on the UT Board of Trustees have taken place since your last news issue. Harris H. Mullen, founder and president of Trend Publications, is now chairman of the Board. A native Tampan, Mullen is well-known as a journalist and active citizen.

Another distinguished Tampan, Herbert G. McKay, vice president of Reynolds Securities, Inc., has been appointed to the Board of Trustees.

A host of new UT Fellows and Counselors have also come aboard. New Fellows include: Charles W. Birdsong, Troy A. Brown, Jr., W. Scott Christopher, Jules C. Dervaes, William B. Faber, Harry A. MacEwen, Admiral R. Brevard Moore, Ret., Kenneth G. Olson, General Bruce Palmer, Ret., Al Perry, David Polus, Dow Sherwood, Gilbert Turner, Jr., James E. Wall and G. Pierce Wood.

New Counselors are: W. DeHart Ayala, Jr., Gerald Bobier, Rodney A. DeHaan, Louis (Ted) de la Vergne, Robert J. Gonzales, Robert P. Hare IV, Wiley Hazel, Robert L. Hudson, Frederick B. Matthews, James R.

Menard, Charles E. Mendez, Jr., Frank L. Morsani, Mark J. O'Brien, Robert M. Olson, Saul L. Rachelson, Donald L. Regar, Marvin H. Scott, Jr., Stephen D. Sears, and Richard C. Swirbul.

One of the biggest annual events of the fall—Parents Weekend—will be held October 11, 12 and 13. Highlights of the weekend include campus tours, President's Luncheon and a special film on Friday; and the "Fabulous UT Brunch," Parents Association Meeting, and the Spartan-Villanova football game on Saturday. Parents will also have plenty of free time to enjoy Florida weather and hospitality. Over 400 parents from California to Massachusetts have already registered, and a record turnout is expected.

Optional tours of famous Busch Gardens and Disney World will be available. Consultations with professors as well as the chance to "go back to the classroom" are also important items on the agenda.

Although the word "Watergate" now evokes less agitated responses, the subject is still very much alive to reporters and political analysts. UT's Lecture Series opened this fall on September 10 with a seminar and lecture by Les Whitten, known well in Washington political and journalistic circles.

Whitten's life reads almost like some of the novels he has written—it is filled with political intrigue, diving for buried CIA treasure, and provocative journalistic triumphs. The most recent of these triumphs involve Watergate and the Ellsberg break-in.

Of matadors, Mateuse and Madrid... The 15-day Alumni Association charter trip to Spain was a success, to put it humbly. Response from alumni, parents and friends to this second charter trip was contagiously enthusiastic.

One hundred and sixty-eight eager travelers departed Tampa International for the two-week Spain tour. Madrid, Seville and Torremolinos (on the azure Mediterranean) were major stops, but special trips to Granada, Toledo, and Tangiers (north Africa) were also popular.

We wish to thank all who went to Spain for their encouragement in planning next year's trip. It looks like all 168 are ready to sign up again, so plan to join them next summer. The Orient, Italy or Alaska are on the list of possible places. Watch the next Muezzin issue for more definite plans.

the way we were

as we are

September. For the class of '78, a month of beginnings, choices, introductions, new faces and experiences. For the class of '63, or '47, or even '73, a month of taking stock, bitter-sweet reminiscence, the tolerant laughter at oneself that comes with passage of time.

The lighter side of nostalgia is evoked by juxtaposing "then" with "now," as in the photographs below. As you will see, appearances change, even in a few years. Pony tails are now "out" for women but "in" for men. There is a sense of loosening up—hair, clothes, study habits. Even inner posturings seem more free. Encounter groups have replaced formal welcomes, activities are less structured.

then

Yet, as always, surface changes mask continuity. The continuity of laughter, romance, the yearning for knowledge, the self-conscious role of being an apprentice to the larger world that waits outside.

the arts: a viable alternative

A successful marriage between the fine arts and business has occurred at the University. The Arts Management program, now available as an undergraduate major, offers fine arts students professional alternatives which combine their love for music, art or drama with tough-minded, practical business opportunities.

Speaking specifics, careers could involve museum, art gallery, theatre or concert management; administration of cultural centers, or television production.

In this much-needed educational alternative, majors combine classroom pedagogy with on-the-job internship training. Of the 11 students already in the new program, five are interning in the area. Two are working at the Tampa Bay Art Center, two in the UT Development and Public Relations office, and one with the Ensemble Theatre.

Vice President of Development Dr. Robert B. Gronlund shows coveted Silver Anvil Award to interns John McKenna and Bert Henderson, who will be learning both the business and the creative aspects of public relations during their internship in the Development Office.

"Because of his efforts in upgrading the University of Tampa and its facilities," UT President B. D. Owens was awarded the Sertoma Club's coveted "Service to Mankind" Award for 1974. Dr. Owens is pictured with (left to right) Larry Walters, retiring club president; Ronald Norkas, a club director and part-time UT student; and Lt. Al Ford, the first award recipient.

Our society has long been intrigued with the "darker side" of human nature, and with the eternal struggle between forces of Good and Evil. Who of us hasn't felt the intrigue of murder mysteries, detective heroes, or witchcraft and exorcism?

The first two productions of the new Ensemble Theatre Company in residence at the University of Tampa appeal to this very human interest in all things mysterious.

"The Mousetrap," an Agatha Christie murder mystery, opened the company's season on September 12 in fine hair-raising style. Director Richard Lake, the new executive administrator of the Ensemble Theatre, approached the play from both a comic and a psychological aspect. Pointing out a truism about human nature, Lake said "we laugh at things that are tragic"—e.g., murder. The play also, according to Lake, dramatizes the variance in each character's response to the same stress situation—in this case, being trapped in a group which includes a murderer about to strike.

A new look at witchcraft and exorcism, once a fanatical preoccupation of our Puritan ancestors, is the subject of the company's second production: "Bell, Book and Candle." The play is scheduled to open October 31, 8:30 p.m., in Falk Theatre.

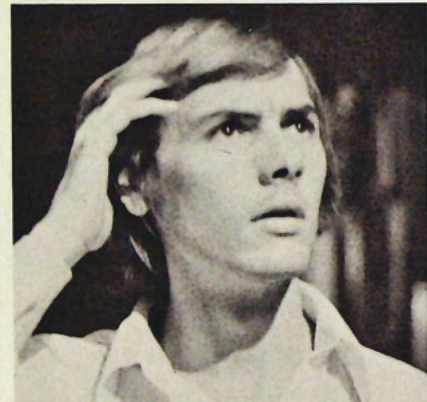

Scene from "The Mousetrap"

The Ensemble Theatre is an independent company, working in the Falk Theatre facilities donated by UT. Reciprocally, UT students can attend performances free of charge, and University personnel enjoy reduced rates. The company also encourages participation of students and staff, either as troupe members or crew. If a good start portends things to come, this resident theatre will eventually fulfill Richard Lake's vision for it. The Ensemble Theatre of the future, as Lake sees it, will be a regular repertoire theatre financed through endowment funds, with salaried designers, technicians, and professional acting troupe.

Casting at the present is handled through auditions, with a resulting mix of experienced and novice actors and actresses. Lake finds this refreshing. The challenge is to take on fledgling actors/actresses and train them to eventually act professionally.

For alumni in the area who crave live theatre, following is a schedule of the Ensemble Theatre season. Curtain time: 8 p.m.; Wednesday matinees: 2 p.m. Place: Falk Theatre.

Bell, Book and Candle: October 31-November 2; November 7-9, 6 (matinee)
 Peter Pan: January 9-11, 16-18, 15 (matinee)
 Hayfever: February 20-22, 27-March 1, 9 (matinee)
 Godspell: May 15-17, 22-24, 21 (matinee)

alumni are invited to "sally back and forth"

Homecoming music activities will include a rather pleasant package of a champagne brunch and a light-hearted chamber opera. The concert performance of "Sally Back and Forth" is informatively subtitled "Homecoming Musical Salute to Professor Stephen Park, Dana Professor of Music, by Alumni Jack and Sally Jenkins."

The mood will be set by the champagne music brunch, November 23, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. The setting will be the home of Prof. Richard Rodean, where former music students, friends of Prof. Park and faculty will gather. Hostesses will be the Sisters of Tau Beta Sigma, the national honorary band sorority.

The 2 p.m. opera will be performed in Falk Theatre, free of charge, and open to anyone who is interested in an hour of musical delights.

Jack and Sally review score with composer Stephen Park

"Sally Back and Forth" was written by Professor Park for Jack and Sally Jenkins when they were students at UT. Sets for the opera will be constructed by members of the art faculty, with stage direction by Ensemble Theatre Director Richard Lake.

As an added attraction, the Jenkins team—two of UT's most famous alumni—will conclude the program with a performance of their recent college tour program.

The MBA program now boasts its first graduate: Richard C. Kjellsen, a former army Captain & Viet vet, who finished his degree in record time. An important testimonial to the program, and to Kjellsen, is that the new grad has already landed a job with IBM. Kjellsen is seen receiving his diploma from President B. D. Owens, while Kjellsen's wife Carol looks on.

no, they're not a gymnastics team!

Musical flashbacks to Broadway's "Fiddler on the Roof" and "Oklahoma!" will be featured at the November 19 concert by UT's Show Chorus. This lively group, pictured during a rehearsal, combine the best of song and dance from popular musicals. Each number is staged as if it were taken from the original show. The Show Chorus, directed by Prof. Malcolm Westly and choreographed by Mary Ann McCulloch, has built up quite a reputable list of performances in the area, having played to civic groups, churches, banquets, benefits, and conventions. The November concert will be presented at 8:15 p.m. in the Dome Room without charge.

After the trying times of registration and settling in, some of UT's 1,980-plus students still found some energy left to expend in the Rathskeller. This fall's enrollment exceeds the pre-school projection, despite the fact that the University is feeling the shrinking pains that have hit almost every college in the nation. The spirit among the new freshmen and the returning students more than makes up for the somewhat lower population count.
