

Dirty Girty, Activities Chairman of the Iguana Psychics, leads the pack to the Registration desk of Plant Hotel.

The Iguana Psychics invade Plant Hotel for spring vacation

The Iguana Psychics, a local non-profit cycle club, were allegedly reported to have been parked in Plant Lobby looking for the Registration Desk.

The group complained that they had confirmed reservations for Room 100.

According to Dirty Girty, activities chairman, the Iguana Psychics arrived in Tampa late Wednesday night in Plant Park and were directed by security to Plant Hotel where they plan to spend their Easter vacation.

Mario Muscles, chaplain of the group, explained that while the group were here, they hope to obtain an appointment with Mr. Miller, Dean of Admissions, regarding possible admittance in the fall.

F. B. I. investigates R. O. T. C. on campus

The F.B.I. received word via the Underground news network that U.T. students are planning an all out effort to wipe out R.O.T.C.

Undercover F. B. I. agents have been secretly gathering on campus for the past week. Plans are being made to set up a system of electronic listeners during vacation but a few bugs still have to be worked out.

A special meeting is being planned by the F.B.I. for April vacation. Mr. Raid, head of the Fatal Bug Investigation, expects the "Roaches On The Campus" will be wiped out by the time students return from April vacation.

Chemistry department busted on drug charges

After a long search through Plant Hall, officials found what is believed to be the largest supply of acid found on any campus. The search which included every room and closet in Plant Hall finally ended in success for officials when the acid was discovered in the chemistry lab. No action was taken against the University.

Spartans to build new space center

Fisher S. Black, Chairman of the Board of Trustees at the University of Tampa, announced plans today for construction of the new space center, to be located adjacent to the infirmary. This will credit the University of Tampa with having the first Spaced-Out Center in the nation.

The center will be on an experimental basis. Its main function will be to suspend classes in space and to provide floating teachers and administrators with a home base.

Little information pertaining to this project is available to date, but according to Black, "This school has finally taken appropriate measures toward establishing facilities to accommodate our spaced-out institution.

The construction is scheduled to be completed by April 1, 2001 — Space Obviously.

Free Radicals Chemistry Club is recognized by administration

After reviewing the application, constitution and statement of sponsors, the committee voted recognition to the Free Radicals Chemistry Club with the proviso that the organization be listed in University publications only as the "Chemistry Club". "Free radicals", according to spokesmen for the group, pertains to certain short-lived molecular fragments and will be used only to identify the local organization. Fourteen chemistry students have organized this group under the sponsorship of the Chemistry Department.

Minaret's stand supported by Greek leader

by Jeff Onore

The great cry raised by members of the Greek community over the eventual disappearance of the Fraternally Yours column seems to originate from where the problem started. The organizations using their column to print cheap gossip or the organizations missing deadlines have no right to mourn the columns dismissal. Probably Greeks will protest this action taken by the Minaret but all that was asked is that these organizations write newsworthy organizational information and not bull-shit.

THETA CHI

Plans for our annual Spring Weekend are being formulated with chairman Pete Cresta at the organizational helm.

Theta Chi has recently recaptured first place in intramurals with an outstanding basketball season.

At Greek Weekend Theta Chi won the chariot race and the tug-of-war. Congratulations to Ted Papps and I.F.C. for an excellent job.

International Club holds festival

Victor Velez, chairman of the Pan-American Day committee, has announced that the International Club will sponsor Pan-American Day on April 17 at 9 pm in the Student Union.

The purpose of Pan-American Day, according to Jose Vengoechea, president of the International Club, is to commemorate the founding of the Pan-American Organization. The Organization includes countries from Canada to Chile.

All students and faculty are invited to attend the festivities which include a dance and refreshments. Honor guests will include Mayor Greco, Dr. and Mrs. Delo, Mr. Allison, Mr. Sliz, Deans West, Johns, and Benton, and representatives from the Pan-American Organization.

Students are invited to attend the International Club's meetings held every Tuesday.

Independents win first College Bowl round

by Barry Lydon

The Independents led by Sam Gellerstedt, Dave Heflin, Mike Stucky, and Ann Superchi completely dominated the first round of The Student Union Program Council's College Bowl held on Friday, March 26 in the Student Union.

The Independents posted a 180 to 40 score over the Alpha Chi Honor Society.

Theta Chi also scored an impressive win over TKE by a score of 165 to 20. Tony Gaudio, Dan Boone, John Barkhardt, and Bart Trauaglia led the Theta Chi team.

The next match will be held after vacation.

Overall winners will receive a trophy and a plaque. The Plaque will hang in the Student Union.

New hope for addicts

"Addiction in a broad sense, by which I mean a harmful dependence on chemicals, is one of our most urgent contemporary health problems. When this dependence is extensive enough to be harmful and strong enough to be uncontrolled, it can eventually destroy all other interests and activities—family, business, social, or community," writes Dr. R. Gordon Bell in the preface of his new book Escape from Addiction (McGraw-Hill, $5.95).

After 24 years of experience working with the problem of addiction, Dr. Bell is optimistic. He states: "By calling this book Escape from Addiction, I am trying to emphasize that there is hope for recovery and that the days of stigma-laden labels for chemical dependence of whatever kind are being left behind."

The author is the president of the Donwood Institute which operates a 50-bed hospital for addiction treatment, education, and research in Toronto, Canada. Much of the material in this authoritative, 224-page book is based on the comprehensive program of rehabilitation and treatment presently used by the institute.

This provocative study provides full coverage on the effects of alcohol, as well as a review of the effects of narcotics and other addicting drugs. It investigates the clinical and social problems of addiction, giving equal attention to the physical, mental, and social components. Escape from Addiction will prove a valuable, thought-provoking aid for anyone concerned with the health and social questions resulting from the excessive or compulsive use of alcohol, tobacco, food, and a wide assortment of depressant and stimulant drugs.

Dr. R. Gordon Bell, in addition to being president of the Donwood Institute, is Special Lecturer to the Faculty of Medicine, University of Toronto. He is a member of the Professional Advisory Board, Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research Foundation of Toronto. He also acts as consultant to the Department of Corrections for Ontario and to the American Association Against Addiction. He has been featured in four educational films on Chemical addiction.

Chet Atkins festival is scheduled

The second annual Chet Atkins Guitar Festival is scheduled for Knoxville, Tennessee this year. It is set for Friday and Saturday nights, June 4 and 5, beginning at 8:30 o'clock at the Civic Coliseum.

The Guitar Festival was at Nashville in 1970, but is being shifted to Knoxville, "because of its sponsor's heritage." Chet Atkins, a native of Luttrell, Tennessee, spent many years during his early career in Knoxville.

Chartered in April of 1970, the Chet Atkins Guitar Festival is a non-profit organization designed to assist young aspiring guitarists in furthering their education and careers.

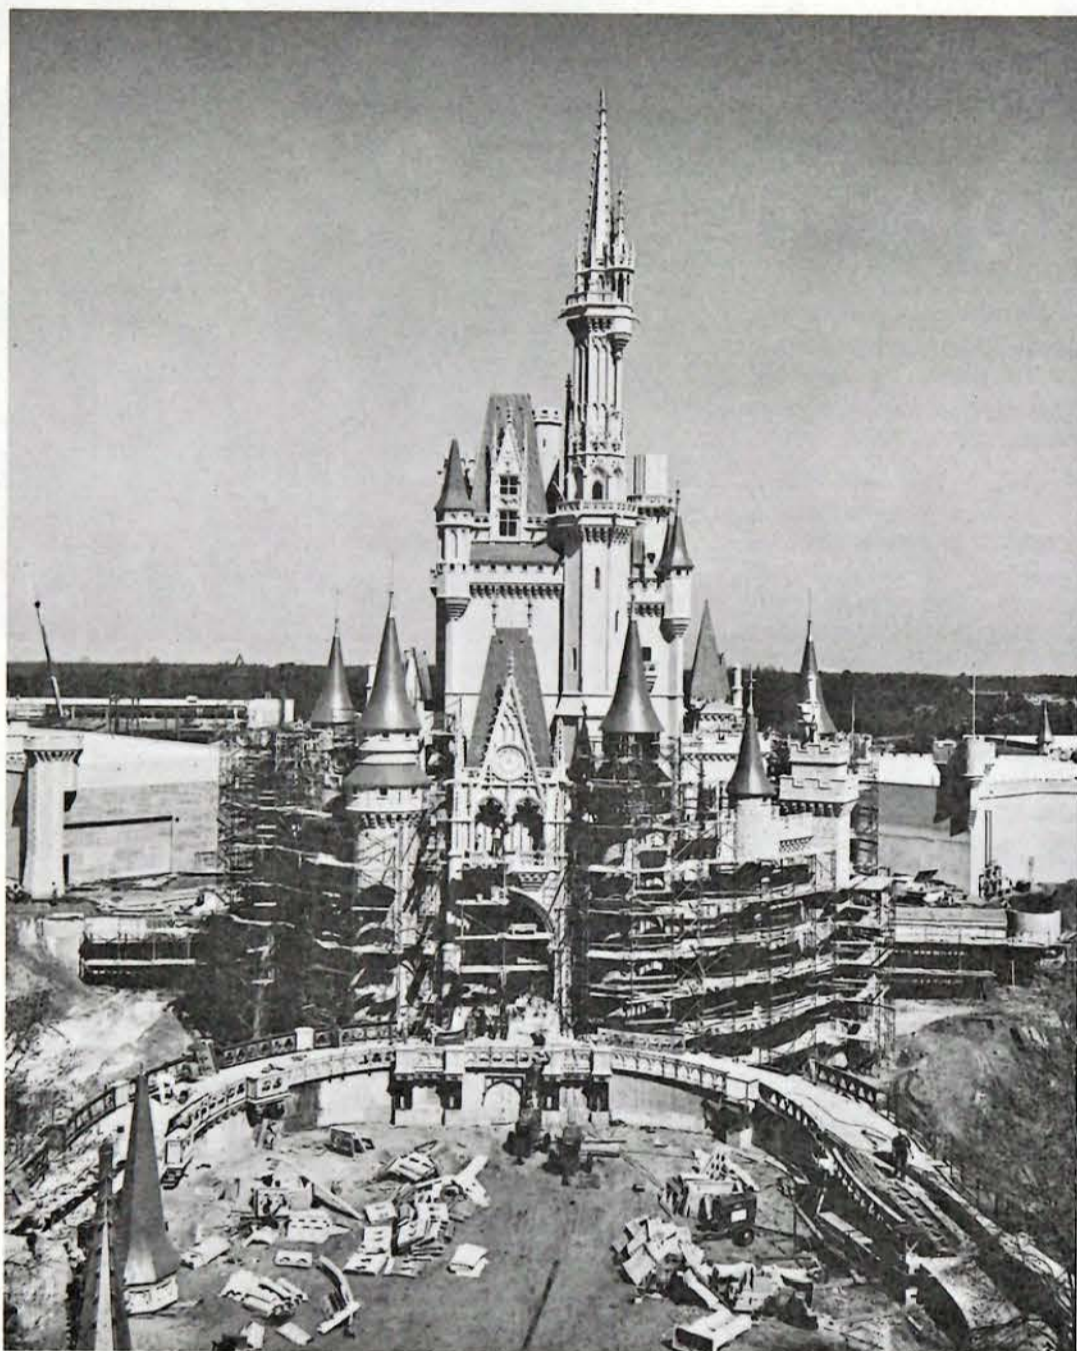

Stage shows will be presented nightly starring Roy Clark, Lynn Anderson, Homer and Jethro, Jimmy Dean, Grandpa Jones, George "Goober" Lindsley, Dottie West and Albert Coleman's Music City Orchestra with cameo appearances of the guitar contestants. And, of course, Mr. Guitar . . . Chet Atkins.

Competition is confined to the electric and classical guitars and is open to all guitarists between the ages of 14 and 23 years. More than 300 from throughout the U.S.A. and foreign countries competed in last year's Chet Atkins Guitar Festival.

Prizes in each category are $1,000 for first place, $500 for second and $250 for third. In addition, each first place winner will receive a guitar compliments of two well known guitar manufacturers.

Semi-final judging to determine the finalists is scheduled for Thursday, June 3rd, and the Preliminary Competition, which closes May 1st, will be by audition tape.

Entry blanks may be obtained at any Gretsch dealer or by writing the Chet Atkins Guitar Festival, 1516 16th Avenue, South, Nashville, Tennessee 37212.

CINDERELLA'S CASTLE — The 180-foot high golden spire of Cinderella's Castle in Central Florida's Walt Disney World, is the focal point of the new Magic Kingdom theme park opening in October. The vast family-oriented vacation complex will be complete with luxury hotels, 650 acres of lake and lagoon and 4-1/2 miles of white sand beaches. The castle forms the entrance to Fantasyland, one of six separate lands in the Magic Kingdom. (Copyright WALT DISNEY PRODUCTIONS)

WITH Nancy

The philosophical reasoning behind Walt Disney's World in Orlando is to offer the average American family a unique experience, totally in the Disney frame of reference, with all the qualities of his standards.

Walt Disney World's vacation resort is scheduled to open in October, 1971, with an expected one million visitors to pass through its Magic Kingdom before the year is out.

Sue Huff, associate editor of the "Minaret" and myself, were invited to the First annual Press Day, March 27, and experienced the wonderful "Disney Dream" transform into a reality.

Although the main emphasis was to introduce student editors to employment possibilities, the Disney people gave the 40 - odd university and high school representatives a thorough preview of the $300-million entertainment complex that will be the world's First Vacation Kingdom.

We were given the "royal" treatment by public relations and employee relations personnel, beginning with lunch at the Ramada Inn, a trip to the World Preview Center where we were given a colorful introduction to the project, and a guided bus tour of the busy construction sight. We wound up with a lengthy, very informative press conference back at the hotel.

Every aspect of the project was covered in depth, including ecological and pollution problems which they have encountered.

According to Emory Allen, Employee Relations, "We will have the vast majority of the eastern population as our audience, and our long range aim is to solve the great urban problems of America by setting the 'stage' for the world."

The entertainment-recreation "stage" will primarily be set by high school graduates and college students.

"Every person who works 'on stage', such as sales clerks in the Theme Park, and 'backstage', such as maintenance crews, will be specially costumed — "themed", according to Allen. Even the role of keeping the streets clean is "themed".

"We are looking for applicants who will fit into the overall "Disney image" said Jim Passilla, director of Employee Relations. We often hear people refer to the (Continued on Page 8)

The "Rapper" is a communications line

Communication . . . how do we handle it? The purpose of communication is to create an incoming and outgoing flow of thoughts. to accomplish this the communications committee has set up a bulletin board, "The Rapper," which has been extremely successful as far as students and faculty expressing their thoughts. Now, we have encountered our first problem. The student body is supposed to be at an age of maturity and reasoning, whereby constructive criticism can be given without the use of profanity and slander of names. We may not agree with the actions or policies of some people in the university but that leaves us no cause to disregard their feelings as human beings. The purpose of "The Rapper" is to express our opinions but we should treat it with more tact and less childish revenge. Besides this one incident, the board has been quite successful. People have been expressing their opinions and thoughts from poetry form all the way down to a one sentence thought. So far the board seems to be building up a common interest among the students and faculty which is one step closer to accomplishing one of the main problems on campus, "Communication."

If anyone is interested in helping with the communications committee, it meets on Mondays at 12:15 and Thursdays at 4:00 in the student government office.

"The Gear Shop," "Now Shop" open

The new look, free and untailored, is the theme of Mass Brothers two new shops for men, The Gear Shop and The Now Shop.

Featuring jeans and jackets, body shirts and flares, and of course "hot pants" in a variety of solids, stripes, prints, and plaids, The Now Shop and Gear Shop stay right in line with the fashions of today's students and young executives.

According to Burt Kurlan, sales manager for Mass Brothers downtown store, the new shops, formulated to accommodate today's fashion conscience male, will soon carry a complete line of knit suits and sport jackets in addition to the present stock.

Located on the ground floor of Mass Brothers downtown store, The Now Shop, decorated with a silver and black design on rich blue walls, radiates the mod sophistication of the contemporary dresser, while its neighbor, The Gear Shop, with its red, yellow, and green striped walls, reflects a somewhat younger version of the same.

Size is the main difference between the two shops. The Gear Shop handles clothing up to a size 36 for the lean younger man, while The Now Shop handles larger sizes for the male counterpart who enjoys the contemporary look but isn't quite able to wear it.

After visiting Mass Brothers newest shops, the "Now Shop" and the "Gear Shop," these two Spartan swingers are ready to do the town. All decked out for a night out are (L-R) Ted Papps and Fletcher Carr.

"The Box"

by Kendrew Lascelles

Once upon a time in the land of hush-a-bye,
Around about the wondrous days of yore,
They came across a sort of box
Bound up with chains and locked with locks
And labeled 'Kindly do not touch, it's war.'

A decree was issued round about —
All with a flourish and a shout
Tripping lightly on before —
'Don't fiddle with this deadly box
Or break the chains or pick the locks
And please don't ever mess about with war.'

Well the children understood,
Children happen to be good
And were just as good around the time of yore,
They didn't try to pick the locks
Or break into that deadly box
And never tried to play about with war.

Mommies didn't either,
Sisters, Aunts, nor Grannies Neither
'Cos they were quiet and sweet and pretty
In those wondrous days of yore,
Well very much the same as now
And not the ones to blame somehow
For opening up that deadly box of war,
But someone did,

Someone battered in the lid
And spilled the insides out across the floor,
A sort of bouncy bumpy ball
Made up of flags and guns and all
The tears and horror and the death
That goes with war.

It bounced right out
And went bashing all about
And bumping into everything in store
And what was sad and most unfair
Was that it didn't really seem to care
Much who it bumped, or why,
Or what, or for.

It bumped the children mainly,
And I'll tell you this quite plainly,
It bumps them everyday and more and more
And leaves them dead and burned and dying,
Thousands of them sick and crying,
'Cos when it bumps it's very very sore.

There is a way to stop the ball,
It isn't very hard at all,
All it takes is wisdom
And I'm absolutely sure
We could get it back into the box
And bind the chains and lock the locks
But no one seems to want to save the children anymore.

Well that's the way it all appears
'Cos it's been bouncing round for years and years
In spite of all the wisdom wizzed
Since those wondrous days of yore,
And the time they came across that box
Bound up with chains and locked with locks
And labeled, 'Kindly do not touch, it's war.'

Serling speaks on all subjects

by Chis Kalm

Breaking the ice by saying that the last time he was in a theatre like Falk, John Wilkes Booth killed Lincoln, Rod Serling, tanned and smiling, launched into a fast paced discussion of movies, television, the "Generation Gap", morality and politics.

A six-time Emmy winner, gaining an equally impressive reputation as a speaker, Serling stated that "Anyone who speaks on a college campus today had better shed any neurotic desires for popularity."

But Wednesday morning the only thing which threatened Mr. Serling's presentation was thunderous applause.

Speaking of movies, Serling confessed that he is addicted to the nostalgia of late night movies.

"Although my daughters led me to believe that Easy Rider possessed a shade less social significance than the Constitution, I must admit that after seeing the movie I was left with the irrevocable feeling that Peter Fonda and Dennis Hopper should get out of movies and open a Honda agency."

Yet he feels that there is a renaissance taking place in the movie industry. "There is a new maturity and sophistication present," said Serling.

Going on to discuss the "Generation Gap", Serling mourned the fact that there are no villains in this American Tragedy.

"Today's youth is honorable in their intolerance for the sham and sentimentality which my generation grew up believing was patriotism," said Serling.

Serling met with an ovation when he said that no matter how "morally" a man might live, if he once said nigger, he no longer considered him a moral man.

Reminding the audience that what he expressed were his personal and subjective opinions, Serling summarized Vice President Agnew, Attorney General Mitchel and his wife Martha as "three mouths in search of a brain."

Continuing in the political vein, Mr. Serling voiced his opinion that the Vietnam War defies logic.

"How can it be said that we must not withdraw because there will be a blood bath, when 45,000 are dead already?" queried Serling.

In concluding his lecture, Serling made a plea for all men to make use of their common ground, humanity.

New love story hits movie screen

"Wuthering Heights," a great classic of literature by Emily Bronte, has come to the movie screen again in an all new version by American International Pictures. The only criticism of it is that it doesn't follow Bronte's famous book.

The movie is a deeply emotional story which is a rarity in film making today. Even in its revised version, Heathcliff's strong infatuation for Cathy and his severe hatred for Hindley are easily felt.

Compared to "Love Story," the latest rage on campus, "Wuthering Heights" is far more superior in plot, style and artistic filmmaking. It combines the rolling Yorkshire countryside with the deep emotional feelings of the characters.

"Wuthering Heights" is a movie well worth seeing.

Love's in the Air

by Rick Mitz

The Me Everybody Knows

Rick Mitz is a cross between Peter Pan, Lassie, The Wizard of Oz, Sherlock Holmes, Sancho Panza, and you.

He is full of contradicting anxieties and nervous confusion. During the course of our interview, which lasted more than 21 years, he talked about everything from his college career ("I've majored in everything from journalism, English and humanities to nothing."), his writing experiences ("I'm really very talented, but I can't write."), his personal life ("None of your business.") to his reluctance to be interviewed ("I normally don't let anyone interview me -- that's my game -- but you look like an honest guy.")

Rick, a senior at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis, comes from what he terms "a sickeningly affluent suburb" in Milwaukee. He came to Minnesota "because it seemed like the logical place to go after Milwaukee." And where will he go next? "I dunno. Back to Milwaukee."

"I get bored very quickly -- with the same apartment, with the same job, with the same me. I tried to change things a lot so I wouldn't get tired of things. One day I'd wear a black suit and tie -- like the day Bert Lahr died -- and another day I'd wear one of my Salvation Army outfits. I change my underwear at least five times a day. I get bored with everything fast," he said, yawning.

"I don't know how to write," he replies when asked how he manages, one a week, to turn out columns -- sometimes funny, sometimes touching, sometimes good, sometimes bad -- that are published in collegiate newspapers all over the country.

"I mean -- well, I get an idea and then I let it sit there in my head for a while -- anywhere from an hour to, to forever. And then just before the deadline I try to write it and usually can't, but I do anyway. Or I don't."

"Hey -- why are you asking me all these questions? Are you from the CIA or something? Who are you?"

Rick describes himself as the "typical-normal-average-token-student."

"I please everyone," Rick says. "My hair's just the right length. My grades are okay. I'm fairly productive. I look kind of clean cut, and yet manage to look acceptably scruffy. I use deodorant, mouthwash, all the leading brands -- the whole bit. I'm peripheral -- I fit into all groups, and yet really don't fit in any. Adults like me. Little kids like me. Radicals think I'm "Right On," conservatives think I'm okay, old ladies think I'm cute, policemen think I'm a credit. Everyone likes me."

"I don't like you," I told him, "if that makes any difference."

He smiled and looked at me. "Listen," he said. "I write this column, see. And you seem like a pretty interesting guy, you know? Maybe I could interview you some time for the column. What do you say?"

"Sure. Yeah," I told him. "That would be okay."

"Great. Listen -- I gotta run," he said, writing something on a slip of paper. "Gotta run downtown and buy a tennis sweater. Here's my phone number -- call me sometime and we'll arrange something." And then he scooted off.

I looked down at the piece of paper. On it was a phone number -- my phone number. I looked off in the distance and watched him run after a bus marked "Downtown", his short legs flying as he ran, his hair -- just the Right Length -- blowing in the wind.

I kind of like him. He reminds me a lot of me.

First security director named

by Larry Lydon

Mr. Medwick Chandler, former N. Y. State Trooper, has been appointed as the University of Tampa's first Campus Security Director. This is the first time in the University's 40 year history that it has had its own security director.

Chandler, father of five and a college student himself, hopes in the near future to form his own security force.

Although Chandler has been employed for only 3 weeks, he has already discovered some problem areas. He is presently in the process of formulating ideas to help solve present security deficiencies.

Chandler has stressed that the greatest protection could come from the students themselves; recently a youth who was trying to sell a stolen stereo set was apprehended by T.U. students. The youth is being held by Tampa Police for burglary. Chandler states that the number of thefts in the dorms could be drastically reduced if students would only lock doors and report any suspicious youths in the dorms.

Another problem which hinders security is the fact that students are reluctant to turn in fellow students who steal in the dorms. However, Chandler points out that the majority of thefts are performed by professionals of college age who linger around the dorms and act like students while they are casing the dormitory for open doors.

Students are advised to give the security department the serial numbers on stereos and other valuables; this will aid in tracking down stolen articles.

Chandler stressed the point that in order to have a good protection service for the students, their cooperation is necessary and that they should report any suspicious persons on campus to the security office at once.

Mr. Medwick Chandler, the Univ. of Tampa's New Campus Security Director.

More gridiron stars signed by Fulcher

The University of Tampa added another to its football clan Tuesday, as Head Coach Bill Fulcher announced the signing of Bob Cooper.

Cooper joins a list of 15 players that have signed football scholarships with the Spartans to date.

A native of Atlanta, Georgia, Cooper played freshman football for Georgia Tech in 1970. The 6-2, 175 pound ace kicker broke the Georgia state record three times with field goals of 45, 48, and 49 yards.

"We are pleased to have Bob with us," said Fulcher. "With our fine kicker Jesse Soper graduating, Bob will certainly help us in the coming seasons."

Signed previously, are running back Jim Rackley, defensive end Jeff Otto, linebacker Don Brogley, and tackle Ray Poteet, all from Jacksonville.

Also signed are tackles Scott Riley of Largo, Ron Spoerlein of Lakeland, and Tim Fitzgerald of Stone Mountain, Georgia.

Other signees include Tampa guard, Adrian Cuesta, end Vin Hoover of Corbin, Kentucky, running back Frank Pitts of Tarpon Springs and end Nehenia Small also from Tarpon Springs.

Alan Pittman, a wide receiver from Largo, Tom Aerts, a linebacker from St. Petersburg, linebacker Ron Certain of Brooksville, and Brad Buky, a linebacker from Avondale Estates, Georgia, round out the list.

This 'n That

Congratulations to Pat Biber, Tampa's Little All-America forward, who was drafted in the 20th round by the ABA's Floridians. The Floridians are a little weak at forward. Hopefully Pat can help them.

Hear that Chip Nelson is going to get a tryout with the Globetrotters! They say they need new blood because everyone is getting up in years. Chipper will be the first Florida man to ever make a Globetrotters team if he does make it.

Pro scout Red Hickey was here the other day looking at Leon McQuay. Leon jetted 40 yards on one shot and Hickey was astonished at Leon's quickness. He runs the 40 in full gear in 4.3! You're not supposed to run that fast really. If Leon doesn't go in the first round in the football draft, then something is wrong somewhere.

I see where ex-coach Fran Curci is turning tail on the Spartans like every other football coach in the South has done. Everybody around here figured we'd start a series with the Hurricanes in '72 or '73. Now Curci says he doesn't know when because they already have an 11th foe. The sports publicist at Miami says there is no 11th opponent scheduled as of yet, but North Carolina State is being worked on. Scared, Coach Curci, or is it that you know better than to schedule the Spartans.

I hope everybody read Coach Dan Sikes' article in the Times on March 25th. It was on the poor baseball program we have here. Its similar to my article of two issues ago. He is going to present the issue to the University of either have a good program with scholarships or drop baseball from the program next year. He wants 10 full scholarships which he expects to be turned down. It's disgusting. With the talent in this area, as Sikes says, we could be a power, but we're losing the talent to other schools. I hope the council approves the scholarships, but I doubt if they will.

Remember the spring game Friday, April 2nd. Let's go out and greet Coach Fulcher with a Tampa welcome of say, 15 or 20 thousand.

clean-cut, attractive, helpful, personable, well-groomed, enthusiastic men and women as 'Disney types'.

In mid-June Walt Disney World's Employment Department will begin interviewing applicants for the approximately 5,000 full-time jobs available in August and September. Preference will be given to Florida residents, and University of Tampa students are advised to contact the Guidance and Placement office at the University prior to filing applications.

Anyone wishing further information concerning a lifetime career or host and hostess positions should write Walt Disney World, P.O. Box 40, Orlando, Fla.

Kaplan is new sports info director

Appointment of David Kaplan, former sports information assistant at the University of Florida, as sports information director at the University of Tampa, was announced jointly today by UT Athletic Director Sam Bailey and Football Coach William Fulcher.

Kaplan, a 1970 graduate of the University of Florida, served two years as student assistant to Norm Carlson, SID at Florida, taking charge of publicity for freshman spring sports 1968-70.

Active in community affairs, Kaplan served as summer director of the Gainesville Junior Champ Track program, a competitive track event for boys and girls ages 8-13 sponsored by the City Recreation Department and the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

He was tournament director for the Gainesville City Junior Tennis Tournament and the Gainesville City Tennis Tournament the last three years.

Kaplan was a member of the prestigious Florida Blue Key, men's leadership fraternity at Florida.

Campus NEWS

Dr. Marlon L. Ellison, Professor of the Biology Department and one of the sponsors of the Alpha Chi National Honor Society, recently attended the Society's National Convention, held on March 19-20, at the Holiday Inn in Memphis, Tennessee. The theme of the Convention was "The Honor Student as Participant in Life."

Students are reminded that there is still a Dress Code. Students must wear shoes or sandals in all classes, Plant Hall, Library, Student Union and Falk. Also sleeveless shirts are not acceptable attire. Bathing suits are to be worn only at the pool.

The University will send 13 students to the National Leadership Training Conference in Tallahassee on April 2 thru 4. The purpose of the Conference is to develop leadership techniques. Students attending are: Donna Aller, Sue Scolnick, Candy Schloesser, Barry Lydon, Randy Gish, Alex Kassab, Peter Cicco, Gene Reboh, John Hyde, Jr., Mike Skaletsky, Scott Behre, and Barry King.
