President's Letter

Dear Alumni:

As most of you are aware, there have been many changes of great significance at the University of Tampa during the past year, among these the departure of President Owens and my appointment as the interim president. During this brief period as interim president, I have become more than ever convinced of the importance of the small, private institution in the American system of higher education.

The University of Tampa, its faculty, staff and board of trustees have made every effort to constantly improve the educational opportunities offered by this institution. We have significantly raised the high school grade point average for incoming freshmen over the past four years. We have also raised the professional level of our faculty. Today, over 75 percent of our faculty hold Ph.D.s, with the science and mathematics division boasting 100 percent membership in that exclusive academic club. We have added new courses at both the graduate and undergraduate level. Our division of education now offers graduate concentrations in elementary education, social science, english, industrial arts, educational administration and physical education. The university also offers the graduate degree in business administration, and the program has been exceptionally well received by the Tampa business community.

Our fall enrollment is expected to be approximately 1,700 undergraduate students, and we anticipate over 500 enrollees in our various graduate programs.

To serve this large, diversified student body, we have made every effort to upgrade the physical facilities of the institution. The main lobby in Plant Hall has been renovated and the Western Civilization corridor continues to grow as rooms are donated and decorated by various groups and individuals.

A major renovation has been underway in all dormitories to improve living conditions for all on campus students. To this end, we have purchased the College Inn and Denny's Restaurant property on the Hillsborough River and Kennedy Boulevard. With this acquisition, we should have adequate dormitory facilities to carry us into the 1980s.

To my mind, the future of the University of Tampa looks bright. Over the next few years, we will have a new president to continue the job of developing and building the University of Tampa.

To accomplish this, we need your support as alumni. The institution is as much yours as it is the current students. I ask each of you to become an active University of Tampa advocate, to encourage young people in your communities to continue their education at the University of Tampa. I hope you will support the university in its future endeavors by personal involvement as the university's sponsors and by your generous support of our annual fund drives.

Interim president Fred D. Learey

Our mission is to provide an excellent educational opportunity for all people from wherever they may come. I encourage each of you to assume the role of University of Tampa advocates and ask your support for the institution both now and in the future.

Sincerely,

Fred D. Learey
Interim President

Our name "The Muezzin" originated in the religion of Islam founded by the prophet Mohammed in the early centuries after Christ and practiced primarily in middle eastern countries. The muezzin is the official who proclaims the azan (call to public worship) to which the Muslims respond with set phrases. The summoning is performed by the voice of the muezzin as he stands at the door or at the side of a small mosque (temple) or in the minaret of a large one. Today the muezzin still sounds the call to worship, but in some modernized mosques his voice is placed upon electronic recordings which are amplified to echo the azan throughout the countryside. The University of Tampa "Muezzin" publication performs a similar function in that it broadcasts the call for higher education among its readers. The name was inspired by Plant Hall's 13 Moorish style minarets, gleaming above trees and buildings as a landmark of learning in the heart of the city of Tampa.

SPORTS

For Men's Crew, Life is but a Dream.

Victory did not look promising as the sun bore down on biceps moving in an easy cadence. Boats raced by, leaving in the distance the University of Tampa men's crew.

Coach Tom Feaster looks back on that April day in Philadelphia when a disciplined UT team finally took the lead in the last 500 meters of a 2,000-meter race to win the varsity four with coxswain competition of the Small College Championships at the Dad Vail Regatta.

"They rowed consistently 34 beats to a minute from the start and did not panic even though the other crews jumped out at the start because of a much higher cadence (strokes per minute)," Feaster said.

The team competed against 21 colleges and universities, ranging from the Coast Guard Academy to the University of Virginia.

The scent of victory was strengthened last March when UT's men's and women's crews captured first places in the varsity four with coxswain competition of the Small College Southern Regional Championships at Stone Mountain, Ga. The women's crew went on to place fourth in the national competition.

Feaster, who will coach both men's and women's crew this fall, offered thumbnail descriptions of team members who captured that elusive national championship in Philadelphia.

Harry Edenfield, a junior from Jacksonville and the crew's stroke: "He's 6-foot-3½, 195 pounds. He is big and strong with gigantic legs and thighs which are extremely important in rowing."

Nancy Williams, a junior from Potomac, Md., and the team's coxswain: "Being light is very important for the coxswain (who steers the boat). She is a little thing and weighs about 106."

Jeff Grimner, a 6-foot-2, 185-pound sophomore from Philadelphia: "He had never rowed until the fall of last year. He's a good weight-lifter and he runs well. He's got a good attitude, a competitor. He doesn't like to be beaten."

Kirk Logan, the sophomore team captain from Jacksonville and a member of 1975's undefeated freshman crew: "He shared a lot of my responsibilities. He developed himself so much in two years. By the Dad Vail Regatta, he was 175 pounds at 6-foot-2. He really built himself up by weightlifting."

Joe O'Neill, a freshman and former prep football player in Philadelphia: "He's tough, 6-foot-1 and 195 pounds. He never complains no matter how tough the training situations get. He would realize it was for his own good."

The crew returned to campus with the U.T. Bradley trophy, first awarded in 1969 in honor of a former Rollins College (Winter Park, Fla.) history professor who was unofficially designated the dean of Florida rowing. Until this year, out-of-state teams had won the trophy.

Feaster credits the team's size — four tall, strong rowers — with making the impossible possible: coming from last place to nose out the University of Minnesota by 1½ lengths at the finish line.

Physically, the team compared favorably with the competition.

Combined with the old intangible, a will-to-win, the recipe is a winner.

"Most coaches don't have crews that have the confidence they did. They weren't that quick off the start; they tried it in practice," Feaster said. "They found out they could gain over the other teams and, psychologically, they were astute enough to know they would have to come from behind."

Best size for rowers is 6-foot-4, 190 pounds. UT's team averaged 6-foot-2, 180 pounds, big enough to beat the odds.

Feaster said that with no rowers among the 1977 graduates, he is hoping the varsity four with coxswain will remain intact. Three of the five row and study with the aid of merit scholarships which stress both academic and athletic achievement.

The light fall crew schedule features the October Head of the Charles Regatta in Boston; Bottom of the Hillsborough Regatta in November; the Freshman Novice Regatta on Thanksgiving, Winter Park, and the Parent-Student Regatta during the October Parents' Weekend celebration at UT.

By spring the competition will accelerate. There will be more regattas. Important regattas. Then the southern regionals and, hopefully, another trip to Philadelphia for the national small college championship.

The crews are looking ahead, for both men's and women's competition. The rowers are bright. They are athletic. The fall crop includes seven freshmen coeds who are attending UT on merit scholarships.

The coaching staff intends to see that they develop the disciplined, competitive spirit that has made the UT team number one.

GROWING OUT

College Inn, Denny's UT Property

Denny's, the College Inn were recently acquired by the university

A three-parcel package including a motel expected to house 194 students has been acquired by the University of Tampa for $875,000 from First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Miami.

The properties are the 100-room College Inn one block east of campus, the adjacent Denny's Restaurant and a 60-space parking lot. All are located on Parker Street in downtown Tampa.

Walter O. Turner, university housing director, said the five-year-old, 100-room motel is accommodating 194 male students for the fall semester, a resident director and laundry facilities.

The increased dormitory space should satisfy the university's housing needs for the next two years.

"This will fill our needs until 1980 as we project it now," Turner said. "With our retention rate going up, the need for dormitory space is going up." The university will house 949 students for the fall semester.

The College Inn, formerly the Universal Host Motor Inn, and the Denny's property were acquired by First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Miami in July in a foreclosure suit against the owners, Associated Properties of Tampa. Salco One, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of First Federal, has managed the properties since the foreclosure.

Rooms in the motel, renamed Rivershore Tower, have been furnished with single beds and desks, Turner said. Existing furniture will be auctioned off or sold at an undisclosed date.

First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Miami will finance the first mortgage with five local banks financing the down payment.

Denny's manager Ben Crisler said the restaurant probably will consider special student rates. Denny's, which has restaurant and lounge capacities of 96 and 20 and is owned by Denny's Inc., of La Mirada, Calif., will lease the property from the university.

The parking lot, south of Denny's on the west side of Parker Street, is being used for student vehicles. The lot formerly was reserved for personnel of GTE Data Services.

The properties are guarded by campus police.

Furniture and renovations reached $100,000 before Sept. 1, said Nick Dennis, the university's physical plant director.

Two students are assigned to each room, with two rooms reserved for the resident director and one for laundry facilities.

She's for all seasons

She moves ever so softly, a figurine in the summer darkness of Plant Hall.

A bun of grey-white hair.

A forehead creased with smiles.

An arm around the shoulders of a student.

Frances Allen is the incandescent light, unflickering for 23 years at the University of Tampa where she is an assistant professor of speech.

There were hard times at first, teaching fulltime and rearing four children at home, alone. And, there are the hard times of today, listening for the approach of life's winter season.

At 63, she is anticipating another two years of teaching. There are no scholarly publications and, beside her name, there is no Ph.D.

"I am just a teacher," she says, oh, so softly. "I just love to teach."

It hasn't always been that way.

She was a drama student at Cornell College in Mt. Vernon, Iowa, when World War II erupted and rerouted her ambitions.

"I felt that it was time to be very practical and to put aside romantic ideals," she says, "but I discovered a romance in teaching. Teaching in itself I learned to love."

It has been an enduring love affair, with the passions equally shared.

She leans against the lectern in her classroom, watching as students for the second summer session file to their desks. The window air-conditioning unit gurgles lazily and, oh so softly, Mrs. Allen begins to teach speech.

It's her own style, borrowed from no textbook.

"I love you," she lectures. "It's the current group that counts, but I am very fickle. Next year there will be another group to love."

Her students remember.

A 1977 speech student, Barbara Edelson, talks of her hypnotic approach. "You work for what you get there, but you don't realize you are really working," she says. "She is warm, inviting and relaxing."

Tampa optometrist Dr. Gerald Krumbholz remembers the speech and drama teacher who encouraged him to pursue acting and freelance jobs as a television broadcaster.

"She generates sympathy. She radiates her warmth, charm and personality," Krumbholz says. He graduated from the university in 1960. "You always have a nice feeling after talking with Frances Allen. There is an immediate trust."

The door in her office is never locked until the evening, when she picks up her books, turns the key and returns home.

Some call it Mrs. Allen's "open door" policy. She calls it "care" for her students. She laughs. "In textbooks today they call it interpersonal communication."

Dr. Dan F. Smith, an associate professor of education, has seen the troubled faces of students parading into Mrs. Allen's office for 16 years. Back then, he studied speech with her.

"I have attempted to maintain the same kind of human concern and spirit of helpfulness toward students that I learned from her," he says. "She has an open door policy and a philosophy of 'how may I help you?'"

Mrs. Allen says problems plaguing students are unchanging in changing times: the divorce of parents, family illness, romantic entanglements.

"Oh, there have been so many," she says, then asks in puzzlement, her blue eyes widening "Don't all teachers help their students?"

Smith, named the outstanding faculty member for 1975 by the University of Tampa National Alumni Association, answers no.

Mrs. Allen, named the outstanding faculty member the following year, says she never has found time to pursue her Ph.D. degree.

"I thought about it," she says. "But when my children were young, I wanted to be with them and would take them camping."

Nor has there been an intense desire to tackle scholarly publications that flow regularly from the typewriters of many educators.

Frances Allen

"I am not interested in doing that," she says, her voice nearly a whisper. "The academic does not appeal to me. It is too textbookish."

Maybe, when she eases into retirement, there will be time for creative writing but, until then, Frances Allen says she will concentrate on teaching — both speech and life.

The blue eyes laugh again and she says, "I am not going to make history. What I am interested in is my students making history."

WOMAN'S CLUB ASSISTS LIBRARY

A gift of nearly $1,800 from the University of Tampa Woman's Club helped the campus Merl Kelce library purchase more than 4,000 microfiches (cards on microfilm) of needed resource magazines. Library director Lydia Acosta said the cards cover the gamut of general interest to academic magazines published in the 1960s.

LANGUAGE ACADEMY HERE

The American Language Academy, an intensive study program that teaches English proficiency skills to foreign students, was in operation at the university this month. Forty students were expected from Latin America, the Middle East, Far East, Europe, French-Canada and Africa. The academy's fifth branch program is being directed by Dr. Harvey Taylor, a linguist who has taught at the university level in Vietnam, Japan, Guam, Hawaii and the University of Michigan.

Dr. Herman Saatkamp

SPANISH LITTLE THEATRE RETURNS

The Spanish Little Theatre, under the direction of Rene Gonzalez, is beginning its second season in residence at the university. Last year the group, which presents musicals in Spanish, attracted impressive crowds to three performances in McKay Auditorium. Forerunner of the group was the Spanish Club, organized by alum Gonzalez on campus in 1958.

LOHMAN GETS BATTALION

Jack Lohman, associate professor of English, is now Lt. Col. Jack Lohman, U.S. Marine Corps Reserve. On Sept. 10, he will assume command of the Fourth Assault Amphibian Battalion on the Tampa side of Gandy Bridge. A Vietnam veteran who joined the university faculty in 1970, Lohman spends a portion of each summer on active duty with the Marine Corps. Four times yearly he holds seminars on ethics and humanities at Quantico (Va.) Marine Base.

EUROPEAN TOUR A FIRST

Fourteen teachers and one undergraduate student from Hillsborough and Pinellas counties studied London's public school system in a two-week tour guided by Dr. Ann Dolgin and Dr. Dan Smith, both associate professors of education. Dolgin said a comparison revealed the European principal has more autonomy than his American counterpart. "They decide how to spend the money and hire as many people as they want. Teachers and the principal get together and decide the way the curriculum is to be taught and how to allocate the budget. Each school has a great deal of autonomy." Following the academics, the group divided up for tours of Scotland; Paris, Rome and Madrid; and Vienna and Switzerland. The tour, made June 19-July 10, offered six graduate credits.

Scene from a London public school was captured photographically by Dr. Ann Dolgin in a three-week study tour last summer. The young Londoners are shown receiving art lessons.

TUITION CUT FOR LOCAL GRADS

High School graduates from Pinellas and Hillsborough counties were eligible for $500 annual tuition credits this fall at the university, in an effort by the board of trustees to enroll more Tampa Bay area students. Graduates who have lived in either county for two years and enroll at the university as commuter students are eligible for the tuition cuts.

PARENTS WEEKEND, HOMECOMING AHEAD

Mark your calendar for two gala events. Parents Weekend is scheduled on campus Oct. 28-30. Regency Travel Agency's Sonny Yacker is coordinating a package Oct. 27 flight from Brooklyn N.Y. for the festivities. Plan a spring vacation in Tampa around March 17-19 of next year. That's Homecoming, and preliminary planning indicates you won't want to be absent.

Bulletin

CHESHIRE NAMED PRESIDENT

Dr. Richard D. Cheshire, 40-year-old vice president for public affairs at Colgate University, Hamilton, N.Y., will become the University of Tampa's seventh president in mid-October. Cheshire was named to the top post over 225 contenders by the presidential selection committee of the university's board of trustees. Fred D. Learey will remain as interim president until Cheshire takes office.

3 New Degrees added to Curriculum.

Two new undergraduate degrees and an expansion of the master's in education program are beefing up academics this fall.

Majors in urban affairs and political science are being offered for the first time, under the direction of Dr. J. Richard Piper who said both will concentrate heavily on internships in local government.

(Students in the division of social sciences have proved the effectiveness of similar internships, spending their final semester in the field with local and state law enforcement agencies.)

Dr. Robert Kerstein, a political scientist with a specialty in urban affairs, has moved to UT from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro to teach the urban affairs courses.

His students will study political science, sociology, economics and history, with core courses in urban affairs and urban planning.

Piper, assistant professor of history and political science, said the expected cooperation of local government officials should enrich the fledgling majors.

Specialists in most phases of government will be invited as guest lecturers.

"We want to take advantage of the urban environment of the university and give students the opportunity to use the resources available in the community," Piper said.

Under consideration is a national internship that would dispatch students to congressional offices and agencies in the executive branches of the federal government.

With the two new degrees, the university now offers majors in 33 areas, including arts management, business management, industrial management, marine science, medical technology and social work.

The physical education program, long a popular major, now has master's degree status.

A concentration of 18 semester hours with such courses as "Introduction to Management and Research," "Problems in Physical Education," "Community Recreation" and "Physical Education for the Exceptional Student" have been placed on the new agenda.

The program is designed for students with undergraduate degrees in physical education and teachers seeking to improve their skills, said coordinator Dr. Alice Rodriguez.

Dr. Eric Valhov, who recently received his doctorate in physical education from the University of Maryland, is a new faculty member who is helping absorb the instructional load.

Besides Valhov and Rodriguez, the physical education faculty has two other doctorates: Dr. Robert Birrenkott, athletic director, and Dr. Judy Bohren, who received her doctorate in May from the University of Maryland.

The new program hopes to attract physical education instructors from Hillsborough and the surrounding counties, Dr. Rodriguez said. Some 100 undergraduates at the university have declared physical education to be their majors.

The master's of education program also offers concentrations in elementary education, social studies, English, industrial arts and education administration.

Majors in political science and urban affairs, a master's degree in physical education were added to the curriculum this fall.

The middle of September we will start our 1977-78 Annual Fund drive and will be calling on you for much needed support of university needs and goals.

October will bring parents to campus from far and wide for the annual Parent's Weekend, Oct. 28, 29 and 30. Everyone is welcome to enjoy this gala weekend.

Homecoming, as you know, is a spring event now with golf and tennis tournaments, special get-togethers in meetings, functions with the students and class reunion dinners and/or parties. Our national championship crew will have another regatta and, we will have a new president for everyone to meet. The dates for Homecoming '78 are March 17, 18 and 19. Mark your calendar now and start making plans.

Keep the university in a top priority position for your tax-deductible contribution. The university needs your support and you can't get more for your money than when you invest in tomorrow's leaders.

Looking forward to seeing you on campus, I am,

Sincerely,

Joyce Mays Traina '63

Directory planned for Tampa alumni

All alumni of Tampa will be contacted during the next few weeks by representatives of the Bernard Harris Co. of New York for information to be used in a directory of Tampa alumni. No other use will be made of the information gathered.

The Harris Company has been contracted as the official publisher and will compile, publish and market the directory at no cost to the Tampa Alumni Association or the university. The publication will be supported through the sale of advertising space and individual copies of the directory.

The Harris Company will publish only enough directories to fill the pre-publication orders, and no one except alumni will be allowed to purchase the directory.
