

University Receives Gift Of Law Library From George P. Raney, Jr.

By Jim Carley

The law library of the late Judge George P. Raney has been given to the University of Tampa by his own son George P. Raney Jr.

The Raney Law Library consists of over 2000 volumes and is considered one of the finest collections of law books ever to be received by the University. A greater part of the library is comprised of sets of the National Reporter System: Southeastern Reporter, Mr. Raney explained that the United States is divided into sections, and that the decisions from the Supreme courts in the sections are compiled and bound by the National Reporter System. Included in the library are: Federal Reports, which cover decisions handed down by federal courts, Circuit Courts of Appeals, and Court Appeals District of Columbia; set of American and English Encyclopedia of Law; a set of encyclopedias and general works on specific points of law.

In addition to the law library, Mrs. George P. Raney Sr. has donated a 100 volume set of the Official Records of the Civil War. The Official Records of the Union and Confederate Armies and Navies printed and published by the United States printing office in 1866.

The 2150 volume law library represents the accumulation of a 75 year law practice begun by Mr. Raney's grandfather, who, at one time, was a Florida Supreme Court Judge. Most of the volumes were gathered by the late Judge Raney. The estimated value of the library, if new, would be between 5 and 6 thousand dollars.

Mr. Raney, like his father and grandfather, is a graduate of the University of Virginia, class of 1925. After graduation he went into partnership with his father, Judge Raney. Mr. Raney is now with the firm of Raney and Angle of this city.

These books are a portion of the law library donated to the University of Tampa by Mr. George P. Raney, Jr.

Recognition Of University Possible Through Fencing

by Julian Keating

One of the University of Tampa's best chances of national recognition in sports is probably through its fencing team. This recognition is not just an idle wish. Our fencing team is still in its infancy, having been started only last year, but within the next two years it should be able to hold its own against any team in the United States.

Before the war there was fencing at this school but never with such advantages as we now have. Our present-day team is only partly sponsored by the school. A great deal of the expense is taken care of by the team and its coach. With this spirit and determination the fencing team has won its first battle of getting equipment. Plans are being made for competitive fencing with other schools. We hope to schedule bouts with Rollins College, the University of Miami, the University of Florida and Georgia Tech this year. The team is in good shape and has had some experience.

Last year the State Amateur Fencing League held its meet at the University of Tampa, and our team took two individual first places, three individual second places and three individual third places. Bill Thomas took first place with the foil, Pebley Borrow second, Bob Alexander third. With the saber Bill Thomas took first, Victor Left second, Dave Baskowitz third. We lost first place with the epee, but Jesus Yado took second and Bob Alexander took third.

This year we have six varsity men—Bill Thomas, captain, Ned Malony, co-captain; Pebley Borrow, manager; Dave Baskowitz, Denver Blanco and Frank Feliciano. Also on the team this year are Frank Wright, A. D. Beckman, C. E. Fisher, Herbert Kinsey, Robert Barron, Rip Rawleigh, Robert McDonald, Vernon Conner, Gail Bechler, Robert Weyand, Theodore Conover, Gonzalo Uribe, Samuel Cardenas and Tom Davis.

The coach says the team is doing fine and he hopes to send three men to fence in the National Collegiate Meet this year. In the meet only three men represent each school, and our coach thinks we should be able to place fifth or better among all the colleges having fencing.

Again, this is not just wishful thinking. With more than 45 years of experience as an international fencer and fencing master, Coach Castello is an able judge of fencing ability.

A year ago Prof. Julio Martinez Castello started teaching fencing at the University of Tampa. What he has accomplished since that time is not surprising when we look at his record.

Professor Castello is recognized as one of the world's greatest authorities on fencing. He is the author of the book "The Theory and Practice of Fencing." A graduate of the famous Sala de Armas Carbonel of Spain, he has won many international prizes and championships both for his individual abilities as a fencer and in recognition of his success as a fencing instructor.

Since coming to America he has duplicated his successes abroad by turning out many fine American fencers. While he was a coach at New York University, his team always placed first or near it. He has been fencing instructor for many universities and clubs, and was the American Olympic fencing team coach in 1924.

Among the institutions and clubs where Professor Castello has been fencing instructor and coach are Yale, Columbia, College of the City of New York, New York University, Military Club of Madrid, Club de Gimnasia y Esgrima de Buenos Aires, and the New York Athletic Club.

A few of the honors and awards he has earned are Maestro de Armas Diploma from the Sala de Armas Carbonel, Diploma from Sociedad de Esgrima de Madrid, Diploma from the Academia Nacional de Esgrima y Cultura Fisica of the Argentine Republic (where his students won the South American championships in all three weapons), Diploma from the Exposicion Nacional de Agricultura de 1912 in Cuba, and Diploma issued by the 8th Olympiad held in Paris in 1924.

If any student of the University feels that he might be a good fencer and wants to jump on a winning band wagon, he has a good opportunity. Credit for physical education is also given for fencing.

Presbyterian Union Holds Swim Party

The Presbyterian Student Union held their mid-semester picnic and swimming party Saturday, November 13, on White Trout Lake at the camp of Mr. and Mrs. George Lenfesty. Those attending enjoyed a very eventful evening of games and boating topped off with a delicious supper.

The First Presbyterian Church of Tampa is holding a luncheon party at the church Tuesday, December 14, 11:30 A. M., for all Presbyterian students, members, and friends. This party is being given at the same hour as the regular scheduled meeting of the Presbyterian Student Union and transportation will be available to and from the University for those who have afternoon classes. Everyone is invited to attend.

Debate Society Now Writing Constitution

The University of Tampa's first post-war formal debate group is now in its formative stage, it was announced by Prof. Roy A. McGillivray of the Speech Department. In a recent meeting, an organization and constitution drafting committee was appointed. The University of Tampa Debate Society has, as its nucleus, the members of the Speech 205 class.

Those present at the first meeting were: Ralph Andretta, Bernard Cohen, Robbins Denham, Thomas Waugh, Joseph McGee, Frank Ragano, and DeLoss Weyant. Weyant was elected temporary chairman and he appointed Denham as acting secretary.

The Debate Society has extended an invitation to all students of the University who are interested in debating to attend one of the society's meetings. Meetings are held once a week, on Friday in room 251 at 12:30. The goal of the Debate Society is eventual membership in the National Forensic League, a national debate society.

Prof. McGillivray has announced the team for the first practice debate to be held at Stetson on Dec. 4. Team members include: Robbins Denham, Frank Ragano, Bill Benson, and DeLoss Weyant.

UBS Broadcasting Two Shows Weekly

The University of Tampa's University Broadcasting Service now has two fifteen-minute radio programs a week.

"Tampa Talks," a forum program, which brings together business men of Tampa and members of the faculty for a discussion of Tampa's problems, may be heard over WFLA on Saturday nights at 7. UBS's other program may be heard over WDAE on Tuesdays at 5:15. This second program is alternated to give variety. One dramatic presentation is followed the next week by a musical program, with students of the University participating in both.

The first WDAE air spot was "Zelda," a story about a college coed and an English theme. This combination managed to get the hero into a bit of hot water. The cast for "Zelda" included Shirley Rosevelt, Bruce Atkins, Leonard Gotler, Dick Doudna, and Jim Carley.

On Nov. 23, The Minaret Musical was presented with Bob Gross, Vincent Thornton, and Robert Thompson entertaining. The second dramatic skit, "The Silver Coronet," was heard on Nov. 29, with Olga Rivera, Joe Russo, Jim Carley, Leonard Gotler, and others in the cast. Minaret Musical is scheduled for Dec. 7.

In 1896, the distance of the Kentucky Derby was reduced from 1 1/2 miles to 1 1/4 miles.

Cheering Section At Tampa-Rollins Game

At the University of Tampa-Rollins football game, these students formed a cheering section of their own. Dr. Anthony Dorio, holding the broom, was head cheerleader. Let's try to make as good a showing at FSU game.

The Moroccan staff urges all students to return their proofs to Hayden Campus Studio, 422 W. Lafayette St., in the Medical Arcade Building.

This must be done before the studio will furnish the photographs for the yearbook.

Everyone's cooperation is necessary in order to get the annual out on time.

Please take care of this immediately for your own benefit and to save the staff many headaches.

Composition Recital Presented By Park

The recital given Nov. 30 by Prof. Stephen F. Park, of the department of music, was Professor Park's eighth annual composition recital at the University of Tampa.

Associate professor of music theory at the University, Stephen F. Park joined the faculty here in 1939, having received the master of music degree from the University of Michigan in 1937.

A native of Minnesota, he also received his earlier degree from a Midwestern institution, the University of Nebraska, from which he was graduated in 1929. He has studied composition with Doty, Krennek, and Rose Lee Vinney.

He has been state chairman of American composition of the Federated Music Clubs and last year was president of the Florida Composers League.

A Dance Suite for two violins and piano composed by Professor Park will be published soon, and a new work by him will appear in the forthcoming All-American Catalogue of Contemporary Music to be issued by the Composers Press.

A new choral symphony which Professor Park is now completing will be performed here in March.

Glee Club Will Take Part In Benefit Sing; Annual Candlelight Service December 10

The University of Tampa Glee Club will be one of the five glee clubs represented at the first annual choral Festival being held December 10th, for the benefit of underprivileged children by the Kiwanis Club.

There will be more than 200 voices combined for this event. Other Glee Clubs includes Hillsborough, Plant, and Jefferson High School and the Florida Christian College.

For their selections, the University of Tampa has chosen, "Let My Song Fill Your Heart" by Ernest Charles, "As Lately We Watch," a choral with William Nunn as soloist, and the "Hallelujah Chorus" from the Messiah.

Following individual chorus selections, the five-choruses will combine to form a Mass Chorus singing "One World" under the direction of professor Lyman Wiltse.

The event will be an annual one to take the place of the Round Robin Game sponsored by the Kiwanis club in previous years. The money goes to provide help for needy children including help through the year and a special Christmas party.

The program will begin at 8:00 P. M. at the Municipal Auditorium Friday December 10th.

The Annual Candlelight Services given by the University of Tampa Chorus will be performed Thursday December 10th in the University Ballroom. The program will begin with the candlelight ceremony, and lighting candles will be Jo Ann Hall, Glenn Massey, June Nance, Betty Trimble and Dot James.

Following this will be the Invocation.

Twelve Students Elected Members Of National Who's Who Organization

Twelve University of Tampa students have been elected to membership in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. Those chosen are Peggy Anderson, Guy Bagli, Leonard Gotler, Bob Hancock, Tony Ippolito, Jerry Jackson, Dot James, Albert McNab, Dick Saxon, Joan Schwab, Tommy Waugh, and Jean Wiltse.

These students were selected on a basis of scholarship, leadership in extra-curricular activities, character, and future usefulness to business and society. Six were named from both the Junior and Senior classes. Each student who becomes a member of Who's Who receives recognition in the annual publication. A write-up of his personal record is included, and he receives the benefit of the Who's Who placement service.

Peggy Anderson, a senior, is secretary to Dr. Baker, president of the senior class, and a member of Delta Kappa and the Methodist Student Union.

Guy Bagli, a junior, is a sports-caster at station WDAE.

Leonard Gotler, a junior, is co-editor of The Minaret and a member of the University Broadcasting Service.

Bob Hancock is president of the junior class and of Kappa Sigma Kappa. He is a member of the Student Senate, UBS, and several other groups.

Jerry Jackson, a junior, is a member of the Student Senate and Beta Chi fraternity. He is Intramural sports director and a left halfback on the football team.

Dot James is a junior and a member of Alpha Mu Tau of which she is president. She is also president of Welta Kappa.

Albert McNab, a senior, is president of Sigma Kappa Nu. He is Lions Club representative and a member of the Methodist Student Union.

Dick Saxon, a senior, is president of the Student Senate and a member of Sigma Kappa Nu.

Joan Schwab, a senior is editor of the Moroccan, a member of the Student Senate, the Canterbury Club, and the Phi Society, and is vice president of Sigma Theta Phi. Tommy Waugh, a senior, is a member of the Tau Omega and the Boots and Saddle Club.

Jean Wiltse, a junior, is a member of the band, orchestra, Tampa Symphony, the Phi Society and Delta Kappa.

Art Educationalists Drawing Gay Murals

Colorful murals have appeared in the education department as a result of group work in art education. Some are Christmas subjects, some suggest gay adventure, some have as their themes old-time nursery favorites.

The students are finding that murals are useful to stimulate or check up on stories read, to stimulate free expression, to record important scenes from stories, to teach art principles and to teach principles of decoration.

Significant scenes were chosen from children's stories for illustration and produced in various color harmonies in murals. Noted this week were "The Three Little Pigs," produced in monochromatic harmony; "Hansel and Gretel," in complementary harmony; "The Nightingale," in split complementary harmony, and "The Three Wise Men," in triad harmony.

Students in art education are finding the application of art principles to be fun, not only for the child, but for the college student as well.

Spartan Wives Elect

Mrs. Ann Wetherington was elected president of the Spartan Wives Club at the group's bimonthly meeting Wednesday night. Mrs. Jean Conaway was chosen vice president. Mrs. Beverly Timinsky secretary and Mrs. Betty McFall treasurer of the organization.

Plans were made at the meeting for a baked goods sale to be held Wednesday, Dec. 8, in the Lobby, and for a special program Friday, Dec. 17, in the Ballroom, where Santa Claus will make a personal appearance at a Christmas party given by the Spartan Wives for their husbands and children and for members of the faculty and staff.

The club's next meeting will be Wednesday, Dec. 15, in Riverview Auditorium.

Home Ec. Meeting Has Guest Speaker

Mr. George Welsheimer was guest speaker at the Home Economics Club meeting on Nov. 16.

Mr. Welsheimer exhibited beautiful assortments of hand-woven and hand-embroidered garments, which were all made in Guatemala. The girls modeling these dresses, playsuits, and jackets were Angie Chillura, Mary Eleanor Tidwell, Jane Wellman, Marjorie Oglesby, Glenn Massey and Betty Blitch.

He also displayed leather goods and hand-carved solid mahogany articles. Mr. Welsheimer gave the background concerning textiles. This was one of the many interesting programs planned for the semester.

On Oct. 30, the Home Economics Club, under the direction of the club advisor, Miss Stella Cox, prepared and served a luncheon for 50 delegates to the state speech convention. Members of the club also assisted in a coffee party for one of Tampa's garden clubs, given Wednesday morning, Nov. 3.

James Buchanan was the only unmarried President of the United States.

B'Ball Boys Expected To Sweep State — Gator Game Dec. 14

Games Planned With Fives From Prominent Colleges

by Irving Edelson

Old man winter has hit Tampa, reminding students and sports writers alike that it is just about time to shift the talk from football to basketball; for already Tampa coaches have started cleaning the courts.

The University of Tampa's cagers are already winding into shape for a tough season with some teams as Boston College, Kentucky, and the University of Florida.

Tampa starts out the 1948 season with an encounter against the Florida Gators here at Fort Hesterly on Tuesday, Dec. 14. A win for the Spartans is practically a "must."

It is admitted in and around sports circles, however, that something almost as important as a win itself is the attendance at the game by students, alumni, and fans of Tampa U.

A recent gripe was made by the Minaret in regard to the U. of Florida getting more publicity in Tampa U.'s own back yard than the Spartans themselves. Maybe this institution's newspaper was biting off more than it could chew; attendance at the game will tell. If Florida's alumni support the Gators more than do those of Tampa, rooters for the red, black and gold can have no room for complaints. Therefore, The Minaret's staff urges everyone to support our school by not only attending the game yourselves, but also by telling your friends and relatives alike to see the Spartans beat the Gators.

Last year, the Spartans won twelve and lost fourteen games; they expect to do much better this year. Against Florida, the locals lost their first game, 70-50 at Gainesville in their second game of the season. Though the West Coast "five" dropped the second contest to the Gators, the 40-30 score was not so one-sided as it indicates.

This contest, at Ft. Hesterly, was a nip-and-tuck battle, with the home team holding the lead three minutes from the game's end, and forcing the Gainesville team to stage a last minute rally.

Players now out for the sport, or who will begin practicing after Tampa completes its football season this Saturday are: Holland Aplin, center; Carol Fogel, Aaron Bryan, Felix Japp, Paul Danahy, guards; Mac Williams, Fred Baity, Harry Bryan, and Bob Fabian, forwards.

Volley Record

Winning two games, 15-7 and 15-12, and losing a third contest, 15-9, in a three-game series with Frank and Willie's team Nov. 16, the University of Tampa girls' volleyball team ended the season with a record of three games won and two lost.

The University of Tampa is a nonsectarian, nonprofit public institution governed by a Board of Control of 25 trustees.

Player Of The Week

JOHN MALCZEWSKI

"The tackle was made by Malczewski," was an oft repeated statement during the Spartans season thus far. Big John teamed with Tom Powell to give Coach Gaddis two fine tackles. Johnny played about 55 minutes of each game and made his presence felt for every minute of that time.

John hails from Montgomery, Alabama, where he played on a championship prep school team for two years. A friend of Coach Gaddis persuaded Johnny to attend the University of Tampa.

SPORT GLANCES

by Charles Haynes

The Spartan basketball team will play possibly the toughest schedule of any small college in the south this season.

A large number of hopefuls have started getting in shape on their own over in the Hillsborough gym at night. Coach Gaddis is still busy with football, but expects to get regular practice started soon. The first game is Dec. 14 with the Florida Gators.

Other big games in Tampa will be the Volunteers of the University of Tennessee; also Milligan College of Johnson City, Tennessee. Tampa will play its usual state rivals, Stetson, Florida Southern, and Miami. Several service terms will be used to fill in the Spartan schedule, possibly MacDill Field, Pensacola Navy, etc.

Tampa U. will play several large northern teams, among these Lawrence Tech of Detroit. The boys will also have a nice trip when they go to Boston to play in the famed Boston Garden.

The oldest university in the Western Hemisphere is the University of San Marcos, Lima, Peru. It was founded in 1551.

Rain Helps Rollins Defeat Tampa Here

By Buddy Scott

Aided by a driving rain which rendered Tampa's vaunted passing attack ineffective the ponderous Rollins Tars slushed out a 35-6 win over a fighting but very wet Spartan eleven.

The Spartans did not have one opportunity to throw the football, as just a few minutes after the start of the fray, the rain came down in sheets and bogged down every offensive surge that the soaked Spartans could muster.

In the last quarter P.B. White, the blond bombshell from Bradenton, rented a boat and rowed the last two yards for the Tampa T.D.

Rosey Rambles

By LARRY ROSENBAUM

Tomorrow afternoon the University of Tampa will close its first football season since 1942. The Spartans have a record of five losses two wins and regardless of tomorrow's outcome the season is a successful one. Let's flash back to the first of September. At that time newly appointed Athletic Director and Head Football Coach, Mike Gaddis called for football candidates. Then with only three weeks of practice this green inexperienced team almost upset Milligan College as they fell one touchdown short of victory. The Spartans went into that game with only eight basic offensive plays.

The next game was again played in Tennessee against Memphis State College. The Tampa team lost again, but something was born in that game—a passing attack. Holland Aplin rose to the heights as he snared seventeen passes. This game was also an indication of what Stetson would encounter.

The Hatters were unable to stop Aplin who not only caught passes, but also threw them. Jerry Jackson played brilliantly football games ever witnessed in Florida. Coach Gaddis had fortified his boys with many tricky, razzle-dazzle plays in an attempt to bewilder the Pensacola Navy Goslings. The Navy was favored by four touchdowns. The score: Pensacola 37, Tampa 32. Jim Hill was the Spartan hero and rated the top man on the field. Jim was all over the gridiron blocking, catching passes, intercepting passes and recovering fumbles. Tampa was the talk of Florida.

Still riding high, the Spartans came up against the Colegio Militar of Mexico, winners of six out-of-seven games. It was homecoming for the University of Tampa and it was a happy one. Miranda, Jackson & Co. rolled up the highest total seen in this state in the past fifteen years. They ran through the Military for eleven touchdowns and seventy seven points.

On the crest of a terrific offense the Spartans met a powerful Rollins College team. The Tars scored two quick touchdowns and then the rains came! The Tampa attack was drowned. And yet they slogged through the quagmire until P.B. White bulled over for a touchdown.

Physically aching and mentally "down" the Spartans suffered a sound beating from Erskin's Flying Fleet.

Tomorrow they meet the Florida State Seminoles. The Seminoles can expect a revitalized Tampa team. The Spartans will be out to win the Dixie Conference Championship and add glory to an already successful campaign.

State Title At Stake In Tallahassee Game

By Irving Edelson

On Friday, Dec. 3, the University of Tampa Spartans will board the bus for Tallahassee, Florida, hoping to end the win streak of the Florida State University Seminoles who hope to capture the Dixie League title in Saturdays game.

The Seminoles are leading the conference with three wins and no losses, while the Spartans have one win and have not lost a league game. The conference does not judge by the tricky Dickinson System, nor does it designate the number of games to be played.

Tampa is also seeking the edge against Florida opponents and needs the victory for a .666 second within the state. They have stopped Stetson and lost to a strong Rollins team.

The Seminoles, with a record of only one loss and a string of victories should rule as pre-game favorites. However, the Spartans, with their fast tricky eleven operating from a "T" formation are working hard to hit mid-season form when they smothered Colegio Militar de Mexico, 77-0.

The squad boasts of a fast backfield that is not lacking in line breaking power, mostly from the center plunging tactics of Julian Schamberger. Tampa's big fullback who appears to be back in top form. Joe Morris, the brains of the "T", has a habit of confusing opponents with his hocus-pocus handling of the ball. Any loss is liable to turn up with it, especially Holland Aplin and James Hill, two glue-fingered ends of the Spartan eleven. Aplin who has made some spectacular leaping one-handed catches is also known to fade back and pass to the other end. He also, on occasions pulls out of the line and runs with the ball.

The Seminoles, back from Alabama with a 20-13 victory over the bowl bound Troy State Teachers will be celebrating their home coming against Tampa. Coach Don Velez, who also operates his boys from the "T", will be depending on backs Strauss, Parrish, and MacLean. Two pass catching ends in Hewitt and Eubanks will be out to snare passes while Fuchock will be relied on to boot the extra points from the placement.

WAA Constitution Now Being Revised

The Womens Athletic Association of the University of Tampa has had three meetings since September, held primarily to rewrite the Constitution of the Association.

There has been discussion concerning a party, but the plans will be announced at a later date.

The officers this year are: Pat Scott, President; Catherine Cappello, Vice-President; Nan Vincent, Secretary; and Peggy Anderson, Treasurer.

Miss Brill, the advisor for WAA, would like to start a girls fencing club and bowling club in addition to the usual activities. Any girl who is interested in sports and who would like to become a member of the W. A. A. should see Miss Brill or attend one of the meetings.

The Clock Struck Twelve In Room 613

By Max W. Bagley

It is getting lighter now and I can hear voices. The voices are becoming clearer. I can see now. Two white figures are standing at my feet and I am on the flat of my back. What's that? "It is O.K. now doctor, he is coming out of it."

Thank you nurse. Will you please raise the shade now?

"That fine. Thank you very much. Mr. Bagley, can you hear me?"

"Who are you? Where am I?"

"It's me, Max Dr. Black, and do not be afraid, for everything is going to be all right now."

"Dr. Black, it is you. What are you doing here, and where are the ghosts and the girl? Is the girl all right?"

"Yes, Mr. Bagley, the girl is doing fine and you are doing nicely yourself. At the present time you are in the hospital and have just been operated on for appendicitis. Everything is swell, and I couldn't ask for a more successful operation. Now don't you worry about anything. Just place a little faith in me and everything will be O.K. How do you feel?"

I guess I feel O.K. doctor, but I must admit that I am a bit confused. I'm a little mixed up on everything.

I can't understand it, Dr. Black. Exactly what happened? Here I am in a hospital and you tell me that I have just had an operation. How did I get here and what kind of operation have I had? The last thing that I can remember is that I was home and in bed with a slight stomach ache. My dad gave me something to soothe my pain and I was just about asleep. I am afraid that I was completely lost from the world of reality after that. Won't you please try to fill in the blank space of time from then until now?

"I will try my best to, Mr. Bagley. Your dad became worried about your condition and called me about eleven o'clock last night and explained the situation to me. Sensing that you were having a slight attack of appendicitis I immediately dressed and came over to your house."

"When I arrived I found you in a pretty bad way. You were talking out of your head and were pretty restless in general. When I tried to examine you, I found that you had other ideas. You wanted to fight me. I finally had to quiet you with a shot."

Wait a minute, Doc. How could that shot have affected me? Could it have made my head groggy and could I have received a shock from it as if someone had slugged me? The reason I asked is because I am positive that I was hit hard on the head by someone or something. Say Doc, you didn't slug me did you?

"You certainly are throwing the questions at me, but I will try to give as much of the story as I can. Here goes! It is very true that the shock could have made you groggy, but the shock you received was caused by the medicine or by me. The real truth is that you hit the bed post with your head when you were tossing about on the bed. Now back to the story—"

"After you had quieted down and I had completed my examination, I was positive that you had a bad case with your appendix and that I should remove it as quickly as possible. I was afraid that if I delayed until morning they would rupture and Gosh knows what would happen then. While your dad dressed you I placed a call to the hospital for reservations and the ambulance. We took you to the hospital, prepared you for surgery, and by twelve o'clock we rolled you through the doors of the operating room."

Just a second Doc. I would like to know what the room number of the operating room is?

"Why, it is 613! Why do you ask?"

Well Doc, I had a crazy dream that I was in a room numbered 613 at the University of Tampa and was being held captive by white robed figures that I took to be ghosts. I was suppose to be on an assignment for the boss about some crazy doings at the University. While I was in the room I saw some white robed figures flying briskly about from the doors and windows to a white robed figure who I took to be the leader: I was becoming interested in the proceedings when some icy hands grabbed me from behind and practically choked me to death. When I regain consciousness I saw three other figures enter the room and place a white bundle on a casket-like box. The figures opened the bag and a beautiful young girl was revealed to be tied up. She was struggling for freedom and the white robed figure drew a large knife from his person and raised it to kill her. The young girl looked around the room and saw that I was free. Her eyes begged me to help her. As I attempted to get up, I was slugged again.

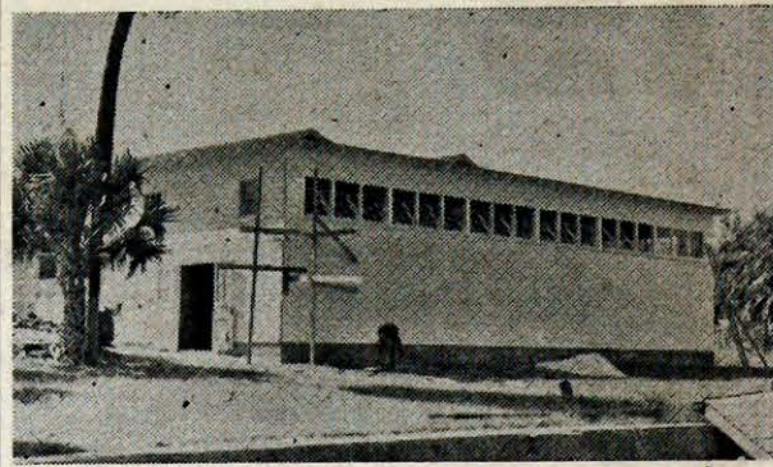

I immediately drifted into darkness and a few minutes ago I came to and found you standing over me. I would like to know what brought about this realistic dream. It all seemed so real. Will you please explain how my operation, etc., tie in with this foolish and fantastic dream I had?

"To begin with, Mr. Bagley, you were under the influence of ether and were completely lost to the world of realism, which is only customary. It is only natural that you would drift from the world of reality into that of fantasy. But where the average individual is content to dream of natural happenings, you, as a writer, are not contented to do so. Judging from your story, I believe that I can show you what happened in your world of dreams and at the same time tie those happenings in your life of reality."

"First: As you will recall, I said that we entered the operating room at exactly twelve o'clock. The reason I knew was because the clock on the wall of the room presented that fact to me, and it is obvious to you too. Second: The room number of the operating room is 613, thus accounting for the room number in your dream. Third: The white cloaks and ghostly figures are easy to explain, for they were doctors and nurses in their usual attire for operating purposes. Fourth: The person who had those icy fingers could have been the nurse or one of the doctors. They may have touched your throat while adjusting the ether cap, but I can assure you that they did not choke you."

And lastly we come to the beautiful young girl. In the first place, she was not a beautiful young girl—she was, and still is, an old lady. She is employed in the hospital as a scrub woman. The reason that you saw her is simple. She had fallen down the steps and broken her arm and injured her knee. We had her brought into the operating reception room and placed her on a table. The doctor was bandaging her arm as we rolled you through the reception room after your operation. It is possible that as you were drowsy, you assumed that she was beautiful and was being tortured. I am a bit pleased to know that you were so gallant that you wished to protect her. Sorry that you were in no condition to leave the stretcher to play Prince Charming."

BX Breakfast Was A Homecoming Feature

The Beta Chi Fraternity held its annual homecoming breakfast at 8:30 o'clock in the Palm Room of the Tampa Terrace Hotel, on November 6.

The blessing was given by fraternity advisor, Dr. C. Herbert Laub, who later gave an impromptu speech on the fine turn out at the breakfast. He also emphasized the fact that the fraternity was progressing very well in the early part of this semester.

The whole program was led by President Clyde C. Evans Jr., who first of all expressed his appreciation for the fine turn out of the alumni, members, and pledges. Coach Miller Adams was an honored guest who later in the program presented to the President, a trophy for the 1947 intramural championship.

Immediately following the homecoming game a party was given by the alumni at the Skyline Room in the Bayshore Royal Hotel. A speech was made by the newly elected President of the Alumni, Dr. Paul McCloskey, who said that he was gratified at the fine showing of the active members. He said that the alumni was well pleased with the float, and also the highlight of the whole homecoming program was the airplane carrying the letters "WELCOME ALUMNI BETA CHI." Following the program there was dancing.

a job as you would have, had you related the story to me, but I do believe that I have explained the situation to you. Have I?

Yes, doctor, you have. Thanks a million for everything. Who knows, maybe some day I can do a feature on you and your hospital staff, and last, but not least, your scrub woman."

Oh, by the way, doctor. Have you seen my dad?

"Yes, he is outside of the door and is waiting to see you now. Do you feel like receiving visitors?"

Yes Sir, by all means, doctor.

"O. K., nurse, you can show Mr. Bagley in now."

Alpha Gamma To Hold Xmas Dinner

The Alpha Gamma Sorority has planned an active Christmas season.

On Dec. 13, the traditional mother-daughter Christmas dinner will be given at the Ritencliff Cafeteria. At this time, mothers and daughters will exchange gifts. It is customary for the alumni to participate.

Thursday evening, Dec. 16, an informal Christmas celebration will be given in honor of active members and alumni and their dates at the Forest Hills riding academy. Committee in charge of arrangements include Carmen Zambito, Betty Rose Wages, and Nita Benton.

Plans are being made for the sorority's initial dance of the year. The dance scheduled for Nov. 5, was postponed in order to give the alumni and the Student Senate the Homecoming dates, but Alpha Gamma promises a big affair at the first of the year.

Kappa Sigma Kappa Calls For More School Spirit

By Bob Hancock

It is surprising how a little rain at a football game will dampen a school spirit. For instance at the Tampa-Rollins game. At the first drop of rain, thousands of students headed for the exits, their only concern to get out of the rain. They failed to take into consideration the fact that the players and coaches had to remain until the final whistle. What would have been the reaction of the student body if the players walked or ran off the field as soon as it began to sprinkle?

The Cheerleaders were very fortunate in having some loyal Spartans who stayed to the bitter end. To those people, the local newspapers gave due credit. The Kappa Sigma Fraternity, which was to have staged a half-time demonstration had their spirits wet by the rain and they failed to carry out their program. They did have a cheering section and a band, under the direction of Dr. Anthony Dorio, which gave good support (although the whole group did not remain for the entire game) to the Cheerleaders. The school cheering section took notice that the only international fraternity at the University of Tampa had the right idea to get some school spirit from the crowd.

To the entire Spartan footballers, both the coaches and players, goes the praise for their fight against a team that completely outclassed them for only one reason. The Spartan passing attack never had an opportunity click due to the rain and a wet ball. The Rollins line was much too large for the smaller line of the T.U. eleven to move out of the way for the pint-sized Tampa backs to get started. The defeat is no discredit to the Spartan eleven, as they were beaten by a better football team under the existing circumstances under which the game was played.

As the writer of Invictus said, "My head is bloody but unbowed", so say the members of the KSK football team after a stunning defeat at the hands of the Sigma Kappa Nu boys, 34-0. Though the International frat played a valiant game, they were no match for the Black Knights. Perhaps the loss was suffered most by Iron Man Jay Bragg, of KSK who played not only his heart out but also his purse. For the first time this year, the Purple and Gold hit an obstacle that they couldn't move.

There were no individual stars for Kappa Sigma Kappa, as each member of the team played head-up football against tremendous odds. The SKN's had the two Barksdals and Bobby Fabian up to par as they engineered the defeat of KSK. There is only one thing left to be said about the game and that is that the SKN's made more points than the KSK's.

The following week, the Purple and Gold fared a little better, as They lost a heart-breaker to the Rho Nu Delta eleven by a score of 13-2. With a couple of breaks, the tide might have been turned. The KSK passing attack bogged down in the second quarter, and that seemed to spell defeat for the Internationals. A desperate fourth quarter rally by KSK died as the Rho Nu's intercepted a KSK pass deep in their own territory. In the dying moments, the RND's threw a long pass that was knocked down by little Freddie Alonso, halfback of Kappa Sigma Kappa which otherwise would have been good for six points. Hats off to Joe Capitano, Ed Cory, and Jay Bragg for the fight they displayed on the line. To Ferdinand 'Half-Pint' Alonso and Fred Hammond, and Augie Suarez for a well played game in the backfield. Gene Henderson and Frank Cacciatore played a good defensive game for KSK. The RND team had shift Spec Spiccolo set for this game as he reeled off numerous runs as well as passing the ball. There were no outstanding linemen for the Rho Nu's because they played together as a team. Each man did his respective job and did it well, so equal credit must be given to everyone on the line.

The last issue of The Minaret included in this column an announcement from the Student Senate thanking several Tampa battling companies for their services rendered during Homecoming Weekend. That was a mistake of The Minaret. It should not have been added to this column. The Senate has its own reporter for The Minaret.

Thank You, Mr. Raney

To Mr. George P. Raney, Jr., The Minaret wishes to express the appreciation of the University students for his recent gift of the law library of his late father.

If more people in this city were aware of the current worth and future potentialities of the University of Tampa, as is Mr. Raney, we would no longer be a struggling college. Our sincere hope is that this will be a forerunner for the awakening of the general public.

The Minaret recommends to the Public Relations Department and to our librarian, Miss Thompson, that this newly acquired collection of books be placed in a special section in the University library and that a plaque be placed over them, duly inscribed, "The George P. Raney Law Library."

Constitution Amendment Coming

Within a few weeks, the students will have an opportunity to vote on some proposed amendments to the Student Body Constitution. This document has long needed revision, and knowing this, our live-wire Student Senate is taking action.

One of these amendments will contain provision for a student governing court. Much time and thought has been given to this plan, and after thorough examination of it, we feel compelled to recommend its adoption.

The system is praiseworthy because it is workable and just. It is worthy of your support and respect. Provisions are included for the election of eleven justices, one of whom will serve as chancellor. Jurisdiction of the organization will cover lying, immorality, illegal parking, the passing of bad checks, and persistent idleness. This will place student punishment in the hands of other students, who, because of their character and achievements, are known to be capable and honorable, and are, therefore, respected.

Some form of governing court is in effect at most of the universities and colleges throughout this nation. Its workability is proof of the maturity of the college student today, and we see no reasons why a student court of justice cannot work at the University of Tampa.

In voting for the proposed amendments, we urge you to use your good judgment. And, doing this, we know you will vote "Yes."

New York Leads With New Jersey Second

Twenty-four states and three foreign countries—Canada, Colombia and Guatemala—are represented among the 1183 students enrolled in the University of Tampa this semester, figures compiled by the office of the Dean of Administration show.

Tampa residents attending the University number 854, and these, with 148 students from other parts of the state, bring the Florida total to 1002.

New York sent the largest out-of-state group, numbering 41. New Jersey is second with 19, Pennsylvania third with 15, and North Carolina fourth with 14. There are 13 students here from Michigan, 12 from Ohio, and 10 from Illinois.

Other figures are: Virginia, 8; Indiana, 7; Connecticut, Massachusetts, 6; Georgia, Alabama, 5; Kentucky, West Virginia, 3; Maryland, Tennessee, Columbia, 2; Delaware, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, New Hampshire, South Carolina, Guatemala, and Canada, 1.

These figures do not include enrollment in the Adult Education Center.

The following schedule of events was carried out by the elite members of the Girls' Dormitory.

On Monday night, Nov. 15, the larger majority engaged in hair washing, while other swatched. Erlaine was attired in rag curlers and striped pajamas, watching Ruth, Barbara, and Shorty cleanse their hair. This was followed by a gathering in room 343, at which time Adele and Jean made fashionable clothes while the other 14 looked on.

Tuesday night, a short bull session was held at which time Doris Henson modeled an adorable pair of blue and white P.J.'s. Evelyn paid her regards but insisted upon retiring. However, the others spent time catching up on the latest and last gossip. As the closing benediction, they sang, "If I Had the Wings of an Angel."

Wednesday night brought forth a bridge party. Although no prizes were awarded, the players had a gala time.

Thursday night was devoted to studies, although we had our doubts as to whether Helen was going to get in the Dorm on time. As we drew our last breaths, in she tore, and a peaceful night of educational acquirement was spent.

Friday — Alas! Seven o'clock brought no fear. Yep, the girls were allowed to attend the football game... Not the dance, too, but the game... Hot dog!

Saturday night, the night for a big date. (That is, for those who were not members of the select few.) But those in hibernation spent the evening learning a few new dance steps (wondering when they could be put to use). There were many interruptions by outcasts, but the Kids carried on.

Sunday night, night of prayer. (Not saying just what the prayers consisted of.) Then showers were had by all, and they washed their sins away. On this night, the girls decided to catch up on the sleep they had lost by attending the many functions.

Monday. One week had passed, but the girls were still going strong. Norma, still moving around; Dottie, acting as moving van; Mike performing a short while, telling varied stories. Helene furnished the girls with refreshments of cake and cokes—a night well spent.

Tuesday night. Freedom at last! Golly, what can these girls do with themselves? Have a liberty party, of course which later developed into a rambunctious party at the "Rec Center."

The week having been well spent, the Campused Kids wish to express their appreciation to those who were so kind as to run errands after hours.

Signed,
The Campused Kids

Dear Editor:

You know the pathetic situation that confronts our physical education program at U. of T.?

I'm speaking of the playing field that is available to the physical education classes and the intramural football teams.

When the State Fair and the Royal American Shows are not using the parking lot the U. of T. is "privileged" to play on the hard ground. Our boys are not only compelled to use these grounds but they have to clean them up after the shows have moved.

When this parking lot is not available they have to play in the street or not at all.

With the huge space of Plant Field in easy reach why are they not allowed to use this field? They did last year.

I have heard that the boys would even be glad to get to play on the parking lot at Phillip's Field.

The showers and dressing rooms here are even worse than the well-known "hole" at Jefferson Hi. This is indeed a mighty peculiar way to promote any physical education training.

If Freshman P.T. is required the least the school could do would be to make an honest attempt to supply the necessary materials.

Paul Weesner.

Editor's Note:

My cuts and bruises authorize me to make the following statement. "I am well aware of the pathetic situation that confronts our physical education program here at the University but the question that is of supreme importance is not the awareness of the situation but what is to be done to remedy it."

The trouble with some of the students is that they are forever comparing the University of Tampa with other well established universities and colleges of the same classification. To those of you who desire to compare and not understand, I would suggest that you read "University on a Shoestring," by Thorp McClusky. This article will enlighten those few of you to our many needs and the plans that we have for correcting them. This article will be found in the University library.

The use of Plant Field is a wonderful idea. As I understand it, the field was opened to the University last year, but the students violated the trust of the management by destroying certain sections of the field. Therefore it is my belief that the students do not have the University to blame for this dilemma. The students themselves are to blame.

The Athletic Department is working daily to have our relationship with Plant Field restored to the previous level. They request that the students string along with them until these relations are renewed.

The Mineret

Gentlemen:

I imagine your publication is meant for student consumption exclusively, so it may be deemed presumptuous on the part of one who is not a member of your student body to offer any criticism on any article contained therein. But as I am firmly convinced the first duty of a free press (even a collegiate press) is to print the truth (as nearly as it can be ascertained), I am moved to this outburst against an otherwise splendid example of an intercollegiate press.

Where, oh where did Tom Plessner gather his facts concerning the famous Harry K. Thaw (not Thau) murder trial? Or has he been subsidized by the filthy lucre furnished by some of the principals in the case (or by their descendants — most of the principals are now dead) to conceal the true facts in the case? Of course not — I am only kidding — but here are the facts as near as I can remember. I was living in N. Y. at the time and well remember the sensation caused by the celebrated case.

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw did take the stand and her lurid testimony vividly reported by the "Yellow Press" at the time is what saved Harry K. Thaw from the electric chair.

Thaw did plead insanity. His lawyer, the celebrated Darrow, coined the word "brainstorm" in describing to the jury the state of mind that drove Thaw to commit murder!

Harry K. Thaw was not immediately freed. He was committed to Mattawean (I hope I've spelled it correctly), the N. Y. State Asylum for the criminally insane, from which he later escaped.

All of which may not seem important to the student mind — concerned as he is with the problems more vital to himself. But history should bear some resemblance to the truth (who was it that said history was the bunk?)

Perhaps you'd better see that your publication isn't accessible to the general public!

Yours for a free and fairly truthful press,

Louis Margolin

930 Twigg Street

P.S. Who coined the phrase, "much ado about nothing?"

SEAMAN Max Bagley, Ted Conover, Charlie Haynes, and Hugh Kelley visited the Million Dollar Pier last Sunday in Ted's boat. They decided to give the tourists a thrill, so they maneuvered the boat close to the dock and told Bagley to drop anchor.

EXPERIENCED sailor that he is, Max didn't lower the anchor all the way. No one knew this, however, and when the guys started jumping around and waving at the people—Oops!—wet guys and wet boat.

WELL, the tourists got a thrill anyway.

"IS THIS A HOSPITAL OR A HOTEL?"

MANY students have had that question put to them by visitors to the University. When classes are in session, the building could not be taken for anything but a university; but when it is practically deserted, the question is only one of natural curiosity.

WE all know that the University of Tampa is the University of Tampa. However, just put yourself in the place of a visitor.

THE branch-covered sign at the Lafayette St. entrance could easily be overlooked by a person intent upon gazing at the silver minarets. And there are no signs at either of the porch entrances.

THE erection of proper signs would involve little expense. What an opportunity for the senior class or any of the independent organizations to perform a worthwhile service. Guibbling groups, this is your chance to make good. . . . A golden opportunity for recognition. . . . Who will accomplish this feat first? . . . Who will be the first to think of erecting a sign over the brick pillars at the Lafayette St. entrance? . . . Who will be the first to act in erecting the other signs? . . . Keep your eyes open, and you'll see.

EVERYBODY'S giving cars away—why not the Alumni Association?

IF the alumni were to sponsor a drawing, close to $50,000 could be raised. This money is needed to augment our endowment fund, and, if the event is successful, it could be made an annual affair.

HUGH KELLEY, Broom Escobar, Ted Conover, and Sherwood Rawleigh attended a party recently at the Rome Avenue Recreation Center, in honor of out of town volleyball players who met in Tampa for a tournament.

SEVERAL girls from the deaf and blind school at St. Augustine were also present to represent their team. These four fellows, Kelley, Escobar, Conover, and Rawleigh, spent the entire evening dancing and playing ping pong with these girls.

I'M sure they don't want thanks or praise—they didn't even know that this item was to appear in The Mineret—but it's a sobering and pleasing thought to know that there are still some people with big hearts and a little consideration.

—LEONARD GOTLER

by the judges, the prizes were given to the ones receiving the loudest applause.

The winners: Dr. Laub, a shipwrecked, cherry nosed seaman in a sweatshirt, khaki pants, sun hat, cork life preserver, and holding in his left hand a stick with a torn undershirt to act as his distress signal; Mike Royer, a south sea beauty in an eye-catching sa,sa, sarong and a cluster of fragrant flowers in her fair hair.

TIRED

While resting before getting underway again, I thought I saw Lee Wester, inside a regulation form fitting sailor suit—yeoman third class, dancing with Irv Elkins.

Becoming lachrymose in my cups, I offered my heartfelt sympathies to the poor Delta Kappa girls who had to pull a watch while every one else was having a swell time.

The evening was about to draw to a close when several members of the Mexican football team (Colegio Militar) decided to make "Davey's Kavern" a port of call. I don't know if Glenn Massey is able to speak Spanish, but she seemed to enjoy dancing with our South of the Border visitors.

Just as I saw Julian Keating and Valentino Ficco, someone said something about a charming brunette selling kisses for a dime. I was never able to find out who, but I think Denver Blanco will be able to give the name of the dame.

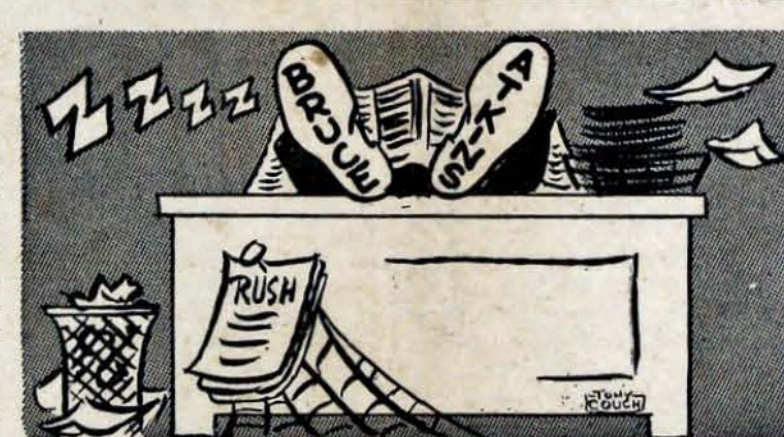

EXPLANATIONS

Being a somewhat shy and retiring young gentleman and having social complexes, I am unable to meet people, so please don't feel that I have neglected you in not mentioning your names.

There I go thinking about my troubles. Guess I had better see intern Joe Walker and nurse Helen Gilliam for a sedative. (They thought their love of medicine made them immune to romance.)

Never again your substitute society reporter,

Val Ripley

HERE AND THERE

The question of the week is should we or shouldn't we accept some form of a proposed governing system to be elected by the student body for student government. The student senate has drafted the proposed amendments to article five the Judicial Powers of the Student Senate, and they should be up before the student for voting before very long. These amendments are for the benefit of the student body and offer a balance of power to the student senate. This is one amendment that we should give our wholehearted support to and when voting time arrives vote yes.

Went over to Lake Wales the other day to see a beauty contest, and what a beauty contest, forty one beautiful girls including our own Mike Royer and Helen Gilliam, who traveled all the way from dear old U. of T. to represent us in the Tangerine contest. Also present were the state of Florida's able U.S. senators, Claude Pepper and Spessard Holland. Turning pink in the beautiful Florida Sun was Dick Pope from over Cypress Gardens way; too bad the Cameramen at a beauty contest can't ever see any further than the nearest pair of legs.

OH WELL.

WILLIES IN OUR NILLES

Found out a piece of information that should put me on a slab in the nearest morgue if certain parties found out what I got by looking through this an that, which goes to prove that ya can't judge a book by it's cover. . . . Persons are forever trying to destroy someone else's property. Looked in on the mens' washroom the other day and someone had deliberately broken the light bulbs in the sockets and left the broken bulb in the socket. . . . Here at U. of T. where the school is small and the people big, I often wonder why we don't get bigger and I always find the same answer even though we have big hearts we seem a little low on elbow grease. . . . Try to give some people an even break and they try to break you. . . . No matter how tough the breaks seem listen to some one else's troubles for a while, and your side of the fence seems plenty green. . . . Too bad some of the local gossips don't try cleaning their own wash first. . . . People who speak evil of another person without having lived with them for at least ten years shouldn't. . . . People who gossip to you about other people, brother you should hear what they say about you. . . .

One of the University's newest professors is Dr. Roy E. Geeting, who assumed his duties as associate professor of accounting this fall.

Dr. Geeting came here from Edison Junior College in Fort Myers, Fla., where he taught accounting. Over a period of years he has taught in a number of colleges, including Ohio Northern in Ada, O., and Bethel College in Newton, Kan., deviating from his teaching for only a short time when he entered government service to assist in the Research and Planning of the National Recovery Administration.

Teaching is and always has been of the greatest interest to me," says Dr. Geeting, as is evident from his previous posts. And as to confirm this declaration, he married a schoolmarm!

Ohio is Dr. Geeting's home state. However, for the last eight years he has lived in Florida, of his own volition. He is a member of both the American Economics Association and the Southern Economics Association, and was active in the Rotary Club in Fort Myers.

Dr. Geeting attended Miami University in Oxford, O., and upon receiving the bachelor of science degree he entered the University of Michigan to continue his studies. He received the master of arts degree from the University of Michigan and the degree of doctor of philosophy from Ohio State University.

Dr. and Mrs. Geeting have taken a house at 6711 W. Adams St. They have a daughter, Emily Chain, who is attending Florida State University in Tallahassee.

PROF. GRACE

Hobart Theodore Grace, assistant professor of geology, geography and general science, has been a member of the faculty since July of this year.

After attending the State Teachers College at Florence, Ala., where he served as president of the student body, he studied at Alabama Polytechnic Institute for two years, majoring in business administration and cost accounting.

At George Peabody College for Teachers in Nashville, Tenn., he majored in geography with Dr. E. A. Parkins, internationally known authority on geography and geology. After receiving his master's degree he attended Columbia University for work on his doctorate.

Along with an interest in civic affairs which led him to be a delegate to two Rotary International conventions, Professor Grace has traveled extensively in the United States, Canada, Mexico and the Caribbean area in connection with his studies.

With geography as his chief teaching interest, he is delighted to see that many colleges are today recognizing the importance of that subject in relation to world problems.

During his career he has served as athletic director, coach, high school principal and superintendent of schools. He is interested in Boy Scout work, and two of his hobbies are stamp collecting and chess.

Professor Grace's wife, the former Martha Henderson of Enterprise, Ala., was a music director for several years. She plays the violin, organ and piano.

Professor and Mrs. Grace and their two children, Martha Ann and Teddy, Jr., live at 714 S. Delaware Ave.

PROF. ROBERTS

G. Lawrence Roberts, our new assistant professor of business administration, is a native of true Yankee country.

Born and reared in Rockport, Mass., he became a devotee of sailboat racing and skiing, and specialized in racing the internationally famous Star class sailboat. Being a member of the International Star Class Yachting Association and the owner of a Star boat would naturally make the boat his "first love," but Professor Roberts has other varied and equally interesting hobbies, such as amateur radio. He built his own "ham" radio outfit.

Professor Roberts completed his undergraduate work at Boston University in 1942, and prior to entering the Army was a field representative of the Radio Corporation of America in its electrical appliance department. He was also a free lance advertising writer for some time.

After termination of his Army service Professor Roberts resumed his studies at Boston University and completed requirements for the master of education degree, which he received in 1948.

Welcome to our University, Professor Roberts.

The Squirrel Cage Or The 'Otter' Guy Did

By Jim Carley

Dog bites man, no news; man bites dog, that's new, and just another way to get into this story—which has nothing to do with dogs or with men that go around biting dogs. Why would anyone bite a dog? Would you bite a dog? How do dogs feel about such actions on the part of man? Dog biting could end up by being investigated by a Senate Committee. "Are you now, or have you ever been a member of the dog biting sect?"

As it has been said before, there are no dogs in this story. But we do have otters. That was not meant to be a pun; it's otters, o-t-t-e-r-s. Not just any otter, but a college otter that has a keen news sense and school spirit. The hero is a 30 pound otter that attends Florida Southern College in Lakeland. Here is the tale of the otter.

This educated otter left his home in Lake Hollingsworth one day and decided to get his college some space in some paper; a column maybe, in any paper at all. Little did he dream that his actions would net his school Associated Press notice, but it did. Anyway, this otter—let's call him Ot—crawled out of the lake and gave chase to the first man he saw. Brother, that is news. With cries of Tally Ho, Ot made for his first victim, whose name happened to be Adam Byrd, a ground employee at the college. Adam Byrd was Ot's first and last victim, for Adam bravely upheld the integrity of the human race and chased Ot back into the lake. But only after Ot had put up a good fight.

There may be some question as to the standing of Ot as a college student. The only reply to such a question is this: He, Ot that is, was on the campus wasn't he? Maybe that doesn't make him a student, but he was exposed to higher education, and, because of that, deserves the title of college otter. But what school spirit Ot had, what a news sense, what a what bravery, what gall. Look what Ot did for Mr. Byrd, his victim. It was another first for an Adam Byrd had been chased by a college otter. And look what Ot did for Florida Southern; they got AP space, probably UP space—and, well no telling what the word-of-mouth campaign has done, but Ot may have grown to be a sea monster because of it.

If by this time you aren't mumbly to yourself, so what, you should be. So what, you say. Tell me, what do the otters (squirrels, rather) here at the University of Tampa do? Do they ever show inclination to chase ground employees, students, or our coeds? Do they ever show school spirit in any way? Absolutely not! They sit or run about, and wait for some "otter" guy to do something; sit and wait for some other guy to do something about showing a little school spirit, wait for some other squirrel to make the first step. They sit and eat, and eat, and eat. They are the "eatest" squirrels ever seen by man. And man (that's us) continues to feed them, perhaps in the vain hope of setting some spark going so that some day they will play an active part in the University and show a little interest. After all, they are on the campus.

Something must be done about this otter versus squirrel, and the manner in which each shows school spirit. Those four legged residents of Plant Park must be made to realize that, as college squirrels, they must act as such. The squirrels of the University of Tampa must be noticed by the AP, the UP, and others (there must be more). Quick action is necessary. Another lean month like October, and the squirrels will be but a memory. Squirrels, squirrels, squirrels. Hey Mac, gotta dime for a bag of peanuts?

The first intercollegiate football game was played between Princeton and Rutgers on Nov. 6, 1869.

The name of the mystery tune is "Mary Dawson". Any contributions to the Student Fund will be greatly appreciated.

A Shipwrecked Sailor And The Delta Kappa Dance

The wind and seas had abated, once more everything was calm and I took cognizance of where the tempest-lashed seas had placed this battered and beaten hulk. "Davey's Kavern" a substitute for "Fiddlers Green" on earth.

Music as furnished by Milt Beedingfield and his band more than compensated for the hardships endured in reaching the "Shipwreck Dance" at "Davey's Kavern."

Like all tried and true sailors, as soon as I could get someone to dance with my date, I headed for the refreshment bar. On my way over, I glanced in an open passageway and there stood Skipper Ted Conover attired in a black dinner jacket white shirt with a bright scotch plaid bow tie, tan boots and bathing trunks. Arline Fetzer, standing beside him, was dressed in knee length pinked dungarees and a beautiful spanking clean blouse.

NAVIGATING

Continuing on my way across the dance deck, I noticed little girl fishes (by their eyelashes) and sea horses where there were no red and white treamers hanging. Boy, am I thirsty, will I be able to navigate over to the bar?

What is that gleam of light? Is it the range light for the bar? My mistake—it's Katie Sible, dressed in a long flannel night shirt, making John Dec of Orlando, Fla., carry her lighted candle. (Does this mean that he is carrying the torch, both figuratively and literally?)

Clearing my way through a group of barnacled old timers, I noticed off to my starboard a neat and trim craft called Elizabeth Ingalls clothed in an off, off the should'el sari.

BARFLY

At long last some liquid refreshment. In hoisting my drink up to the hatch, I noticed a golden earring. To my regret, it was not a mermaid but Manny Suarez.

Placing the empty ginger ale glass on the bar and looking to the portside, I saw Chief Mate Winnie Lamb wearing his gold braid hat and dangling from his belt in place of the bull whip, an 18 inch pig sticker (knife).

Backing water hastily away from the bar and toting my date's drink, I collided with tug Cap'n Dick Saxon. Dick, as usual, was setting forth to give assistance to one of the University of Tampa students who was in a little hot water.

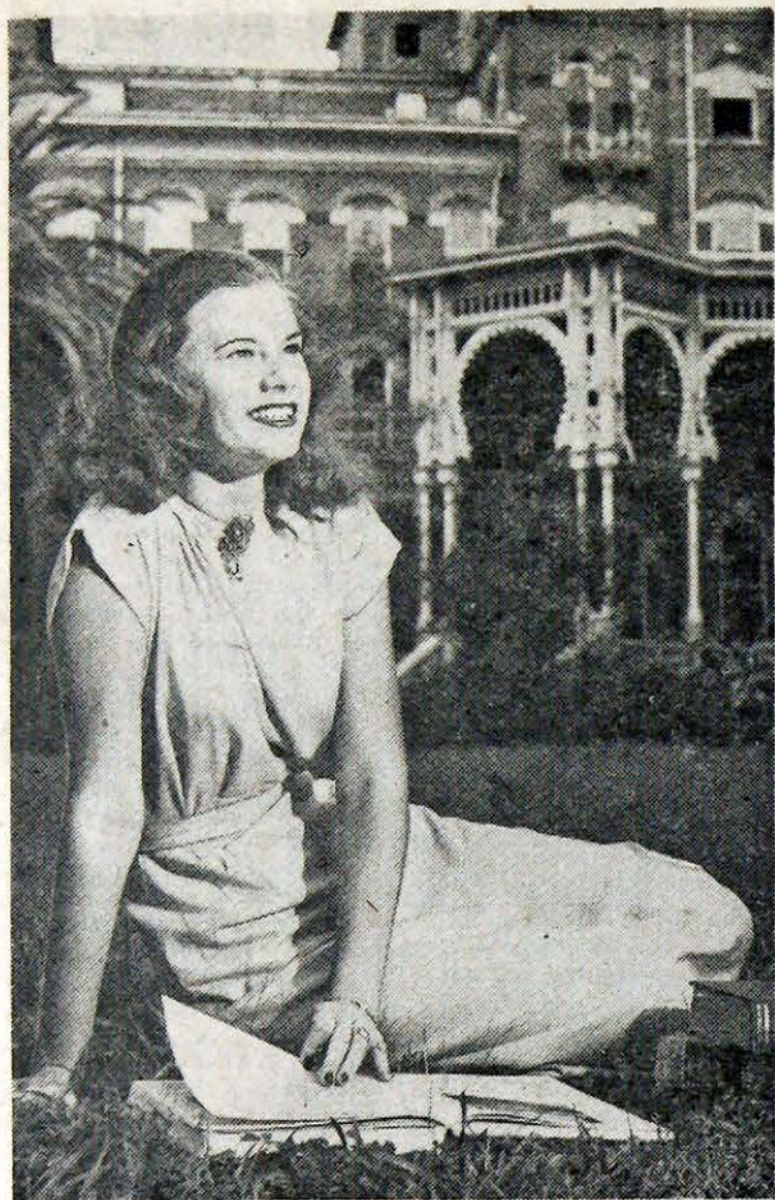

INTERMISSION

Intermission? It couldn't be. I hadn't been at the bar that long. Curses, how time flies. Speaking of making knots, practically every one had deserted the joint.

Back from a quickie (quick bite) at some tavern in Tampa, I finally cornered Pat Musto in his tattered and torn garments. Pat was carrying around a large board with a funny shaped round hole in it. He said it was salvaged goods, but to me it appeared to be something that the spring flood tides had brought from inland.

In choosing the best costumes, the contestants promenaded around that Esmeralda while the judges, Mr. and Mrs. Leo O'Hara, Miss Marcela Hanley and Miss Thelma Jones, excluded all except the most original ones. After the elimination

HELEN GILLIAM

Gilliam - Walker
Campus Romance

Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Gilliam, of Memphis, Tenn., wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen Gilliam, to Joseph Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Walker, of Cincinnati, Ohio.

The above announcement will soon appear in the local newspapers of Tampa and in the daily publications of Memphis, Tennessee and Cincinnati, Ohio, but The MINARET will be the first to make public the engagement of two of the University's own students.

The wedding of Helen and Joe will not come as a great surprise to their friends. They have made

Williams-Arnold
Married Nov. 5

In a ceremony on Nov. 5 at the Episcopal House of Prayer, Miss Rosemarie Williams became the bride of John David Arnold with the Rev. Charles E. Wood officiating. Preceding the ceremony a program of nuptial music was presented by Tony Gonzales.

The bride, who formerly attended the University of Tampa, is the daughter of Mrs. Walker Lyon of Jacksonville. The bridegroom, a student of the University, is the son of Mrs. Margaret Arnold of Tampa.

The bride wore a gown of frosted organza made with a net yoke and sleeves of nylon illusion. Her veil was of illusion, falling from a crown of lilies of the valley, and she carried a prayer book sprayed with white orchids and tea roses.

Mrs. Annette Stearns attended as matron of honor, wearing a gown of yellow satin brocade and a short illusion veil.

J. P. Doyle gave his granddaughter in marriage, and Reginald L. Woody was best man. Ushers were Charles Cohen and William Thornton.

The couple will reside at 405 1/2 E. Gladys.

Two Hundred Couples
Dance At STP Ball

By Marjorie Oglesby

Friday evening, Nov. 26, the Sigma Theta Phi Sorority held its annual Holiday Ball at the Forest Hills Country Club. The dance was a huge success with approximately two hundred couples of holiday merry-makers present.

After the dance, a breakfast was held at Forest Hills for sorority members and dates. Honored guests at the breakfast were Miss T. Jones, Miss M. Hanley, and Miss C. Thompson. There were several other guests invited, including Viny, Meli, Ricky Husslein, and Fred Hogan.

The Sigma Theta Phi Alumnae are completing plans for a Christmas Party to be given for the members sometime during the Christmas holidays. Assisting the alumna committee in arranging for the party are Miss Joan Schwab and Miss Marjorie Oglesby. A grand time will no doubt be had by all.

The Sigma Theta Phi Sorority would like to take this opportunity to thank the following boys for assisting in the decoration of the Forest Hills Country Club for the dance: Walter Rapaport, Buddy Jenkins, Viny Meli, Credo Schwab, and Walter Douglas.

Newman Club
Dances And Roasts

Members of the Newman Club at the University of Tampa honored the Newman Club of Southern University, Lakeland, Fla., Nov. 24 with a weiner roast and a dance.

The students from both schools gathered in the lobby of the University at 6:45 P. M. and they then drove out to the Knights of Columbus Hall, located at Columbus Drive and Central Avenue, where the party was given.

A color scheme of red and white, Lakeland's colors, prevailed throughout the rooms. Those in charge of the decorations were: Mary Carmen Sheridan, Marcella Moran, Eddy Cory, and Raymond Sultenfuss.

Chaperoned by Prof. and Mrs. Leo O'Hare, and the Rev. Father Mallen, everyone seemed to enjoy himself.

Tommy Williams, Student Has Several Radio Shows

by Mickey Tagliarini

Let me introduce to you one of the University's most talented and successful students, Tommy Williams.

Tommy is called "The Man of 1000 Songs", and if you will listen to his new "Sing me a Song" program on Thursday nights, you will readily understand why. Tommy has a private phone, beside him in the studio, over which he receives requests for any number you may think of. You don't have to listen for your telephone to ring. Just pick up the phone in your own living room and dial M-2230 any Thursday night at 10:30 P. M., make a request for your favorite number, and then sit back to listen to the smooth, mellow voice of Tommy Williams, sing it especially for you. Upon receiving your call, Tommy goes into the song immediately, accompanying himself on the guitar. The program, of course, is entirely unrehearsed, and to handle such a program is understandably quite a feat.

The program is sponsored by the Club Chateau, where Tommy appears nightly during the dinner hour, from 8 o'clock to 10:30. He also appears on other local programs, one of which is over WALT at 5:05 on Saturday afternoons.

About three years ago, Tommy, already a successful radio and nightclub singer, tired of the Northern Climes, and began to cast about for a suitable place in Florida for his wife, himself and their young daughter. After thorough consideration and checking, he chose Tampa as the most promising city in Florida. Although he had ambition to attend college at that time, it was not until this fall that Tommy finally started classes.

Asked about his candid opinion of Tampa, compared to his former homes, Tommy gave this reply.

"Frankly, I don't care for the big Eastern cities, of New York, Boston, or Chicago, I have lived in various parts of the United States, even California. In Santa Monica I appeared at the Miramar Hotel, and I have made other appearances in Los Angeles and Hollywood. However, I am very much impressed and well satisfied with Florida, and especially Tampa. I find the people friendly, enterprising, and broadminded. One thing struck me immediately though, and that was the lack of enthusiasm and backing the people show for this, their hometown University, although I understand that this support is improving."

So it appears that Tampa has one more talented and permanent resident. At least, let us hope so.

Tommy is a G. I. student here, having joined the Army in early 1942. He was in the Special Service Dept. with the 1st Army Headquarters Group, where he led his own band. It was during this time that he first became so vitally interested in television. Although he started this semester as a music major, Tommy has had to change plans because of conflict with his radio programs. As soon as thereore making b radio programs.

As soon as the record making ban is lifted, which Tommy thinks will be soon, he will be making platters for Mercury. So look for the name Tommy Williams on new releases, and he may give you a personally autographed record for your collection.

Here's a salute to one more ambitious student of the University of Tampa, with the best of everything for his future.

Then — and
— Now

by Max W. Bagley

Often students are reminded that the same building which now houses the University of Tampa was once the proud and glorious home of the Plant Hotel.

Naturally the students are curious to know the true story about the great hotel that played such an important part in the life of Tampa in the early 1900's.

When searching for information about the life of the hotel, the students are usually referred to the libraries, where they are presented with cold, hard facts. These facts do not give the "every-day living" phase of the hotel. They do not mention the personnel, who were really the backbone of the hotel, nor do they tell from whence they came or what their many duties were.

Your reporter was fortunate enough to have a conversation with a former employee of the hotel who is now a member of the janitorial staff of the University. His name is James K. Smith, and he is really the link between our present school and the life of the old hotel.

James Smith was born in Charleston, S. Carolina, in 1892, and after graduating from the University of Atlanta Georgia, decided to journey to the big city of New York to seek employment.

In the year 1900, James Smith, along with others, was employed by Mr. Sol Lauber, personnel manager of the Plant Hotel in Tampa, Florida. The group travelled to Tampa by way of the Plant system, another holding of the industrious Mr. Plant.

James describes the city of Tampa in an intensely different fashion than would a visitor entering Tampa for the first time today. The train was a section of the privately owned Plant System. It was routed from New York City directly to the real porch of the hotel. The only bridge at that time for railroad traffic was the one across the upper Hillsborough River. The Lafayette Bridge, which we know so well, was a wooden bridge in those days, suitable for pedestrians only.

Alpha Mu Tau Fries Fish
In Honor Of Music Majors

The Alpha Mu Tau, honorary music sorority, gave a fish fry party for the new music majors and minors Wednesday, Nov. 17, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Donnelly on Davis Island.

After the fish fry in the yard, an informal program was given by some of the sorority members and music majors.

Vocalists included the Misses Jean and Joyce Wiltse and Betty Trimble, who sang two trio numbers; Georgia Reed sang "Un Bel Di" from "Madame Butterfly"; Shirley Roosevelt sang "The Lass With the Delicate Air" and Jo Ann Hall sang "Alice Blue Gown". The program continued with Betty Trimble singing "When Love Is Kind". The singers were accompanied by Prof. Lyman Wiltse and Stephen F. Park.

Angelina Ochipint, pianist, played

Lafayette St. as well as other streets surrounding the hotel, was merely a country road. The hotel was the only building of commercial importance in the vicinity, and the sites now occupied by the Crescent and Embassy apartments were vacant wooded sections. The Municipal Auditorium was unheard of.

The hotel was really out of this world; incidentally, the prices were $30 a day and up. The lobby had a wonderful plush carpet that covered the interior and drapery hung from every window. The bell-boy crew, of which James was a member, had their stand under the stairway, and the desk was located where the lobby phone is now. Each door was sprinkled with "gold dust".

The section of the hotel now occupied by the library was the cafeteria, and the chemical laboratories were the kitchen. The large brick fountain located in the park was the main power house and the small structure is the remnants of the hotel dock.

James said that the building was so large that he once became lost and the only way he found his way back to the lobby was through the help of an unknown friend.

Many important people were

"Malaguena" by Lecuona, and Harriet Mallard played "To A Water Lily" by McDonald. After the program, group singing continued.

Guests present were the Misses Angelina Ochipint, Charlotte Dean, Ruby Cowley, Thelma Ruth Jones, Shirley Roosevelt, Georgia Reed, Harriet Mallard, Joyce Wiltse and Jo Ann Wurtz; Mrs. Barbara Jean Garber, Prof. and Mrs. Lyman Wiltse, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Donnelly, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen F. Park, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott, Mr. and Mrs. S. Oneed, Mrs. J. S. Mims, Mrs. E. C. Nance and Mrs. Glenna Hill Beynon.

Members present were: Dorothy James, Helen Dorman, Barbara O'Berry, Jo Ann Hall, Betty Owen, Betty Trimble, Jean Wiltse, Peggy Mayo and Radelyn Boyd.

guests in the hotel, the most famous of whom was Teddy Roosevelt.

James was questioned about Teddy Roosevelt and the Rough Riders who stayed here at the hotel during the Spanish American War. James said that he remembered the occasion very well. The soldiers took a great many liberties and made many jokes at the expense of everyone. As for Teddy, he was swell in every respect and kept his men in line in most matters of importance.

The Rough Riders were a cavalry unit, and the question arose as to where the horses were to be kept during the quartering of the troops in Tampa.

James could have gone on and on relating incident after incident, but as time would not allow it, we had to discontinue our memory period until some future date. We trust that in some way we have tied together the two lives of the hotel in an understanding manner.

There are 44 public school in Tampa.

BSU Banquet Guests
At Baptist Church

Members of the Baptist Student Union were guests at a Thanksgiving banquet Nov. 23, at the First Baptist Church.

Special guest of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbanks, of the First Baptist Church, and Prof. and Mrs. Webb. A short group sing, which preceded the dinner, was followed by Mr. Wilbanks' and Prof. Webb's opening speeches. After a short "thank you" toast by Bob Hancock, Thelma Ruth Jones sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Deloris Patric, president of the Club, after a brief speech, entertained the group with a monologue entitled, "For The Love of Johnny." Group singing closed the banquet.

After the banquet, officers of the BSU served as ushers at Dr. Poling's address in the Municipal Auditorium. Ushers were: Thelma Jones, Ruby Cowley, Deloris Patric, and Betty Williams.
