

Minaret Cracks Down On Student Senate

House Of Representatives Could Help Senate And You

By Val Ripley

Desperately needed is a House of Representatives to supplement the Student Senate here at the University of Tampa.

The University has increased its enrollment over 222 percent since the original constitution was written; with a larger registration and increased self government by the Student Body, the executive council (Student Senate) has become antiquated.

Representation

For every 100 off campus students, (or fraction thereof) there should be elected one representative, and for every 50 dormitory students (or fraction thereof) there should be elected one representative. Each representative to be equal to one vote at the Student Council meetings. This will mean an addition of 14 members besides the regular Student Council members. Half of the legislative body to be elected in the winter, and the other half in the spring, for a full year term after the first elections.

The elections should coincide with the selection of class officers and representatives.

Functions

Numerous committees are needed to carry out the functions necessary for the welfare of the students. The members of the committees will be taken from the Student Senate (executive) and the House of Representatives (legislative).

The Student Council is over worked and under staffed, but with a House of Representatives, the tedious work can be fairly apportioned. Each committee will therefore be able to perform its duty without feeling any undue pressure.

BSU Hick Party Tonite At Ragan

At a recent meeting BSU members made plans for the coming year, one of which is to be a "hick" party at Ragan Park on Jan. 14. All students and their dates are invited to attend and are asked to wear "tacky" clothing, which may include slacks, dungarees, overalls, old shirts or sweaters, or anything suitable for the occasion. Those interested in having a lot of fun are urged to watch for further notices on the bulletin board for the exact time.

Carlin Likes Miss Law-- Her Acting, That Is, Heh-Heh

By Tom Carlin

Nothing in the world can be more refreshing than to watch a student actress present a performance so full of feeling and enthusiasm that the rest of the cast have trouble keeping their eyes from popping out on the stage. This Vivian Law has just what the playwright ordered—a real sense of drama, an instinctive knowledge of how an actress should act, and beauty, to boot. The Spartan Troupers aren't doing badly for themselves.

Vivian Law is playing Antigone in Antigone, a part Cornell played on Broadway, and a part which a multitude of women have played ever since it was written back in B.C.

There are nine excellent reasons why Antigone will be a tearing success. Those reasons are: Vivian Law, Frances Saxon, Bell Stalaker, Olga Rivera, Jim Carley, Joe Russo, George Cary, Andrew Martinez, Thom Magee.

That's the cast, some old faces, exerted to force them to an incisive conclusion.

Voice But No Vote

Every independent and every Greek organization should have one of their members attend the weekly meetings of the Student Council. These representatives should not have voting power, but they should have a voice (right to speak) at all meetings. Thus, practically everyone can be informed of pertinent matters that will be of interest to them.

Judicial Court

In conjunction with the House of Representatives, there should be a Judicial Court of at least 10 student body members, a student chancellor, and a faculty advisor.

The members of the Court would be duly elected by the students and the Chancellor would be chosen by the Student Council. The faculty advisor would be selected by the members of the faculty.

Candidates for the positions on the Court would have to qualify to certain set minimum standards much higher than those of other offices.

Court Function

The purpose of the Court is to help relieve the faculty and administration of matters concerning student misconduct.

The Court would investigate and give judgment in all cases of erring students except cheating. The matter of punishment for cheating should be left to the instructor's discretion.

Impact of Court

Whether it is realized or not, if a Judicial Court should happen to be put before the students and officially voted into existence, they will have made a very progressive and much needed step forward into the realm of self government.

It would also be a move forward in becoming conscientious members of a society in which each person fully realizes the obligations and benefits incurred by becoming an active member.

Action

These are not the ideas of any one person, but the thoughts of you, the Student Body, garnered from conversation.

Judicial Court, House of Representatives—these things cannot be unless you, the students, want them. The ideas presented are not to be construed as a finished product. Buttonhole any Student Council member and let them know that you think they should work on these ideas.

The Student Senate was surprised but recovered quickly as to pose for their picture. Pictured here (left to right) is Warren White, President of the Freshman class; Peggy Anderson, President of the Senior class; Bill Benson, President of the Sophomore class. Seated is Pat Waldrop, Representative of the Freshman class; and Dick Saxon, President of the Student of the Student Senate.

New Photo Club Has Future Here

By Denver Blanco

The Photo Club of the University has been organized by a group of students interested in the field of photography. They are willing to pool their knowledge for their own betterment and for the betterment of the University.

The Club can be a valuable asset to this institution by facilitating pictorial publicity at much lower cost and with speedier service.

Members of the club will be available to cover two or three different functions at the same time. Thus, all activities will have full coverage, not only for The Minaret and Moroccan, but also for newspapers and magazines that would give publicity to the "U".

With the proper facilities, training, and equipment, this group could eventually undertake all photographic work for the Minaret, Moroccan, and the Public Relations Office.

Deadline Nears For Teacher Exams

Saturday, Jan. 22, is the final date for filing applications for the National Teacher Examinations which will be administered at the University of Tampa the last two Saturdays in February.

The examinations are of two kinds, common and optional. For registered full-time students preparing to teach, the fees are: common examinations, $4; optional examinations (one or two), $1; common examinations and one or two optional examinations, $5.

Application blanks and materials may be obtained from Dr. Robert L. Mohr of the education department, who has charge of all arrangements.

Half-Way Hop New Frat Feature

Kappa Kappa Psi, honorary band fraternity, will sponsor a dance, the Half-Way Hop on Feb. 4, in the University Lobby. Admission will be fifty cents per person, and dress will be informal.

Additional information will be forthcoming in the next issue of The Minaret.

Deans Need Adequate Info If You Want Part-Time Job

Students who have obtained part-time jobs through the Faculty Committee on Part-Time Employment know how important it is to have adequate information about themselves on file in the offices of the Dean of Woman and the Dean of Men. For the benefit of those who would like to register for the second semester here are some suggestions:

First of all, men students seeking part-time work should register with Dean H. G. Baker, and women students desiring such employment should register with Dean Thelma E. Jones.

The offices of the Dean of Women and the Dean of Men are the record-keeping offices of the Faculty Committee on Part-Time Employment, whose other members are Mrs. Robbie E. Landry, Prof. Miller K. Adams, Dr. Roy A. Jones, Prof. Lawrence P. Geer, Prof. Lawrence G. Roberts and Public Relations Director James W. Whitehead.

Information needed from students when they register for part-time work includes address, telephone number, kind of work previously done and kind of work desired, and time available for work.

Any changes in "class schedule, address or telephone number should be reported promptly as often as such changes are made, since only if this is done will it be possible to arrange interviews quickly with prospective employers.

Often students who are registered obtain employment without any help from the faculty committee. When this happens, the student should notify the proper office to remove his name from the active file, in order that the University may not be put in the position of trying to place a student who is already employed and at the same time losing the opportunity of getting in touch with some other student for the job.

Since the number of students seeking employment usually exceeds the number of jobs available, the University will appreciate information about job opportunities that students hear of and may not be able to apply for themselves.

Finally, when students are given appointments for interviews, they are urged to present themselves on time, and neatly dressed, also report the result of an interview promptly to the person by whom the interview was arranged.

Keller Tells Writers About Short Story

By Max W. Bagley

The Penwomen's Association of Tampa was entertained with a talk on the point of view of the short story, Monday afternoon, Dec. 10, by Prof. E. E. Keller.

Prof. Keller's talk was filled with workable devices and stimulating ideas on the handling of the main character of the story. The valuable principles of writing which he presented could apply to any type of writing. He placed emphasis on getting the main character over to the reader, as one would a single idea.

In a deft manner, he compared the stories of World War I writers with the writers of World War II. Meredith Nicholson, Edna Ferber, H. C. Witwer, Irvin Cobb, and others of the first war were discussed. He then visualized changing personality that World War II has produced in the present-day short story. Educational, sociological, and psychological conditions appear to be the great incentives for interesting plots.

Prof. Keller chose stories from the recently published slick magazines. He brought out the suspense tricks which the modern short story writer uses through the careful handling of the main character. He closed with a brief review of Agnes Smedley's "The Bishop's Mantle," leaving with his audience the encouraging words of the old bishop, at the end of the story, "Do not despair. Do not surrender to corroding doubt. Hang on."

To say the least, this address was highly entertaining, logically prepared, and ably delivered.

University For Democracy Today

The story of one man's fight for "a college non-sectarian and non-profit, dedicated to the betterment of all humanity through education, regardless of race, creed or color," is told in an article in the September issue of the Christian Herald.

Entitled "University on a Shoestring" and written by Thorp McClusky, the article describes the growth of the University of Tampa under the presidency of Dr. Ellwood C. Nance and of Dr. Nance's struggle for its development and recognition.

At the first meeting of the Student Senate following the Christmas vacation period, a three-man committee from The Minaret was on hand to ask the Senate what they had accomplished during the past semester.

The Minaret group was composed of Bruce Atkins and Leonard Gotler, Co-Editors, and Val Ripley, Copy Editor.

Senate members attending this meeting were Warren White, President of the Freshman Class, Pat Waldrop, Freshman Representative, Bill Benson, President of the Sophomore Class, Bob Hancock, Representative of the Junior Class, Peggy Anderson, President of the Senior Class, and Dick Saxon, President of the Student Body.

Members not attending were Owen Keene, Sophomore Representative, who was on duty with the National Guard at the Governor's inauguration in Tallahassee; Jerry Jackson, President of the Junior Class, who was working at the time of the meeting; Joan Schwab, Representative of the Senior Class, who, due to unforeseen circumstances had to work on the Moroccan and Larry Donahue, Representative of the Junior Class.

Spartoon Stomp At Country Club Tonite

Here it is, boys and girls, the dance that you have been waiting for. The Beta Chi's are starting the New Year off right by giving the Spartoon Stomp.

You may leave your tuxedo on the hanger and you don't have to worry about a tie or a stiff collar because the dress will be informal. As defined by the Pan Hellenic Council, informal means you may come as you like.

It will be held tonight, January 14, at 9:30 o'clock. For the first time this year it will be held at the Temple Terrace Country Club.

For those who don't know how to get to the country club, information may be procured from any Beta Chi member.

Admission to the dance will be by invitation only and individual invitations will be extended to all Greek lettered organizations.

Music will be furnished by a former Beta Chi member, Steve Solak and his band.

Chemistry Students Organize New Club

By Credo Schwab

Any one interested in becoming a member of the University of Tampa chemistry Society is requested to contact Credo Schwab as soon as possible.

This club is being organized by six advanced chemistry students with the hope that some time during the coming semester they will be able to become affiliated with the American Chemical Society as a student affiliate chapter. In the meantime, the organization will meet for the purpose of increasing our knowledge of chemistry through lectures and discussions of various branches of chemistry, both theoretical and industrial.

The six students of Physical Chemistry are at the present time engaged in some very interesting advanced experiments. James Leonard, Alice Brush, and Cipriano Cueto are performing an experiment on combining volumes of various gases, while Glen Philson and Credo Schwab are engaged in lengthy experiments on the atomic weight and specific heat of metals.

representative of the Senior Class, who was working.

The Minaret committee asked President Saxon to tell what individual members of the Senate had done during the past semester. After much deliberation, the Senate came forth with a frank and startling answer.

Waldrop has been grading placement tests, both at school and at home, and has done typing.

White has been grading papers and selling football tickets.

Keene has done the same thing.

Benson organized the Sophomore Class for the Freshman initiation period and has sold tickets, graded papers, and painted signs for the parking lot.

Hancock has graded papers, sold tickets, and headed committees.

Jackson has worked on the parking lot.

Schwab has sold tickets, graded papers, and is secretary to the Senate.

Donahue has worked two hours a day on the parking lot since the semester began.

Anderson has attended meetings and had her hands full with the Senior Class activities.

During Homecoming, the Senate worked unceasingly to make the occasion one of the best in the University's history. They have also been commended by Dean Rhodes for their splendid work during first semester registration.

Under the superb leadership of Dick Saxon, the Senate has accomplished more in this semester than in any previous year.

But still, there is a need for improvements in their activities concerning student functions. The parking lot situation has improved since the beginning of the semester, but it is still not satisfactory. A greater need for Student Body activity and interest is becoming more apparent every day.

If the Senate is guilty of any laxity or inactivity, it is the fault of the person pictured on page three.

Take European History, a friend told me,
Its the easiest subject you ever did see,
No notes to keep, no outside reference to seek,
Just a small objective test every two weeks,

Anticipating that it would be a cinch to pass,
I rushed to the library and signed up for the class,
The registering professor said with a gleeful tune,
"Have a nice rest; I'll be seeing you soon."

The following Monday, I headed for school,
Loaded with books, like an old ploughing mule,
Why fate made it so, it still is a mystery,
But my very first class, was European History,

I entered the classroom, and fell in a seat,
Slouched back in my chair and propped up my feet,
Time seemed to stand still, while I waited to see,
The Professor who had the job, of teaching History to me,

Finally he entered, with his book in one hand,
With a professional air he walked to his stand,
A hasty roll call, and we were on our way,
From Greece to Rome, the very first day.

At the end of the lecture, I sauntered out of the class,
I now had my doubts, whether or not I would pass,
How could I ever remember the things he did tell,
Half of the names I couldn't even spell.

Loaded with notes, I headed for home,
Hoping to decipher them, when I got them alone,
For six long hours the first night, I did toil,
I burnt up three gallons of midnight oil.

After the first eight weeks, one of my closest friends said,
You're as white as the sheets that lie on my bed,
It's no wonder, I had skin the color of a fairy,
I spent half of my life in the public library.

Finally the end of the semester arrived,
I pinched myself to see if I was still alive,
I mustered all my strength and took the final test,
If I had the time, I'd tell you the rest.

Up North we see posters, which emphatically display,
Florida's warm climate and its people at play,
Inspired by these ads we pack all our gear,
And head for the South where the weather is clear.

All snug in our Ford, down route one we do go,
As we enter old Virginia, we encounter some snow,
One consolation relieves our dismay,
Old sunny Florida is not far away.

Into Carolina we roll with the breeze,
All bundled in furs, so we don't freeze,
Beginning to wonder if we have the right route,
We are all put at ease, when we hear You All in a shout.

So onward we roll through another long day,
Eventually coming to Atlanta, Ga.
Not a sole is on the streets, not even a mouse,
The weather is so cold, they are all in their house.

At last in the distant, through the rain we can see,
A large arch with the faint letters F-R-and-a-R,
At last we can see the word in its entire,
And just as we do, we blow a rear tire.

So this is Florida, the land of the sun,
The place where you tan and have lots of fun,
One problem arises, that gets all our goats,
How the heck can we tan, wearing our overcoats?

What, Where, And When With SKN

By Credo Schwab

After a joyous holiday season, the members of the Sigma Kappa Nu Fraternity have returned to the campus with a serious pre-exam attitude. At a brief meeting held Tuesday, Jan. 4, at 11:30, plans were made to hold informal initiation on the evening of Jan. 28, James Mayo, Credo Schwab, Alex Kaiser, and Joe McAllister were placed on the committee to arrange something nice for the boys.

One of the most intelligent young members of the Sigma Kappa Nu Fraternity, Mr. James Ghiotto, has become engaged to Miss Elena Rivera, and the two will be betrothed on the evening of Jan. 29, 1949. This handsome, dark-eyed young man has become quite popular on the campus during his stay here, and I am sure that every one who knows him will join with us in wishing him the best of everything.

KSK Hancock Tells What's What

By Bob Hancock

The local chapter of Kappa Sigma Kappa is buzzing with excitement since the appointment of two University of Tampa boys to offices which govern fifty other chapters in the Southeast, Southwest, and central Provinces of K.S.K. Hugh Simmons was elected as Corresponding Secretary, and Bob Hancock was appointed Publicity Director for these provinces. Simmons also was the only Fla. Alpha delegate able to attend the convention held at Monticello, Ark., during the Christmas Holidays.

The end of another semester is rapidly approaching. This brings to a student's mind the thought of exams. However, to a fraternity man, it also has one bright point and that is PLEDGE INITIATION!! The pains of studying are eased by the wonderful pledges begging for mercy. There is never a word of sympathy or solace given to a lowly pledge because he is receiving exactly what he asked for

What's Wrong With Your School Spirit?

By Warren White

I cannot stress to you, the student, of the University of Tampa, the utmost importance of an awakening of our partially dead school spirit. Now, more than ever, we have a great obligation which we must fulfill, that of supporting our University in every way that we can.

In our Freshman year of college, we taste for the first time the New Life. We find that at our football games—the proud thrill of cheering our red, gold, and black on to victory. On the basketball ball court we watch our cagers run up the score against our foes. On the river we watch our gallant crewmen drive their shell across the finish marker. We watch our sluggers crack a three bagger into the left field bleachers as the momentous shout breaks the cool evening air. In fact, in the first year of our glorious comeback as one of Florida's leading contending Universities, we have done a top notch, excellent job, and I would like to express my appreciation to the ones who made it possible. By saluting our superb coaching staff of Mike Gaddis, Art Shouse, and Art Trubiano, along with the teams and many other silent contributors who have accomplished a very worth while goal—by elevating the true meaning of the word "Spartan" throughout conquered territory.

Now let us turn, for a moment, to another aspect of college life. One not as glamorous but equally important to Freshmen, Sophomores, and all of us. How much do we ourselves work to better the University in our class and social lives? When an announcement appears on the bulletin board which when he accepted a bid. Perhaps it will make a better man out of him. (Dead, that is!)

From anywhere north of Brooksville, east of Plant City, west of Clearwater, and south of Key West, pledges from Tampa may usually be found on the night of initiation. Their feet sometimes are worn to the ankle by the time they arrive back. Oh, well!!

There has been some talk about a Pan-Hellenic week with all Greek letter organizations taken a part. This would be a good way for the Independents of T. U. to become letter organizations taking a part. Greek letter organizations and their procedure. Some students are hesitant about joining one when issued a bid because they know absolutely nothing about such groups. It would also draw the Pan-Hellenic members closer together for better cooperation and school spirit. The local chapter of Kappa Sigma Kappa announced that it is in favor of it.

The Brother of the Week Award goes to Freddie. "Half-Pint" Alonso, the K.S.K. Intramural Basketball manager, for his directing an unorganized team to a win over the Ace Club, 27-21. "Half-pint" simply picked a team, gave them instruction, and when the final whistle had been blown, K.S.K. won the first basketball game played this season. During the 2nd quarter, Earl Hammond and Bob Hancock, both of K.S.K., collided in mid-air, which resulted in a broken left hand and wrist for Hancock. He probably will be out of action for the rest of the season.

clearly states "these will be a meeting of all Freshman Organization Officers," or "Moroccan pictures will be taken in the Rawlings Room between nine and five" of numerous others, how many of us show up, or how many of us stop to read the bulletin board? May I answer this for you? Not many.

When class meetings are called by officers, or when assemblies are presented for you, do you attend? Are you interested in the functions of the university or class? Some of us say, "of course"; yet at a Sophomore class meeting at the beginning of the semester, only 36 members attended out of a class of approximately 300. How can we, the students, attempt to better the establishment of a progressive university, if we can't move minor obstacles in our path? I call on you, each and every loyal student. Let's get behind our university and work for the betterment of the ideals which are so dear to all of us, in this great Democratic and free land, where we cut our own path through the wilderness of life, fall the timber of education, and build our fortress of knowledge and intelligence.

Psi Mu Alpha Initiates Nine

The honorary music fraternity, Psi Mu Alpha, will soon be celebrating their first anniversary.

Though actually not approved by the faculty committee until March 1, 1948, the group has been in existence since the beginning of that semester.

It all began when one of its most prominent members, Sam Castellana, approached Prof. Lyman Wiltse concerning the need for a general music fraternity. A group was chosen for Charter membership and Robert Gross was elected president; Sam Castellana, secretary, and Prof. Wiltse was appointed faculty advisor.

With the second pledging period completed, membership will include: Charles Bond, Sam Castellana, James Clark, Donald Covest, Ralph Diaz, Andy Fargo, Robert Gross, Robert Hancock, George Harford, Bob Koehler, Glenn McRae, Charles Nilsen, William Nunn, Patrick O'Brien, Karl Soderberg, Robert Thompson, Vincent Thornton and George Wagner.

Donations of books to the library, record concerts in the Rawlings Room, and special radio broadcasts are but a few of the many activities participated in by the club members.

Present officers are: Vincent Thornton, president; Sam Castellana, Vice-President; Patrick O'Brien, secretary; Andy Fargo, treasurer; Charles Bond, reporter.

Sales Director Talks To Business Leaders

Mr. Devereux Bacon, Director of Sales, Florida Portland Cement, spoke to the Future Business Leaders of America at the University last night, Thursday, Jan. 13.

Mr. Bacon attended the University of Georgia and was a member of the Class of 1927. He has been with the cement company for 21 years.

Howard Sypher, president of the Future Business Leaders, introduced Mr. Bacon. Mr. Bacon went on to explain how sales, expense accounts, and sales promotion are handled in such a concern as he is connected with.

"Salesmanship is prevalent everywhere," Mr. Bacon said. "Ministers must sell themselves to their people to put across their message better; attorneys must sell themselves to their clients as well as to the judge or jury."

"A salesman must know his product. He must have confidence in himself and in his house."

"When the salesman is aware that his prospective customer objects in some way to his product, it is necessary and fundamental that the salesman find common ground on which both can agree before starting his sales talk. If the price is right and product of good quality, chances of a sale are enhanced."

Mr. Bacon stressed that complaints should be handled the same way.

"Our company has found it necessary to do some reverse selling for at least the past three years. This situation has been caused by demand over supply. The organization has devoted much time to explaining to customers that it too is limited in supply, and is attempting to allocate shipments as fairly as possible." Mr. Bacon explained that this is necessary in many post-war enterprises.

Mrs. Waters To Get Degree With Grads

One of the familiar faces that will be missed around the University will be that of Mrs. Louise S. Waters, popular student assistant in the Spanish Dept. She will receive her B.A. Degree with the January class.

Mrs. Waters is a native Floridian, born in St. Augustine. She is the mother of three children, two of whom are also Floridians. Her mother, grandmother, and four grandsons were also born in this state.

At the age of 17, she began teaching, after having taken the state examination for certification. Her college career began at the University of Tampa when her children became of high school age. Mrs. Waters has attended summer school at the University of Florida and at Ohio Wesleyan University.

During the war she was employed by the government as a Spanish translator and Braille translator for the War Dept.

Mrs. Waters' plans for the future are indefinite. She has not decided whether to obtain a position in the teaching profession or to start work on her Master's Degree.

As Mrs. Waters leaves us, she will take with her the best wishes of every student.

Jan. 21 will be Arbor Day in Florida. The third Friday in January was designated as Arbor Day in this state by an act of the Legislature in 1945.

Background Story Coach Art Shouse

"I have a thirst for sports," says Arthur Shouse, who joined the ever-increasing staff of the University of Tampa last fall to assist in coaching our athletes for more and more victorious engagements on the gridiron.

Arthur Shouse was born at High Springs, Fla., about 150 miles north of Tampa, and was graduated from the high school there. With a desire for more knowledge he entered junior college at Monroe A&M in Monroe, Ga. At the completion of his course he returned to Florida to continue his studies at the University of Florida, in Gainesville, where he received the Bachelor of Arts Degree in 1935. He is now working on his Master's Degree at the University of Alabama when time permits, which is usually at the summer sessions.

During his college career he spent a great deal of time in athletic activities, football and baseball being major sports. He was a member of the F club and won the intercollegiate championship for heavyweights in boxing while attending the University of Florida. He feels that physical development and mental development are equally important, and that the fellowship and fair play learned in athletics are of tremendous value to the individual in later years. To sum it up, he has a great interest in sports—all sports.

Mr. Shouse came to the University not only to continue his coaching but also because of his keen interest in the school itself. He hopes that his efforts will add to the development of sports here at Tampa U.

Athletics is nothing new in the Shouse family. Arthur's father was an amateur baseball player for a number of years and was well known for his work on the diamond.

Swimming takes up most of his leisure hours these days, and although he spends a great deal of time at the beaches, in surf bathing and diving, he is partial to spring-fed lakes. This partiality stems from his early introduction to water in the springs surrounding his original home of High Springs, where, as a youngster he joined the gang in the old swimmin' holes during the hot summer months.

His first ambition in life was to become a professional baseball player, but as he progressed in school and took part in other sports he found that his interest included a myriad of athletic activities and in his junior year in college he decided to enter the field of coaching. Someday, he plans to enter business, or perhaps go into ranching and cattle raising—of course in Florida!

In 1936 Coach Shouse took his first position as coach of the Quincy High School in Quincy, Fla. He remained in Quincy through the year 1938-39 and then came to Tampa, where he was line coach at Hillsborough High School from 1939 to 1948, with the exception of four years spent in the Army and one year as coach at the Sebring High School in Sebring Fla. His duties at Tampa U. consist not only of line coaching but also of teaching football theory in the classroom.

Among his many other activities S., and 313 Masquers, will be responsible for correlating some forty-odd chapters into better organized provinces, thereby taking a great deal of work from the International Secretary, George R. Jefferson of Fairmont, W. Va.

One of Simmons' jobs will be to arrange conventions in each province. He will also have an opportunity to find out what other chapters are doing and thereby give the local chapter new ideas and programs to carry out.

Double Trouble . . .

These twin terrors, Harry and Avron Bryan, will spark the Spartan attack against the FSU Seminoles tomorrow night at Fort Hesterly. A thrilling game is promised. (See story).

Mr. Shouse has also managed to find time to write some magazine articles on football. In 1945 the Athletic Journal published one of his articles, and another appeared in the Scholastic Coach in 1947. Both magazines have a wide circulation among coaches in colleges and high schools.

The most exciting game coached by Mr. Shouse was between Quincy and Pensacola High Schools in 1938. The final score was 14 to 12, in favor of Quincy. It was the first victory for Quincy over Pensacola in 15 years. His most exciting game played was on the Florida team when that team played Georgia Tech in 1933. The score, 12 to 13. Florida won!

The Canadian fiscal year ends with March 31.

In 1930 the race horse Gallant Fox won $308,275.

The way basketball is played today, it is difficult to say how long a team can remain unbeaten. In the early part of the century, games were low score affairs because players engaged in scientific ball, using a good defense.

Today, however, coaches believe that a good offense is a good defense, and scores of games that soar over the century mark are not uncommon today. With that and the free substitution rule obeyed by universities today, all nine undefeated "fives" may have lost their perfect marks by the time this goes to press.

Two T.U. Students Get National Posts

The Kappa Sigma Kappa convention, held during the Christmas holidays in Arkansas, elected two University of Tampa students to important posts in the international fraternity, Hugh Simmons, Florida Alpha chapter delegate, reported today.

The convention, which was held at the Kappa chapter of Arkansas A&M college in Monticello, convened on Dec. 28, 29, & 30, of the past year.

The appointment of Director of Public Relations was given to Bob Hancock, well known T.U. orator and organizer, who for the past year has been public relations officer for the local chapter. Hancock, who is a member of the Student Senate, 313 Masquers, Spartan Troupers, Psi Mu Alpha, Alpha Psi Omega, Moroccan Staff, Whos' Who, B.S.U. Intra Murals, and announcer for U.B.S., will assume his duties on Jan. 15, of this year. As Director of Public Relations, he will be responsible for coordinating the social and public attractions sponsored by more than forty chapters in the Southwest, Southeast, and Central provinces of Kappa Sigma Kappa.

Hugh Simmons, who was recording secretary for the convention, was elected to fill the position of Corresponding Secretary of the Southeast, Southwest and Central provinces. Simmons, who was the official delegate to the convention for the Tampa U. chapter, and who is a member of the French Club, U. B.

Here's A Glance At Basketball Picture

By Irving Edelson

The American basketball picture of the 1948-49 season has barely aged a month, but already all except nine college teams have been eliminated from the undefeated select circle.

At the time that this story was written, the nine unbowed college quints are St. Louis, Western Kentucky, Villanova, Army, Minnesota, Cincinnati, Akron, Lawrence Tech, and Hamline.

The latest to lose prestige have been Duquesne, by way of Yale; Mississippi, with compliments of Buffalo, and North Carolina through the generosity of New York University.

St. Louis is the team that stopped the powerful and previously undefeated Kentucky Wildcats in the finals of the Sugar Bowl Tournament at New Orleans.

Other tournament winners up to this time have been Oklahoma over Drake in the Big Seven Tournament and California conquering Stanford to take the Pacific Coast elimination contests.

Last year's Associated Press lists five players as All-American. They include Beard, of Kentucky; Macaulay, of St. Louis; O'Shea, of Notre Dame; Wier, of Iowa; and McIntyre of Minnesota.

The top ten teams of last season were Kentucky, St. Louis, Holy Cross, Michigan, W. Kentucky, N. C. State, City College New York, Illinois, De Paul, and Baylor, in that order. Of 790 colleges in the U.S., Tampa U. rates 472 from the top.

The way basketball is played today, it is difficult to say how long a team can remain unbeaten. In the early part of the century, games were low score affairs because play-

Gaddis Scouts FSU-Stetson Game Tonight For Pointers

By Irving Edelson

Coach Mike Gaddis will leave this afternoon to scout the FSU-Stetson game in Deland in preparation for the U. of Tampa's meeting with the Seminoles at Ft. Hesterly tomorrow night.

The Tampa mentor hopes to be able to get enough "dope" on the game tonight so that he will have his boys adequately prepared to give the invaders from Tallahassee a hot reception on the Army court.

This contest promises to be a "grudge" affair, and there is good reason to believe that it will not be a "touch me not" affair. Both squads are expected to be in there fighting from the opening whistle till the final one.

There are three reasons which indicate that all ten men on the floor will go all out to win one way or another. The first factor is that both Tampa and Florida State University are favorites to win the Dixie Conference honors. Then there is the fact that the Spartans are eager to repay the visitors for the setback given to them when the Tampans were guests of the upstate football eleven last month.

The last cause of the predicted "heat" in tomorrow's hardwood highlight comes in the form of Lee Benjamin, FSU's leading scorer. Benjamin is formerly of Riddle International College and hails from Miami, the home of the Bryan boys. Lee and the two Bryans are engaged in scientific ball, using a good defense.

Today, however, coaches believe that a good offense is a good defense, and scores of games that soar over the century mark are not uncommon today. With that and the free substitution rule obeyed by universities today, all nine undefeated "fives" may have lost their perfect marks by the time this goes to press.
