21-10 Banquet Honors Administration Staff And Faculty Members

Seven members of the faculty and administration were presented scrolls in recognition of their unselfish and tireless efforts in behalf of the University of Tampa at a banquet given in their behalf last week at the Tampa Terrace Hotel Palm Room.

Dr. E. C. Nance, president and Dr. M. C. Rhodes, dean of administration were honored for their ten years of outstanding service to the institution. Dr. Nance became the president in 1944 and Dean Rhodes was appointed to his present position in 1943.

'1931' Professors Honored

Three original members of the first instructional staff of the university received inscribed scrolls commemorating their twenty-one years of loyalty and devotion. Receiving the scrolls were Dr. Guy Becknell, Rabbi David Zielonka and Prof. Louis Nava.

The remaining two honored guests, Miss Charlotte Anne Thompson and Prof. Reuben Webb became associated with the university in 1933 and also were given scrolls for their diligence, patience and

Dr. Martin I. J. Griffin was the principal speaker at the banquet, and compared the University of Tampa as it is now with that which the institution ought to be.

He said he believes the university should be the kind of a university which best satisfies the nature and the needs of man but that it should not pattern itself after the state universities.

Though the institution lacks many things, Dr. Griffin stated, and mentioned buildings, books, and courses, it did have many assets, the main ones being the trustees, faculty and student body.

He emphasized the point that the university was to lead and not to follow. In doing so, the professor said "We may be realistic enough to prevent man from experiencing his ape-like proclivity for knocking down that which he has build."

Also addressing those honored and the invited guests was Mr. Morris E. White, a prominent local attorney and a member of the Board of Trustees of the University of Tampa.

Relating an instance from his personal life during the lean depression days when his wife bought a table for their home rather than spending the money—he thought—more wisely, he said that this piece of furniture has become a "Faith Table" in their home and added "We still have it."

Mr. White stated that he wanted to assure those assembled that the Board of Trustees keeps a "Faith Table" in their hearts for the university, and that they have the greatest faith in the future progress, development and service of the university.

George Felke, President of the Student Body, expressed his feeling of honor at being the spokesman for the student body at Dr. Nance's Anniversary Dinner.

He remarked that he was amazed at the progress the University has made in recent years, which he noticed upon his return to the university from the service.

Mr. Felke expressed the gratitude of the entire student body for those men and women of the administration, faculty, board of trustees, and others who have made possible the building of the fine University we now have.

Dean M. C. Rhodes

1943 -

In recognition of his years of quiet service to the advancement of the University;

In recognition of his impeccable integrity in all his personal and professional relationships;

In recognition of the courtly and great dignity he has brought to his many difficult tasks of administration

And in expression of our affection for our colleague,

This Scholl is presented by his friends — Trustees, Faculty, Staff, Alumni and Students of the University.

May sixth, nineteen hundred and fifty-four.

Rabbi David L. Zielonka
1931 - 1954

As one of our Pioneers —
As a distinguished teacher —
As an adornment to the Rabbinate—
As one who has lent his energies to the well-being of his fellow-man—
As one who has brought urbanity and wisdom to his councilings—
And strength to his ministry —
As our friend —

We, your colleagues and students throughout the University, present this Scroll as a record of our affection and respect.

May sixth, nineteen hundred and fifty-four.

Dr. Guy G. Becknell
1931 -

In recognition of his pioneering heart in joining a young and untried experiment in education;

In recognition of the standards as a man and as a teacher which he has ever maintained;

In appreciation of his accomplishments in laboratory and library as teacher, scholar, cryptologist, and humanitarian;

And, finally, for his long hours of service to us all, we — the Trustees, faculty and alumni of the University of Tampa, record our appreciation and gratitude.

May sixth, nineteen hundred and fifty-four

Louis Alvarez-Nava y Vega
1931 -

Because he has expressed in his personality and in his bearing all that a cultured heritage can bring into the ideal of the gentleman;

Because he has in himself expressed the full flowering of Spanish literary culture;

Because he has taught his students not only to speak languages, but also to live life with dignity and grace;

And because we who have known him have thought better of ourselves and our fellow man after every meeting with him,

We, his friends, here express our gratitude that he has given so much of his life to the enrichment of all our lives, and to the welfare of our University.

May sixth, nineteen hundred and fifty-four

Miss Charlotte Anne Thompson
1933 - 1954

A book is only as useful as the care it gets;

A library is only as valuable as its librarian makes it.

A university is only as alive as its librarian.

Through our twenty-one years, Miss Charlotte Anne Thompson has built a few gift volumes into a live, useful, and resourceful library.

We, your colleagues and students, whose scholarship and learning have been built around the stacks which you have so energetically filled, record on this Scroll our gratitude for the years of your quiet, selfless service to us all.

May sixth, nineteen hundred and fifty-four

Reuben Webb
1933 -

Because of his painstaking devotion to his task as a teacher of the young;

Because of his zeal to bring the riches of Shakespeare to several generations of students;

Because his quiet bearing and punctilious courtesy have epitomized the finest qualities of the gentleman, the scholar, and the teacher,

We, his colleagues and his students, in affection "as deep as a well" and "as wide as a church-door," salute him on his, and the University's, twenty-first year.

The responsibility of selecting the leaders of the student body for the coming year falls upon the shoulders of the students today. Now is the time to ponder on the merits of each candidate, not in the fall or next spring. If the leadership fails to live up to the expectation of the voters, those casting their ballots have no one to criticize but themselves.

Voting is not an easy task. Popularity is pitted against experience. Organizations oppose Independents. Athletes versus non-athlete. A 'lone wolf' faces all the others combined. Friendship should have no place in politics. Neither should 'cliques' be allowed to sway an outsider's mind. The one thought that every student should have when he walks into the polls is, "Who can I be certain will represent me in the best manner, forgetting his own problems in order to care for the needs of those he pledged himself to work for?"

With all due respect to those candidates who are athletes, we can not heartily endorse their platform or urge that they be elected. We have two such men, both football players, who are running for the highest office on the campus, the president of the student body. A third does not participate in athletics. The most important phase of the school year is the fall semester. New students are entering school. Homecoming is very important. Social events and other activities need the personal supervision of the president, either directly or indirectly.

We ask the question, "How can the president be available for such programming, planning and participation if he is either in class or practicing football?" The answer may come back that work can be accomplished at other hours. True, but how many of the student body will be present to seek aid, advice or instruction?

Granted that the gridiron sport does not take up the entire year, but it does require the player to be active during the very busiest time of the year. As an example, we remind the student body that last year we had a football player as the president of the student body, Carl Cowden. A finer person we have never known. He was conscientious, sincere and a hard worker. But he was limited as to his effectiveness because of his conspicuous absence from the campus. Not because his heart was not in his campus responsibilities, but because he was required to be elsewhere when he should have been in his office.

Not only in the student body president race are we apt to put our better judgement aside and vote for a 'brother' or 'friend' but in all other races too. Class officers can either motivate the students together or they can scatter them apart throughout the majority of the members will never see the others until commencement day. There is no substitute for experience in leadership. Unconcern does not take the place of aggressiveness. Competence should be favored over inability.

Our last thought. Where have the candidates been for the past year? Have they shown active participation in student activities? Is it in the campus interest that they seek office or is it the attraction of the office? How many times previous to the election have the candidates offered themselves for student approval? Finally, would you be proud to introduce him as the man you voted for, no matter where you may be or what the occasion may be? Has he the ability to effectively represent the university if called upon to do so? And, be honest with yourself, are you firmly convinced that he is the man for the office? Is he suited for the office and is the office suited for him?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Fellow Students:

Before we stick our necks into the chopping block, let us carefully examine the text announcing the proposed Student Court. Is this a move toward better student relations, democracy, and a final solution to the parking problem and cheating situation?

To the best of my ability I cannot see how the individual student will profit as things are at the present announcement of the resolutions. I see a direct trend toward conspiracy behind closed doors, an inadequacy of student representation, and the beginning of an unending orgy of punishment of a minor segment of the violators.

We are about to put a large amount of our basic rights as students into the hands of a few. This power should not be placed in the hands of so few. It's a trend toward totalitarianism.

Let us agree that something in the form of the Court should be established to alleviate the parking and cheating problem. But we cannot afford at this stage to create such a veritable monster. Shall each student be placed on his or her honor to report to the Court any one suspected of cheating or parking violations. Is everyone to be a spy, sneak around, watch each other? Shall we call each other Comrade? How many of us are going to turn over our fellow student to the Court. Will the administration give us a citation? Certainly not. Therefore how can such a policy as the Court has proposed be effective? A cheat is not respected, but how much more is a stool-pigeon respected?

In a recent issue of the Minaret, a certain student made a report on the wonderful Honor System of the University of Florida. It is obvious that the student has never attended that University and actually seen the Honor System at work at exam times. This writer has and was not impressed one bit with the better known "dishonorable system." The Honor System stinks to high heaven; the Honor Court with all due respects to its members is a farce. Oh, yes, it makes a lot of parents feel a lot better, it gives professors an out when it comes to fingering out cheaters, it satisfies the deans whose eyes, ears, and mouths are sealed with the heavenly thought that we are on the honor system, our students can do no wrong. Bah, nuts.

This item also amuses me; the names of the students on trial will not be revealed and the court room proceedings will not be opened to the students. What are they trying to start, a junior sized N.K.V.D.? I thought only the reds went underground to persecute their victims. If trials are to be held, the student body should be welcomed. Secrecy and closed doors are not the American way. Let's be Americans and protect our rights; let's ask for some revisions before we put this demon into effect. As a whole the Court is a sound idea, but portions reek with a shade of dark pink. Maybe Tampa U. needs McCarthy.

Until the Revolution,
Fred Wysor

We spent some six months studying and reviewing the Court system of seventeen colleges in the south-east. All elements of the proposed court are found in at least half of those investigated with the remaining procedures taken from separate schools.

There is no compulsion on the part of any student to make a report on anyone else. No provisions are made for spies or secret informers. If the reader will examine the Court more carefully, he will learn to his amazement that the whole idea is based on the same principle that our regular law enforcement agencies and our civil and criminal courts were founded—you are innocent until proven guilty. It simply provides a means of relief to a student who feels he has been wronged by another student and can prove his allegations.

One other important item is, the court will have the responsibility of trying whether or not a charge of misconduct is actually a breach of the rules and regulations of the university and common decency. Granted that a 'cheat' is not respected and there is a 'stool-pigeon,' but is there any reason this university could have either of the two? However, if a choice must be made between the two—suppose a person should continuously slap you in the face. What would you do, (1) stand there without batting an eye, (2) ask him to stop or (3) force him to halt the uncalled for attack?

You are correct in stating that such a system would put the basic rights of a student into the hands of a few. Is there anything so drastically wrong about electing public officials to attend to our welfare—isn't that why we have elections so we will have someone to represent us? Should we dispose of the United States Congress, the State Legislatures, the County Governments, and the Municipal Powers for that same reason you do not approve of the proposed Student Court—the basic rights directed by a handful? Doesn't it appear logical that the character and welfare of a student who has been before the court and does not have his or her name made public is being protected from remarks whether those be good or bad? The idea of the court is not to make a spectacle of the cases which are brought before it, but rather to deal with the matter in a quiet manner which will not cause any embarrassment whatever the accused. Apparently you failed to read the section which allows the accused to have some one to represent him and no limitations are placed on the number of witnesses the accused may bring to trial with him. Not only does the prosecution have the right to question witnesses but the student on trial can cross-examine if he so chooses. Is there anything so unfair about that?

It runs true to form that you state 'Let's be Americans and protect our rights, let's ask for some revisions before we put this demon into effect. But what revisions or changes would you like to make? Perhaps you have devoted all your time thinking about the elements you disagree with and have no time left to present anything constructive.

We appreciate your comment that 'as a whole the Court is a sound idea', we do not agree with you about portions reeking with a shade of dark pink. If the Republicans do not ship McCarthy to Siberia or some other desolate place, invite your 'friend' down for an investigation. Perhaps we can secure the services of Dr. James Covington to act as our chief counsel.

One final thought—up to now it has been our belief that only 'comrades' awaited revolutions. Are we wrong? We wonder—after reading 'until the Revolution' at the close of your letter.

—Ed.

In a recent survey held by the SPCC (Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Cheaters), figures reveal the startling report that 89 per cent of the students who engaged in dishonest activities during exams are opposed to any honor court or honor system. Mr. Percival Q. Numliver, chairman of the committee in charge of the survey, stated that the percentage was extremely high. Quoted Mr. Numliver, "I did not expect the number to exceed 87 per cent."

The group conducted the survey at Jimmie White's where it received the testimony of many respectable Tampa U. students. Backing up her opposition to the proposed honor court, Miss Ima Cheeta, who was recently chosen Miss Fraternity Beach Party of 1954, replied, "I'm against the honor court because it will keep me from cheating."

Mr. I. Cribb quoted, "Under this system professors will have to stay in their classrooms during exams. This might seriously handicap my chances of passing my tests." Gladimir Plinkinwick, transfer student from Cuba, had this to say, "Mi Abuela usa pantalones rosados!" (We don't know what this means, but you must admit that it looks interesting.)

Other astonishing data shown in the Flimsey Report, as the survey is officially called, includes many other amazing bits of interesting trash. The survey reports that of the 89 per cent of the students who cheat, 88 per cent enjoy it. The Flimsey Report concludes that 69 per cent cheat only in courses that they receive credit for.

The recent wave of adolescent crime which has swept over the city of Tampa brings home the cold, hard fact that juvenile delinquency has reached alarming proportions in this area. How long will it be before gangs of young hoodlums will be terrorizing the entire community? It has happened in numerous cities. It can happen here.

According to the experts who have studied this problem, the solution lies, not in harsher laws, but in proper corrective measures taken while the child is young enough to profit from them. A good example of how not to apply these measures can be seen in our own Hillsborough County Juvenile Home. This institution is so sadly understaffed that no effort can be made to transform the youthful offenders into productive citizens. Many of these children come from broken homes. Some are from families so far down on the social ladder that they have never known what it is to sit down and eat supper as a family unit. Many have never had the experience of having an adult play with them. These children are not inherently bad.

Much could be accomplished simply by giving them the interest and affection they so badly need, and teaching them something about social values.

It is too much to hope for to expect our county commissioners to appropriate enough money to hire the needed trained personnel. However, something can be done.

An idea has been proposed, which if put into effect could bring about a practical, profitable solution to the problem.

Why not let University of Tampa students spend one afternoon a week at the Juvenile Home? These students could be drawn from those majoring in social science or physical education. The home can be reached in fifteen or twenty minutes from the University, and by arranging a systematic schedule, two or three students would be present the entire day. It has been found that college students are very effective in dealing with juveniles. They are usually at the age where children would tend to idolize them whereas they might take a hostile attitude toward an older person.

The time spent at the detention home could be regarded as a laboratory period carrying college credit.

If the administration can hand out credits for playing ball and dancing, it could certainly afford to do so for a project as worthwhile as this. For the student who participates the rewards would be varied; (1) college credit, (2) a tremendous amount of valuable practical experience in dealing with people, (3) the knowledge that he is helping his community, (4) the deep sense of personal satisfaction which comes from helping one of these pathetic children become a useful, well adjusted individual.

The University of Tampa has shown signs lately of becoming a progressive school. We are continually harping about serving the community. Let's quit talking and show them we mean it!

Candidates for Senior Class president are Robert Eustace and Clint Meadows. Eustace, who is editor of the Morocan this year, feels that the important thing is for all students to vote their choice so that elected officials will have the support of the entire student body.

He said, "The only way we can have a representative government is for each one of us to vote. Those elected can then serve with the knowledge that they were placed in dent," Eustace continued, "I feel office by their entire class, not by a small minority."

"As a candidate for Senior Presi-

Clint Meadows did not give a statement to the Minaret.

TEN COMMANDMENTS

(with apologies to Ernest Colwell)
From address by Dr. W. H. McEniry, to delegates at the Florida Student Government Association convention at Stetson University, Deland, Fla., April 2, 1954.

1. Thou shalt not stand for office and solicit the favor of fellow students excepting ye be qualified for the office sought, and motivated to it by a desire to serve.
2. Thou shalt not sit in the smoke filled rooms of fraternity houses or dormitories and barter thy souls for votes.
3. Thou shalt not deface thy campus with meaningless signs, nor pollute the air thereof with the empty fury of sound trucks.
4. Thou shalt not conduct a campaign on the charge that everyone else is and has been wrong, and the promise that you will fix everything. The charge may not be true, and the promise is very hard to keep.
5. Thou shalt not, once elected, retire from public view and all thought of government until such time as you emerge to supervise the election of your successors.
6. Thou shalt not retreat from responsibility with the excuse that the faculty and administration will do the job—for verily they will, and verily verily they should not.
7. Thou shalt determine that students govern themselves, and shall see to it that they understand the duties that are theirs in the campus community.
8. Thou shalt exert thyself to distinguish between vulgarity and freedom, and to establish on thy campus an atmosphere where free men and women can breathe without nausea.
9. Thou shalt accept the obligation of representing the electorate that chose you rather than the specific group that nominated you.
10. Thou shalt know in thy heart that it is better to lose on the side of freedom and democracy than to be elected in the name of demagoguery and slavery.

Two Proposed Constitutional Amendments

Art. II, Sect. IV now reads: Student Council whose membership shall consist of each university class president and one other elected member of Sophomore class, one from junior class and two others elected of the senior class.

The change desired by the Senate reads: Student Council whose membership shall consist of the president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer, and representatives of the freshman, sophomore and junior classes and the president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer, and two representatives from the senior class.

SECTION 1 — Judicial powers; wherein vested.

All judicial powers of the Student Body shall be vested in a Student Court composed of a Chancellor, a Prosecuting Attorney, a Clerk and seven Justices.

SECTION 2 — Composition of the Student Court.

1. The Chancellor, Prosecuting Attorney and Clerk shall be chosen for one year in the Spring Election by majority vote of the Student Body, using the single vote in such manner as shall be prescribed in the Laws of the Student Body.

2. The seven Justices shall be chosen for one year in the Spring Elections by plurality vote of their respective constituencies in the following apportionment: three seniors, two juniors, one sophomore, and one freshman.

3. The Chancellor, the Prosecuting Attorney, Clerk, and Justices shall be the members of the Student

Court and shall take office on the first Tuesday in April following their election. They may be removed from office by impeachment by the Student Council and conviction by the Student Court on charges of malfeasance, misfeasance, or nonfeasance in office.

4. The Dean of Men and the Dean of Women shall serve as faculty and administrative advisors, but shall have no vote in decisions handed down by the student court.

5. No student shall become a member of the Student Court who, at the time of his election, does not have a scholastic average of at least "C" for his total period as a member of the Student Body (exceeding two regular semesters) or a scholastic average of at least "B" for his two regular semesters as a member of the Student Body preceding his election, nor shall he during his term of office hold any other office of the Student Body, of any class, or of any subsidiary organization having a governmental function.

6. All vacancies occurring in the Student Court shall be filled by the President of the Student Body with confirmation by three-fourths of the Student Council members present, except in the case of the Chancellor, who shall be succeeded by the Prosecuting Attorney.

7. The Chancellor shall be President of the Student Court and shall vote only in penal cases, and he shall not vote in civil cases unless they be equally divided. He shall also sign all decrees of the Student Court and aid in promoting the success of the Student System.

8. The Prosecuting Attorney shall collect all witnesses, information, affidavits, exhibits, and sworn statements along with any other data he may deem necessary to prosecute the trial on the charges made before the court. He shall submit the case to the Court as soon as possible after the original charge has been made. He shall not have a vote in either penal cases nor civil cases so long as he retains his position as the Prosecuting Attorney. He shall automatically assume the office of the Chancellor should that office become vacated for any reason other than a temporary absence, at which time he shall vote under the same restrictions as the Chancellor and shall designate another member of the Student Court as pro tempore Prosecuting Attorney.

9. The Clerk shall keep the records of the Student Court, including all decrees, and shall have a vote in its proceedings. The Clerk shall also cause all decrees to be published on the official bulletin boards of the Student Body for a period of one month, notify all members of special meetings of the Student Court, deliver the permanent records of the Student Court into the hands of his successor, notify the Dean of Administration of all penalties imposed on students, and perform such other duties as the Student Court may prescribe.

10. In the absence of the Chancellor, the Prosecuting Attorney, and Clerk the Student Court shall designate from its membership those who shall serve as pro tempore

Chancellor, Prosecuting Attorney and Clerk.

SECTION 3 — Procedure.

1. The Student Court shall be sole judge of the Qualifications of its members, and a majority of the members present may with reason disqualify a member from sitting on a particular penal case, or he may with reason disqualify himself, pro-social fraternity brother, social sorority sister, or kinsman.

2. Five members shall constitute a quorum to try and determine cases, but a smaller number may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members in such manner and under such penalties as the Student Court may provide. Excessive disqualifications making it necessary, fewer than five members may constitute a quorum, provided in all cases there are enough sitting to render a Student Court decree effective. If all the qualified members are present and still are not enough to render a decree effective, the highest ranking qualified member shall be empowered to appoint with approval of the rest of the qualified members such additional pro tempore members as are necessary to render the decree of the Student Court effective. Under no other circumstances shall non-members of the Student Court sit on the Court or participate in its decisions.

3. The Student Court may determine the rules of its proceedings and punish its members for disorderly conduct; and with the concurrence of two-thirds of the membership it may expel a member, subject to approval by two-thirds of the Student Council members present.

4. The Student Court shall convene regularly at least twice in every month on such day as its members may appoint. understanding.

Dr. Paul McClosky, a local physician who is an alumnus of the University of Tampa and president of the alumni, presented the scrolls to the honored guests.

Griffin Main Speaker

Dr. Martin I. J. Griffin, professor of psychology was the principle speaker at the dinner. He said that it was his assigned "task to measure us against what we ought to be."

"I believe," he said, "We ought to be that kind of a university which best satisfies the nature and the needs of man." But, he said the University of Tampa should not attempt to ape the state universities and dole out things as a drug store does whenever a customer requests them. He said he was not in favor of constructin "an Ivory Tower of liberal learning with walls so high that the work-a-day world outside cannot find anything to interest it or serve it.

Cites Needs

Dr. Griffin asked, "What kind of a university have we now?" And then answered his own question with "We lack many things—buildings, books, courses." He further stated that "Each of us can compile his own list of things we need."

Smiling, the speaker said, "Most of all, I think, we need a couple of rich donors!"

Serious once again, he said the university was by no means poor, because it has many assets. Among those he mentioned were a hard core of earnest trustees, a faculty which is loyal and eager to teach and a genuinely liberal teaching atmosphere—true academic freedom.

Another Asset

Another important asset he said concerned the student body. They too, are loyal, Dr. Griffin remarked, and cited an example of their devotion the "students who begged from door-to-door in a tincup campaign in order to raise the University's required $500,000 endowment."

He quoted one of Dr. Nance's phrases, "Dedicated to the cultivation of the intellectual life," and said the statement can only mean a liberal education. Dr. Griffin said that learning which is purely liberal does not seem very practical, not in this world of materialism, vocationalism, and the anti-intellectual.

The professor emphasized the point that it is not the place for the trustees, teachers and as lovers

TODAY'S QUIZ

WHAT MAKES A LUCKY TASTE BETTER?

"IT'S TOASTED" to taste better!

A Lucky tastes better for two important reasons: 1. Lucky Strike means fine tobacco...light, mild, good-tasting tobacco.

2. That tobacco is toasted to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' fine tobacco... makes it taste even better—cleaner, fresher, smoother.

That's why a Lucky tastes better. And naturally, better taste is why thousands of college students prefer Luckies to all other brands.

So, enjoy better taste. Be Happy—Go Lucky!

of the university to follow, but rather for their responsibility to lead.

Belief Untrue

A stand, he continued, should be made against the belief that every religion, every social creed, every nation is as good as every other. Belief in everything is belief in nothing," he said, and added, "We must believe fiercely-single-heartedly in those things which are important to us; only then can we accord to others the dignity of their own integrity in their beliefs. Only then can we be truly tolerant. Tolerance is not the same thing as indifference."

A charge has been made in the market-places, the professor went on, that the ideals of the universities are "unrealistic." This challenge, Dr. Griffin believes, should be fought ever ounce of strength the universities can muster because, in his words, "For us, for mankind, for the world, it would be catastrophic if we were 'realistic' in the sense of providing only that kind of education which is immediately practical, occupational, and utilitarian."

Realistic Dream

Continuing in this same line of thought, Dr. Griffin stated "We in the universities, charged with the presentation of all those ideals and cultural achievements so painfully wrought be man since he first stood erect amid the primeval slime, must be 'unrealistic' that we may be realistic enough to prevent man from exercising his ape-like proclivity for knocking down that which he has builded."

The hopes and aims he spoke of may be but a dream at the moment because of the tremendous odds against them, the professor said. However, he thinks it is a great dream and concluded his address with, "We can, by holding our own ideals, make for ourselves, our students and our university, a land where dreams come true."

Other Speakers

Several other speakers were introduced and made short talks. Mr. Morris E. White, member of the Board of Trustees spoke very briefly on the subject of a "Faith Table" and remarked that he wanted to assure those before him that the Board have the highest hope for the continued progress, greater development and service of the university.

Also present at the speakers table was Mr. George Felke, president of the student body. He said that the students in addition to the Board of Trustees, also have the institution uppermost in their minds and that the university will always have the confidence and loyal support of the student body.

Founded at Miami

Delta Zeta was founded at Miami University, October 24, 1902.

Miami University was already advanced in history and tradition when in 1892 she first accepted women into her normal department only.

It was another ten years before women could receive full college training side by side with the men students; and so 1902, the founding date of Delta Zeta, marks the entrance into Miami of women of a certain pioneer stamp.

The entire list of college activities as known to Miami women of today, dates from 1902, and the founders of Delta Zeta were among the early women who formed and guided the Y.W.C.A., the literary societies and other college organizations.

Each women's activity in Miami of that day knew their attention and the DZ influence.

NETTERS WIN FIRST VICTORY OF SEASON

A win hungry Spartan net quad copped its first victory of the season Wednesday, downing the Stetson Hatters 4 to 1 at the Davis Islands tennis court.

Tampa players winning their single matches were Bill Dawson, Al Cazin, Ben fielding, and Mark-Ryan.

Rain halted the doubles matches with Ryan and Dawson as teammates who were ahead of the Hatters when time was called because of the weather. Ted Greene, playing his singles match was also interrupted by the intermittent rain.

Agree to Cease Play

Had not the matches been stopped because of the rain, it is probable that Tampa would have scored wins in the Dawson-Ryan game as well as the singles Greene was in. Several times during the afternoon, both sides agreed to a temporary halt in play because of the downpours.

In downing the Hatters, the Spartans won their first game of the season and played the last one at the same time. This was a sweet victory for Tampa U. as earlier in the season the local squad was defeated by the Stetson netters 7-2.

Other players taking part in the season's play were Art Savoie and Tony Scionti. The Tampa tennis team was coached by Athletic Director and Head Coach Marcelino Huerta, assisted by Paul Straub.

BEHIND THE SPORTS DESK

by HANK DI STEFANO

After copping second place in the state meet last Saturday, the University of Tampa crew team will be seeking higher laurels tomorrow when they row in the famous Dad Vail Regatta in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. The Tampa crewmen proved that they will be a definite threat in the classy Regatta by virtue of their surprise performance in the state meet last Saturday at Lakeland, Florida. Though the Spartans led the race part of the way, they were overtaken by the strong Rollins "Tars", winners of the annual state classic. Both Tampa and Rollins will compete for the Dad Vail crown in the city of brotherly love tomorrow.

The "Spartan" rowmen, who were topped by about 15 feet by the winning "Tars," were followed by the Florida Southern "Moccasins" in the state race.

The Dad Vail Regatta will find stiff competition with some of the top crew teams in the country competing for top honors, but the "Spartans", coached by Bill Stalnaker, with the state race in mind, will be a determined, high-spirited outfit and will furnish stiff competition themselves.

Here's wishing them the best of luck from all the students at the University of Tampa, for tomorrow's important classic.

The University of Tampa athletic department has announced the opening of the season tickets for the coming football season. This column would like to urge ALL students to join hands with the athletic department and really put this sale across. For the benefit of the students who do not know the price of the season tickets, it will be 12.50 for seven home games. Any student knowing a prospective buyer, have him contact the business manager at the athletic department, Mr. Paul Straub, and I am sure he will be taken care of immediately.

FORMER ATHLETES STAR IN NEW ROLES

It seems that former outstanding athletes of T.U. are finding prominent places in politics and civic government.

Sheriff Ed Blackburn, Jr., attended Tampa U. when it was still a junior college and played on the first football team. He played guard in 1932 and excelled in all types of athletics.

Rudy Rodriguez, newly elected Commissioner of Hillsboro County, was a top-flight basketball player and lettered in track. He won all-state recognition and was the finest running back in football.

Tom Johnson, State Representative of Hillsboro County, was a cheer leader. Crockett Farnell, School Superintendent of Hillsboro County, was a star football player. Clare Pittman, former Representative, who also ran for State Senator, also was a football player. Dr. Paul McClosky, prominent Tampa doctor played both football and basketball.

Others prominent in athletics were Oris Beynon, who is now Captain of the City Detectives, and Joe Carr and Fred Barksdale, who are law enforcement officers of the State Beverage Department.

A strong University of Tampa crew team came close to capturing the State College Championship Race but were nosed out in the last quarter of the race by the Rollins College Tars.

Florida Southern finished third, a length and a half behind the Spartan crew. The Tampa crew gained revenge for two defeats by the Mocs in dual meets.

Spartans Take Early Lead

Tampa led from the start to near the finish of the mile and five-sixteenth race on Lake Parker and Southern was always third. Tampa pulled out in front by a length at the first quarter and held that lead over Rollins at the half, with Southern about another length back.

At the three-quarter marker Rollins had cut down the Spartans lead to a quarter of a length. Then Rollins picked up its stroke from 35 to 38 and shot ahead of our boys, who were rowing at a 37 beat.

FSC Jr's Win

The Moccasins of Lakeland won the JV race with Tampa second and Rollins Tars third.

The time for the main race was 6 minutes 37.1 seconds and for the JV race was 7 minutes and 5 seconds.

Tampa in Dad Vail Regatta

The University of Tampa will be pitted against the finest of competition in the Dad Vail Regatta on Saturday in Philadelphia including Rollins and Florida Southern.

This race will end the season for the Spartans.
